Who are my friends

Group composition by personality type

Who are my friends?

The question sounds simple ... but it is complicated, and psychology experts still don't have an answer.
So: We must help ourselves.

Topic: Justice. Humans and relations. Selforganization. Group composition. Stable groups. Tribalism. Small states. Decentralization. Primitive culture. Natural order. Offline Peer-to-peer networks.

Target group: People with a future. Farmers and soldiers.

Technical terms: Human Resource Management. Matchmaking Algorithm. Interpersonal Compatibility [1]. Team Composition [2].

My theses:

1. Every human needs four friends and four common friends.
2. These friends fulfill a certain pattern, the Pallas pattern.
Friends are next to each other in straight directions.
Common friends are diagonal in groups of four.
3. The Pallas pattern applies to all people.
4. People are different according to:
gender, age, personality type.
5. Personality type equals inner gender times inner age.

So ... Who are my friends?

Only a few worldviews provide an answer, for example astrology and socionics make predictions about the compatibility between personality types. But that is too imprecise for me. I am looking for a mathematically exact system, to explain and predict voluntary relations.

TODO I am looking for a "holistic" theory to apply in work and private life. One weakness of organizational psychology is its limitation to work life. because "interfering in privacy is unprofessional"...

So, "Who are my friends?", or in other words: How do we have to connect different people, so that everyone is happy? "Different people" means above all: people with different personality types.

Synonyms: Personality Type, Subjective World View, Subjective Truth, Inner Values, Taste, Humor, Talent, Temperament.

Pallas Pattern

Who are my friends? My answer is the Pallas pattern:

The Pallas pattern shows 16 people from above. Each circle is a human. Abbreviations: MF = Male Female. SL = Small Large = young old. 1234 = four personality types. (I will explain the four types later.)

I believe: if a personality type lives in the right body, then I find that type likeable.

... that is my core thesis. So another human is compatible with me, if his body and mind fulfill certain properties. (spirit = personality type = inner values.)

Additionally, we need a common language, but compatibility is the most important foundation for any good relation.

On the other side, if a personality type lives in the wrong body, then I find that type wrong, sick, stupid, annoying, draining ...

Personal reasons are more important than objective reasons. Causes are more important than symptoms. Feelings are stronger than thoughts. Thoughts are merely rationalizations of feelings = instincts = tendencies. The best medicine is useless or harmful if it comes from a wrong doctor.

Subjective truth: Which body is "right"? Which properties are "correct"? This is always relative to my body and mind.

Where does the Pallas pattern come from?

Experience and symmetry. I found my personality type (basetype 1, subtype 4). Then I estimated the personality types of my family, friends and neighbors, always asking "Who do I like? Who do I dislike?" or "Who fits together? Who has always conflict?" When in doubt, I took the "nicer" solution (symmetry, stripe pattern and hexagon pattern), and at some point, I had the Pallas pattern.

Friends are close, enemies are distant

The Pallas pattern shows friends and enemies. When two people stand next to each other, they are friends. If two people are further apart, then they are enemies.

Enemies need mutual friends for healthy coexistence (social health, healthy group). When two enemies live together, there are always misunderstandings, and everyone automatically thinks everything the other one says and does is shit (personal reasons), no matter how well the other one does his job (factual reasons). Zarathustra: "I am not the mouth for these ears."

The Faith Question: False: "What do I believe?" Correct: "Who do I trust?"

Synonyms: Real friends, spiritual closeness, spirit relatives, soulmates, attraction, beauty, sympathy, compatibility, ...

What happens at the edge of the Pallas pattern? The pattern is simply repeated, like a stamp or tile pattern (tessellation).

Line 5 equals line 1: F1L M2L F4L M3L.

Column 5 equals column 1: F1L F2S F3L F4S.

Each human in the Pallas pattern has 4 friends: 2 friends in the horizontal direction (same age), 2 friends in the vertical direction (same gender).

Squares and Crosses: There are 2 different groups of four in the Pallas pattern. Each cross group has all 4 types: 1-3-2-4. Each square group has only 2 types: 1-2-1-2 or 3-4-3-4. The lines in the Pallas pattern always connect the opposite types (1-2 and 3-4).

Names for the Pallas pattern: Friend Map, map of friends, pattern for relations, mixed culture for people, family constellation, compatibility pattern by personality type, Compatibility Chart for Personality Types, ...

Mathematical description for the Pallas pattern: Irregular tessellation of square and irregular 90-135 hexagon. Tessellation, tiling means: a small basic pattern is repeated in all directions. Irregular hexagon with two 90 degree angles and four 135 degree angles: I call it Pallas hexagon, because this hexagon is created on the edge of the Pallas symbol. This exact hexagon is also in the logo the chemical company "F. Hoffmann-La Roche AG", as a reference to hexagons in organic chemistry.

Better world

I hope the Pallas pattern is true for everyone. If it is true, then the Pallas pattern is a basis for a better world: friends are close, enemies are distant, everyone is allowed to live out his strengths, everyone is allowed to delegate his weaknesses to his friends.

Pallas symbol

Why is it called "Pallas"? Well, the symbol is called Pallas. The connection between diamond and cross.

To me it is a symbol for type F4: female = cross = crossed-out penis, type 4 = diamond. Maybe pallas is a feminine form of phallus, penis.

A meaning of the Pallas symbol: spear, lance, javelin, pike. A primitive weapon. The diamond is the tip, the cross is the handle. See appendix: Greek Mythology (page 102)

Alternative representations of the Pallas pattern

The disadvantage of these representations is that they require higher resolution. The Pallas symbol is similar to the Venus symbol ♀. I deliberately did not choose a circle, but a square so you can see: the Pallas key connects seven points.

Round lines

Double bonds and single bonds

Four Dimensions

Sounds complex, but its not. The 16 types have four dimensions: 2 power 4 is 16. Just here it is more visible than in the compact representation. 1234 = PE NI NE PI. The names are from Hans Eysenck: P = Psychotic, N = Neurotic. E = Extravert, I = Introvert.

Here we also see the symmetries of the different values.

Outer values (MFSL) create a stripe-pattern. Inner values (PNEI) create a hexagon-pattern (honeycomb, circle). (Hint: Connect all N in the image.)

Gender (MFPN) and age (SLEI) are always orthogonal (90 degrees, linear independent).

Contents

The focus is on my hypothesis, my answer to the question:

Who are my friends?

My target group are children and laypeople, so I also explain the context my hypothesis: What are hypotheses? What is science? What is The Scientific Method? What is truth? What are lies? How does fraud work?

The most important application of my hypothesis is self-organization, building groups, building small states. Here too I explain the context: What are large states? What are the disadvantages of security policy? What is natural order?

Then come thousand distractions... but the important question is:

Who are my friends?

Active reading

Reading is the most important thing you learn in school. Then you can learn everything else yourself. For learning you need active reading:

Underline important words. (Yes you can, it is your text.)

Write down volatile thoughts immediately, before you forget them again. (This is why there is a white border, or your diary.)

Read again sentences you don't understand. Decipher words you don't understand. Take regular breaks: move around or lie down.

Reading is also subjective: Types 24 want to read "linearly", read exactly once from Aah to Zett. Types 13 read more chaotically, are more easily distracted, and have less patience.

Feedback

If you want to publish your comments, please do it early and often. In computer programming we say: "release early, release often." It is not just about me or about "my" book. Maybe we all can learn something from you.

If you want to do this anonymously, then see the "Help wanted" section on page 44.

Hypothesis

The Pallas pattern is just a hypothesis, a research proposal. I give you no guarantee that it will work. Is the Pallas pattern right or wrong? How can we find out? To do this we have to do an experiment. Anyone can publish results on my websites (Github, Codeberg, Darktea, ...). (Yes, also negative results.)

Unfortunately, I can not do a simulation, or solve the problem "in my head", because here I am looking for fundamental principles (axioms, highest truths), and there are no rational reasons behind it, only my personal reason: "I believe that my hypothesis is true."

A hypothesis is correct, if it can explain many phenomena (realities), and does not produce any contradictions (freedom of contradictions). That is why negative feedback (contradictions, "it does not work") is just as important as positive feedback ("it works").

A hypothesis is not yet correct, if it is only "consistent", if it only "looks good from the inside". Such a consistent hypothesis looks good on paper, but still needs to be tested ("trial by fire", testing is better than studying).

Alternative hypotheses

1. there is no "pattern for relations" and all people are compatible, so random relations are just as good and stable as the "compatible" relations in the pattern.
2. this pattern is wrong, but there is another pattern. You are welcome to suggest a different pattern, then we can try different patterns and compare them.
3. "Everyone must decide for himself." The rulers of this world are only interested in the highest levels of their system (top-down organization), while the lowest levels (bottom-up organization) are seemingly neglected ("everyone must decide for himself", privacy, nuclear family, "freedom" to choose between shit and shit), but in reality: The rulers of this world actively sabotage the lowest levels (relationship control, atomization, dumbification) because they fear a loss of control, because the world is ruled by control freaks = totalitarians = Type 4.

Truth Matrix

First impressions are cheap and only give a rough estimate. Belief. Opinion. Screening. Idea. Suspicion. Indication. Feeling. Intuition.

Second impressions are expensive and give an accurate assessment. Knowledge. Proof. Test. Experiment. Strict. Exact. Reality.

In other words: "true positive" = "risk and win", "false negative" = "avoid and loose", etc.

Experiment

The experiment must be cheap, so every human can reproduce (repeat) the experiment. There will always be people who do not yet know this theory. These people need a cheap way to test the theory. These people only must "believe" in the hypothesis for the experiment. The experiment should be clearly limited in time. Example: for one day. When the experiment is over, the hypothesis is invalid again.

Ideally, you should always be skeptical about all suggestions, recommendations, suggestions ... because: Strictly speaking, these are all just hypotheses that each group of humans has to test for itself (division of labor between feeling and knowing = research and production).

Example of a non-reproducible experiment: life after death. Every human can do this experiment (dying) exactly once, so it can not be reproduced. In other words: Once is never. One time is no time.

Also important: control groups. "Do it wrong." You can only measure the quality of relations if you have tried "right" and "wrong" relations. So: You must try both and only when looking back you can say: one was better, the other was worse. Measurements are always relative. Testing is better than studying.

Pallas Experiment

How does this Experiment work? We must connect people like in the Pallas pattern. These bonds must be voluntary. A matchmaker (mediator) can make suggestions, but every human can say "no", or make suggestions himself (talking or showing), or work as a matchmaker himself (flat hierarchy).

Levels

Level Zero	$2^0 = 1$	One humans
Level One	$2^1 = 2$	Two humans
Level Two	$2^2 = 4$	Four humans
Level Three	$2^3 = 8$	Eight humans
Level Four	$2^4 = 16$	16 humans
Level Five	$2^5 = 32$	32 humans
Level Six	$2^6 = 64$	64 humans
Level Seven	$2^7 = 128$	128 humans
Level Eight	$2^8 = 256$	256 humans

Groups of Two

Step one is to form groups of two (pairs).

Example: M1S-F3S.

Step two is switching between groups of two (squares).

Example: M1S-F3S-F2L-M4L.

Groups of two are easy. You have something in common, and you can gossip about "the others". "The two of us against the rest of the world". Problem: Over time, every couple becomes one-sided and looks for balance. Solution: groups of four. But our goal is NOT to build blood-related small families ("we have two children"), but rather to build spiritually related small families ("we are looking for common friends", child adoption, spiritual reproduction, smart solution).

Groups of four

Groups of four are a little more complicated. In the Pallas pattern, the four people stand in a square (static), but in the real world the following applies: the groups of four always split into two pairs, because only "in private" one can be free (not feel like being watched). The couples always change, because in the long run, every couple becomes one-sided and looks for balance (group dynamics, partner exchange).

"Swapping partners" sounds like sex, but that is not what I mean. Each group of four is a spiritually related small family: Son Mother Daughter Father = MS FL FS ML = 2 men + 2 women = 2 young + 2 old. There are 3 ways to form pairs: horizontal vertical diagonal.

Example: Group of four M1S-F3S-F2L-M4L. Horizontal pairs: M1S-F3S and M4L-F2L = son-daughter and father-mother = same age. Vertical pairs: M1S-M4L and F3S-F2L = son-father and daughter-mother = same gender. Diagonal pairs: M1S-F2L and F3S-M4L = son-mother and daughter-father = same diagonal.

Partner exchange

How exactly does partner exchange work? I don't know that yet, and we will see in the experiment. I believe: Groups of four always "oscillate" between horizontal pairs and vertical pairs.

TODO beauty is subjective. Compatibility = beauty = attraction.

Here I show people as puzzle pieces. Female connector = introvert subtype = Subtypen 24. Male connector = extravert subtype = Subtypen 13. The bonds are "monolog bonds": one bond partner is "watching and talking" (invisible and deaf), the other bond partner is "listening and showing" (mute and blind).

Role reversal

How to do role reversal? In every group of two:

One is active = speaker = viewer. One is passive = listener = shower.

When partners are reversed, also roles are reversed:

active becomes passive, speaker becomes listener, viewer becomes shower.

These two roles (active and passive) correspond to the two subtypes.

Goal: Everyone should live out his two subtypes.

Both subtypes are equally important.

Influence and trust

The active partner has influence over the passive partner.

The passive partner trusts the active partner.

Conversely:

The active partner does not trust the passive partner.
The passive partner has no influence on the active partner.

Active	Passive
Influence	Trust
Leader	Follower
Decider	Believer
Speaker →	Listener
Viewer	← Shower

Subtype and partner

I believe: There is a connection between subtype and partner. This connection goes in both directions (bidirectional): A specific subtype acts as a mating call for a specific partner. And the other way around: A specific partner (mate presence) activates a specific subtype.

I believe: Few people have a balance between their 2 subtypes. Most people are "specialized" in one subtype (strength, more experience), and the other subtype is weaker.

I don't yet know whether and how the diagonal pairs work. Diagonal pairs: MS-FL and FS-ML.

Subtype and same basetype

Subtype of same basetypes. Example: Two F3 live together. The two types are not compatible, so they will push away each other over their subtypes: F301 and F302. TODO graphic with subtypes. If these two people have different ages, then they may have a "weak bond." Example: F3L and F3S → F302L and F301S. The subtypes form a right angle. Bond to subtype: F301S binds to the F2L subtype of F302L. If both already have the same subtype, before they come together, then they are even less compatible because they are too similar (competition or standstill, both are active or both are passive).

Groups of Eight

Step three is switching between groups of four. The Pallas pattern shows 2 different groups of four: crosses and squares. Crosses connect all 4 types. Squares connect only 2 types (example: 1-2-1-2).

Pallas key

The combination of cross and square is called Pallas, or Pallas key. It is a combination of opposites (Latin: conjunctio oppositorum), like "day and night". The Pallas Key connects 7 points (lucky number 7). Therefore: Me and my six friends.

Cross groups and square groups

What is the difference between cross groups and square groups? I don't know that yet, and we will see in the experiment. I believe: Crosses are better during the day (day order, work, work colleagues, teamwork, dressed, activity). Squares are better at night (night order, family, sex, private, naked, rest). Why? I myself am M1 and my 2 women are F2 and F3 (same age). For me: F2 is better for fucking and sleeping (night), F3 is better for talking and working (day).

This change between day order and night order we already know from the change between sleeping place (family) and work place (friends). Animals also make two "animal commutings" between sleeping places and food places every day.

Square groups

What is the difference between the two square groups?

What do Types 12 have in common? (Say: Types One Two.) Both are orthogonal, right-angled. Type 1 has "wide top, long bottom", type 2 has "long top, wide bottom". So the "combination of opposites" in one body. I believe: This means that Types 12 have a complex world view (two-dimensional, logic, egoists, individualists, narcissists, low agreeableness, argumentativeness, lone fighters). Types 34 (say: Types Three Four) only achieve this complexity through mating (pair of Type 3 and Type 4), but "inner dialog" of Types 12 is always more efficient than "external dialog" between Type 3 and Type 4.

What do types 34 have in common? (Say: Types Three Four.) Both are "parallel". Type 3 has "wide top, wide bottom", type 4 has "long top, long bottom". I believe: This means that types 34 have a simple world view (one-dimensional, graphics, altruists, collectivists, high agreeableness, addiction to harmony, team sports). Types 34 only achieve a complex worldview through mating (pair of Type 3 and Type 4), or in the cross groups (when connected to Type 12), through "external dialog" with other types.

Same or different? "Same and same" or "opposites attract"? Both.

Helen Fisher has done some research into stable couple relations. TODO verify: Result: Types 12 marry the opposite type. Types 34 marry the same type. So we have 4 stable pairs: M1-F2, M2-F1, M3-F3, M4-F4. The Pallas pattern says: Types 12 marry at the same age. Types 34 marry different ages.

Linear groups of four

So far I have only described "circular" groups of four, which are visible as "circles" in the Pallas pattern, namely the "cross groups" and the "square groups". As a reminder: Each cross group has all 4 types: 1-3-2-4. Each square group has only 2 types: 1-2-1-2 or 3-4-3-4.

But the Pallas pattern is repeated at the edge, so you can form new circles from the lines in the pattern, as if you were rolling the flat Pallas pattern into a three-dimensional roll.

Same age

The line F1L-M2L-F4L-M3L is repeated as F1L-M2L-F4L-M3L-F1L-M2L-F4L-M3L-... so you can make this line into a circle:

Same sex

The line F1L-F2S-F3L-F4S is repeated as F1L-F2S-F3L-F4S-F1L-F2S-F3L-F4S-... so you can make this line into a circle:

Basis for the Pallas Pattern is personality psychology. So: Putting people in boxes. This part of psychology is ancient, easily 2000 years old, and has been very well studied.

Quasi-consensus: There are four personality types [1]. New names are constantly being invented for these four types, so every author has his own namespace.

Each namespace has its own descriptions of the four types. For translation between 2 namespaces I read the descriptions and ask: Which descriptions are similar? This is how I get my translation table of the four types.

Who is who?

Who has which personality type? This is a weak-spot in my theory. My theory only works if we measure the types correctly. So at least in the beginning I would prefer people, where I can easily measure the type.

So: who is who? I see this in body shape and behavior.

Easy to see are "fat" people (type 3) and "thin" people (type 4).

Type 3 people can gain weight quickly (gaining fat and muscle), especially if they eat lots of carbohydrates, and can only lose this weight slowly (LCHF diet, keto diet). Type 3 people survive harsh climates, continental climates, long cold winters, survive for several weeks without food (long fasting period).

Type 4 people can only gain weight slowly (hard gainers) (can eat lots of carbohydrates but don't get fat) and lose this weight quickly. Type 4 people need a mild climate, oceanic climate, short warm winters, have to eat every day (short fasting period).

Type 1 and Type 2 have similar bodies, both are "naturally athletic", have medium weight, can gain and lose weight (with some effort), prefer temperate climates (between oceanic climate and continental climate). Type 1 and Type 2 differ more in behavior (want to fight, dualism).

[1] en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Two-factor\_models\_of\_personality

Type 1 is more bossy, dominant, grandiose (grandiose narciss), over-confident, "masculine", proud, bold, arrogant, aggressive, strong opinions, self-esteem, light, curious, risk, freedom.

Type 2 is more submissive, subordinate, vulnerable (vulnerable narciss), polite, fearful, defensive, conformist, passive, weak opinions, self-doubt, value from others, shadow, patience, security.

Body Shape

You can also estimate types based on body shape (physiognomy, morpho-psychology, profiling, first impression): face shape (wide face = 3, long face = 4), hand shape (wide joints = 3, long fingers = 4), fingernails (TODO verify: long nailbeds = types 14, short nailbeds = types 23), nosetip (double tip or square tip = types 34, round tip = types 12), ... but there are always contradictions here, and I collect as much information as possible for a "holistic" picture.

Stress response

Behavior shows type through typical stress response.

This test works even for small children. You need a stress that is clearly defined in time, so the stress needs a clear start and end.

Stress reveals differences of people. Anyone who tries to hide these differences, also suppresses every form of stress (pacifism, tyranny of boredom, patience is everything), creating the illusion "we are all equal".

The Strange Situation

Mother leaves child (start of stress), mother comes back (end of stress).

How does the test work? You observe the child at the start and end of stress.

At the start of stress you ask: When does the child start crying? Early or late? The "exciting early" children (type 13) start crying earlier, the "exciting late" children (type 24) suppress the stress (patience) and start crying later (the reaction is inhibited, suppressed, postponed, saved, delayed, procrastinated).

When the stress ends, ask: When does the child stop crying? Early or late? The "calming early" children (types 14) stop crying earlier, the "calming late" children (types 23) maintain the reaction (steadiness, continue crying, continue fighting) and stop crying later.

TODO Types 14 can calm down faster alone? (self-secure) Types 23 need help from others to calm down? (dependent)

TODO graphic: square wave stress + stress response curves. "square wave" because stress must be clearly defined in time = start + end of stress. 4 stress response curves = 4 body shapes! like fish: we swim head first: first the upper body ("inner age"), then the lower body ("inner gender"). like animals: torso lies horizontally when walking on 4 legs.

This typical stress response can also be seen in adults, but the childish crying is replaced by other stress responses, and the subtype shifts the behavior (but never to the opposite, for example a type 3 human will never react the same way as a type 4 human).

Test questions: Is the stress response acted out ("exciting early") or repressed ("exciting late")? Is the stress response short ("calming early") or long ("calming late")?

Elements

Psychologists used these names 2000 years ago in ancient Greece.

1. Animal	3. Bird	and	1. Fire	3. Air
I am a			my element is
4. Fish	2. Plant		4. Water	2. Earth

... the translations for types 234 are simple, but why "1 = Fire = Animal"? Because "animal" is the opposite of "plant".

Or: 1234 = animal plant human spirit.

Numbers: For me the numbers are important because I can use them to describe the types extremely compact, with just one symbol (important for the Pallas pattern). I can also show the numbers 1234 with my 4 fingers (Roman numerals: I II III IIII). Why these numbers? Simple world view: Radius 1 = planet core = magma, volcanoes, fire. Radius 2 = planet mantle = earth, stones. Radius 3 = Air = colorless, transparent, yellow sun. Radius 4 = water = blue sky. (The sun is yellow because the sky is blue = contrast.) (The sky is blue, because blue photons have shorter waves, hit air molecules more often, are scattered more widely than red/yellow/green photons.)

1. One	3. Three
0. Zero
4. Four	2. Two

TODO move. The "outter age" is relative and is based on feeling. In other words: you are as old as you feel. So: I can only ever state my age relative to someone else. I don't ask "How old are you?" but I estimate: Is he younger/same age/older than me?

Colors

Colors: Bodyshape-affirming dress colors. Natural dress code.

1. Black	3. Black	1. White	3. Black
top dress		bottom dress
4. White	2. White	4. White	2. Black

Why black and white? Black and tight dresses go well with a wide body-half (black makes you slim, tight fit). White and wide dresses go well with a long body-half (white makes you fat, baggy style). Why? Contrast between body and dress. Contrast between nature and art.

You can also wear "wrong" colors, but that looks "tasteless" (bad taste) to sensitive eyes.

1. Yellow	3. Red	1. Blue	3. Green
top dress		bottom dress
4. Green	2. Blue	4. Red	2. Yellow

Why these colors? Clothes are artificial, in contrast to the body (nature).

For Types 12: Red-green are natural colors (inner colors: red = Type 1, green = Type 2), yellow-blue are artificial colors. So Types 12 prefer wearing yellow or blue clothes, or voting for yellow or blue political parties (flag colors).

For Types 34: yellow-blue are natural colors (inner colors: yellow = Type 3, blue = Type 4), red-green are artificial colors. So Type 34 prefer wearing red or green clothes, or voting for red or green political parties (flag colors).

1. Red	3. Yellow
Inner color
4. Blue	2. Green

Why these "inner colors"? 2 = Plant = Green. 4 = Water = Blue. 1 is the opposite of 2, red is the opposite of green (opposite colors mix to black or white). 3 is the opposite of 4, yellow is the opposite of blue.

Colors: Top or bottom?

Why is color X on top? Why is color Y at the bottom? The upper dress color is the inner-color of the type with the same upper-body. The lower dress color is the inner-color of the type with the same lower-body.

Example: Types 13 have broad upper-bodies. Types 14 have long lower-bodies. So: Type 1 his upper-body dress-color is the inner-color of type 3 (yellow). Type 1 his lower-body dress-color is the inner-color of type 4 (blue).

1. Black-yellow	3. Black-red top dress
4. White-green	2. White-blue

1. White-blue	3. Black-green
4. White-red	2. Black-yellow

Body shapes

I see four body shapes: 1234 = Heart Pear Wide Long. Basics: William Sheldon: 1234 = meso meso endo ecto-morph. Elliot Abravanel: 1234 = Thyroid Gonad Adrenal Pituitary.

Too superficial? Some people are surprised when I claim: I can read inner values (personality type) from body shape. "Just because I am fat does not mean I must be type 3!" Hmmm. Why not? Why make it complex when it can be simple?

My first impression is the body shape, I can see it 100 meters before an encounter. But I see the type only in some people at first sight ... other people I have to observe longer (speech, behavior, stress response).

I also have a slightly different definition between body and mind = coarse structure and fine structure = external values (gender and age) and inner values (personality type, inner gender and inner age). So the "inner" values are not completely hidden, but are only less visible than the "outer" values.

Inferring body shape from inner values is known as physiognomy or morpho-psychology. If you have too much time, you can read some studies about it ...

1. Heart	3. Wide
Body Shape
4. Long	2. Pear

1. Top 3. Outside

Cylinder geometry
4. Inside	2. Bottom

Type 1: Heart shape, strong arms, strong upper-back, weak legs, weak lower-back, Boxer, TODO more

Type 2: pear shape, strong legs, strong lower-back, weak arms, weak upper-back, wrestler (Greek wrestling), TODO more

Type 3: short bones, wide joints, symmetrical face, symmetrical fat distribution, shot putter (weight-thrower), sprinter, kickboxer, MMA (mixed martial arts), Easy Gainer + Hard Loser, tendency to over-weight ("broiler chicken"), slow metabolism (low metabolic rate), TODO more types 12: straight fingers. Types 34: pointed fingers.

Eating

Diet is often misunderstood as "eating less" (N = quaNtity), but here I mean "eating different" (L = quaLity). Each type needs his macronutrient ratio: Carbs Fat Protein = CFP. Here are the mass ratios in grams or ounces, relative to 100:

3. CFP =	30	25	45	grams
12. CFP =	50	15	35	grams
4. CFP =	60	10	30	grams

Here are the energy ratios in calories or joules, relative to 100:

3. CFP =	25	40	35	Calories
12. CFP =	40	30	30	Calories
4. CFP =	55	20	25	Calories

Nutrient deficiency: As a general rule, you can say: Most people eat too little protein (protein is expensive) and too few micronutrients (vitamins, minerals, fiber). This nutrient deficiency has many symptoms: thin hair, brittle nails, over-weight, diseases, low stress tolerance, ...

Basic food: My solution to the "nutrient deficiency problem" is a basic food that has all the nutrients I need. For example the "Huel" powder: oat flakes, peas, flaxseeds, coconut fat, lecithin, vitamins, minerals, flavor, salt.

 Disadvantages: no chewing, powder stays between teeth, taste is boring in the long run, no meat. Disadvantage: Huel is not regional: packaging in England, oatmeal from England, peas from Canada and China, rice from China, flaxseed from Canada, coconut oil from Indonesia and China, lecithin from India.

Example: Type 3 should eat:

30 grams of carbs + 25 grams of fat + 45 grams of protein.

This is the "Low-Carb High-Fat (High-Protein)" (LCHF) diet.

"Low fat" products are for type 4. Type 4 people can digest less fat than other types.

In the fitness world, macronutrients are usually declared as energy ratios in calories or joules. Type 3: CFP = 25:40:35 Cal. Types 12: CFP = 40:30:30 Cal. Type 4: CFP = 55:20:25 Cal.

Example: Type 3: 25% of the energy-requirement is carbohydrates, 40% of the energy-requirement is fat, 35% of the energy-requirement is protein.

Example energy-requirement: 2000 KiloCalories per day for: 60 kg body weight, age 20-30 years, with no physical activity (PAL factor 1.2).

To convert between mass and energy you need the energy-density: fat has 9 calories per gram (fat is a good energy-store). Carbs and protein have 4 calories per gram.

Smilies

Types 13 are optimistic, so the mouth-corners point up. Types 24 are pessimistic, so the mouth-corners point down. Types 14 are "tough-minded", looking evil. Types 23 are "tender-minded", looking friendly.

Subtypes with smilies: Subtypes always strengthen one property, and neutralize the other property. Example: Type 104 = basetype 1, subtype 4. Types 14 are both masculine, tough-minded, so Type 104 is "extremely masculine", so the eyes are "double evil". Type 1 is young, Type 4 is old, so Type 104 is "middle old", so the mouth is straight. So: Type 104 = )) : |.

The disadvantage of this representation: You can not distinguish between basetype and subtype, so Type 104 has the same smilie as Type 401. So these smilies can show only 8 types, but when we distinguish between basetype and subtype, then there are a total of 12 types (12 zodiac signs).

Main jobs

Our brain also has gender and age. Basis: Body shapes: 1234 = Heart Pear Wide Long. I say: Types 14 = Long lower-body = masculine. Types 23 = Wide lower-body = feminine. Also for behavior: Types 14 (tough-minded, psychotic, smart, free spirit) are more masculine. Types 23 (tender-minded, neurotic, strong, sociable) are more feminine. Upper body: Types 13 use their "young" brain more often (brain cortex, broad-first search). Types 24 use their "old" brain more often (brain stem, depth-first search). Therefore: Types 13 are "young". Types 24 are "old". So: Types 13 = young = wide upper-body. Types 24 = old = long upper-body.

1. Son	3. Daughter
Main job
4. Father	2. Mother

Stupid are always the others

As a Type 1, I say: Type 1 is smart, Type 2 is stupid, Types 34 are semi-smart: Type 3 is emotionally smart but rationally stupid, Type 4 is rationally smart but emotionally stupid.
Type 1 is rationally smart and emotionally smart.
Type 2 is rationally stupid and emotionally stupid.

1. Spiritual intelligence (SI)	3. Emotional intelligence (EI)
Intelligence
4. Rational intelligence (IQ)	2. Stupid

... or each type believes that his type is smart and all other types are stupid.

Basic Laws of Human Stupidity

Carlo M. Cipolla - The Basic Laws of Human Stupidity (1976): Law 3: "A stupid person is a person who causes losses to another person or to a group of persons, while himself deriving no gain, and even possibly incurring losses."

Type 1 = smart = helps himself and helps others.
Type 2 = stupid = harms himself and harms others.
Type 3 = perpetrator = bandit = helps himself and harms others.
Type 4 = victim = naive = harms himself and helps others.

1. Smart	3. Perpetrator
Intelligence
4. Victim	2. Stupid

... or intelligence and stupidity are primarily social phenomena: intelligent groups have an efficient division of labor: everyone lives his strengths and delegates his weakspots. Stupid groups have no division of labor: everyone pursues his own ego trip and they all lose.

No type

What do I do with people where I can not estimate the personality type? Then I go backwards from relations to types: "Show me your friends, and I tell you who you are." So I take other people whose personality type I know for sure ("textbook types"), and then I test: What relations are compatible?

Basetype is hereditary

Some children come after the mother.

Some children come after the father.

Maybe there are exceptions, for example: F3 and M3 have a Type 4 child. But mostly, basetype is hereditary.

Maybe the basetype can skip one generation, then the child comes after one of its four grandparents.

Who is the better educator? Who and who make a better match? What subtype does the child "choose"? My answers are in the Pallas pattern.

Body odor shows personality type

"Rub your genitals and let me sniff your fingers!" What?! Is this some sexual perversion? No. Crotch-sniffing is a reliable personality test. Just look at dogs... When two dogs meet, the first thing they do is to sniff each others genitals, to detect each others personality type and health status.

Stupid humans believe that personality type and health status are not relevant when judging other humans... instead we rely on superficial signals like "is he well-dressed" or "is he talking polite" or "is he acting polite" or ... but these superficial signals are easy to fake so our enemies can easily pretend that "we are friends". A principle of slave morality is that "all humans are friends". But how does that work out in reality? This is only helping our enemies...

Does Personality Smell

A study by Sorokowska et al (Does Personality Smell, 2011) explored whether human body odor can reveal aspects of personality. The researchers focused on the Big Five personality traits, and dominance, a trait closely related to extraversion. Dominance, in this context, captures assertiveness, leadership tendencies, and social confidence — so it's no surprise that dominance might "smell" similar to extraversion.

The study recruited 60 participants (30 men and 30 women) who wore clean, unscented T-shirts for three consecutive nights. 200 independent judges then smelled the shirts and rated them, trying to detect personality cues purely through scent.

Armpits or Genitals

The study focused on armpit odor — largely because humans have strong cultural taboos and irrational fears regarding genital odor. Most of us wouldn't dream of sniffing someone's underwear to judge their personality... even if that might provide a stronger and more reliable signal.

Compare this to dogs: when a dog meets another dog, the first thing he does is sniff the other dog's genitals. Not because dogs are "weird" or hypersexualized, but because they have extraordinary noses, and can extract a wealth of information from genital odor. A dog can tell whether another dog is dominant or subordinate, anxious or aggressive — essentially reading to other dog's personality type. This scent-based assessment informs whether the two animals will cooperate as friends or be rivals.

From an evolutionary standpoint, genital odor is a robust, natural signal of personality and compatibility. The armpit, while easier for humans to study, is a compromise born of our cultural inhibitions. One can imagine that testing genital odor, perhaps using freshly worn underpants as a proxy, could yield even stronger correlations with personality traits.

This kind of test could potentially bypass lengthy questionnaires like the Big Five or NEO-PI-R, providing a fast, direct readout of social compatibility. We could save ourselves the trouble of studying psychology because "let me smell your ass and I tell you who you are!"

Oral Sex and Compatibility

Interestingly, this idea resonates in human sexual behavior. Couples who are genuinely compatible — those with stable, long-term relationships — tend to enjoy oral sex more than incompatible pairs. This isn't just about sexual satisfaction: oral sex brings the nose close to a partner's genitals, providing an involuntary, subconscious sniff test. If one dislikes the genital odor, one's desire for oral contact — and perhaps the intensity of sexual bonding — diminishes. In this sense, human genital odor functions like the dog's sniff: a silent, chemical-based personality test. Unlike full sexual intercourse, it provides a low-risk, immediate signal of compatibility.

The hypothesis is striking in its simplicity: scent can inform friendship, attraction, and sexual bonding without conscious questionnaires or social performance.

Illegal research

Despite its potential, this "genital odor personality test" remains largely unexplored. Ethics committees would block studies that require participants to sniff each other's underwear in a controlled setting, even if scientifically sound. Cultural norms around modesty and personal space strongly limit research in this domain. (slave morality, ignorance, prejudice, confirmation bias, dogmatism, catholicism, idiocracy, ...)

Still, the Sorokowska 2011 study demonstrates that even with armpit odor, detectable correlations exist between body odor and personality traits such as extraversion (Types 13) and neuroticism (Types 23).

One can imagine that direct assessment of genital odor might amplify these correlations, providing a richer, more reliable signal.

Dogs as Role Model

Studying dogs offers a natural experiment in chemical personality detection. Dogs routinely sniff each other's genitals not to engage sexually but to assess dominance, health, and temperament. Humans, by contrast, have evolved complex social rituals to mask this primitive chemical communication. Yet the underlying biology remains: scent carries information about personality, compatibility, and social potential.

Sorokowska's work opens the door to considering how odor — culturally suppressed in humans — might still unconsciously shape attraction, friendship, and mating. The study hints at a fascinating possibility: our noses might know more about each other than our words ever could.

Inner Properties

Two-Factor Model of Personality → Four Types

Word fields are useful as personality tests. Both sides of a word field are objectively equivalent, but subjectively different. Question: Which side describes you better?

One property can be neutral, then the other property must be extreme.
Example: neutral age and extremely masculine = types 104 and 401. More on this later in the "Subtypes" chapter.

Word fields are better than tables with four types, because opposite words are easier to find than four-word groups.

Inner gender

Inner diagonal

The inner diagonal results from multiplying the inner gender and the inner age. This creates two groups again. The commonality in these groups is: Each type is the double opposite of the other type.

Types	12	34

	Egoists	Altruists
Sports	Individual sports	Team sports
William Sheldon	mesomorph	extramorph
weight class	middle-weight	extreme weight

Subtypes

In addition to the four types, psychologists also know subtypes. I believe: Every type has 2 subtypes. There are different names for these subtypes. Carl Jung: extravert ambivert introvert. Astrology: cardinal mutable fixed. The third subtype (ambivert, mutable) means: the 2 other subtypes are equally strong, the 2 other subtypes coexist in a dynamic equilibrium.

I describe the subtypes again with the four types 1234, but there is a zero between the basetype and the subtype. Example: 104 = basetype 1, subtype 4.

Translation: extravert subtype = cardinal modality = subtype is young (Types 13) = feels young, strong, active, awake, rising early, proud, high self-esteem, visible, likes to show off, courageous, risk-taking, attention-seeking, likes to be the center of attention, ...

introvert subtype = fixed modality = subtype is old (Types 24) = feels old, weak, passive, tired, rising late, ashamed, self-doubt, shy, hidden, defensive, avoid risk, avoid focus, avoid center, ...

Basetype or subtype

Differential diagnosis: If two types fit one human: Which type is the basetype? What type is the subtype? I use the body shape for this. Example: A human is a mix of type 1 and type 4. This human has the body shape "ectomorph" (long bones, narrow joints, ...), so this human is: basetype 4, subtype 1 = Type 401.

TODO exclusion of the opposite: which type fits the least?

Relative definition of subtypes

A "global" or "absolute" definition of subtypes is difficult, as with Carl Jung or astrology. Simpler is: Two "local" or "relative" definitions of subtypes: Types 12: Subtypes are types 34. Types 34: Subtypes are types 12.

TODO nature and art. Types 12 say: 12 is nature, 34 is art. Types 34 say: 34 is nature, 12 is art.

Absolute definition of subtypes

An absolute definition of subtypes is needed for some groups of four. But there are two different absolute definitions of subtypes, one definition for groups of four by subtype age and another definition for groups of four by subtype gender. So I guess these groups of four are less stable than other groups of four with a clear definition of subtypes ("square groups") or no clear definition of subtypes at all ("cross groups"). In the Pallas experiment, one could compare the stability (under stress) of different groups of four.

Subtype age is stronger

Subtypes 13 = childish subtypes. Subtypes 24 = mature subtypes.

Groups of four by subtype age

In the Pallas pattern, these groups of four are between "cross groups" and "square groups". These groups of four follow from the assumption: subtypes 13 (childish, broad at the top) are active = have influence, subtypes 24 (mature, long at the top) are passive = have trust. If you draw arrows between influence and trust in the Pallas pattern, you get the flow circle: 1 → 4 → 3 → 2 → 1. So these groups of four are similar to the "square groups", but there the flow direction is clearly defined.

Groups of four by subtype gender

These groups of four always consist of types 1342, which form a circle (not a line) in the Pallas pattern. These groups of four follow from the assumption: subtypes 14 (masculine, long at the bottom) are active = have influence, subtypes 23 (feminine, wide at the bottom) are passive = have trust. If you draw arrows between influence and trust in the Pallas pattern, you get the flow circle: 1 → 3 → 4 → 2 → 1.

Subtype and partner

Subtype decides: Which 2 of my 4 friends are more important? So: Which friends are priority? So: Which relations are more stable? There is a "global" definition of subtypes here: One subtype bonds with same age and different gender ("heterosexual"). One subtype bonds with different age and same gender ("homosexual").

Same gender

How exactly should one live out "homosexuality"? Good question ... simple answer: "without sex". In Latin, "sexus" simply means "gender", man or woman. I myself (as M104) am "heterosexual" (in the sense of: a man who only wants sex with women). I believe that sex only fits into heterosexual relations. If a human is "homosexual", if his subtype has more stable bonds with the same sex, then this human also has "heterosexual" bonds (with the opposite sex), but these bonds are more unstable (less stable, less common). Sex is also a bonding ritual, a way to become more close.

Subtypes in the Pallas pattern

The subtypes can also be seen in the Pallas pattern. Rule: "next plus one". Each human has 4 friends (in straight directions, not diagonally). We go "next plus one" and end up with the subtype. What does that mean? If I want to match one of my 4 friends, then I must "play" the subtype that is behind that friend.

Example: I am M1, my woman is F3. In order for us to fit together, I must play M104, and she must play F302.

If two people stand next to each other in the Pallas pattern (example: M1 and F3 with the same age), and if the subtypes are parallel (example: M104 and F302 = arrows in the graphic), then these two people fit well together (strong dialog bond). The two people "embrace" each other with their subtypes, similar to the Yin-Yang symbol (Yin-Yang = woman-man = passive-active = black-white = shadow-light).

Coding of subtypes

The zero between the basetype and subtype is a placeholder for the friend, who suits me with this subtype. When I write "Types 14" (say: "Types One Four") I mean "Type 1 or Type 4", and NOT Type 104 (say: "Type One Zero Four").

Research Questions

What happens if the subtypes are orthogonal? (Example: M104 and F301. weak monolog bond? Is it good or bad that Type 1 appears as basetype and subtype? I guess this is bad, and creates conflict.) What happens if the subtypes are parallel with a distance? (Example: M103 and F301)

How well does polyamory work in groups of four people of the same age? (Example: F2-M1-F3-M4) ... do all subtypes have to be parallel? (Example: F203-M104-F302-M401. It may be that M104-M401 and F203-F302 are too similar.) (Polyamory could work like this: one partner for the night, one partner for the day.)

Application in the real world

How does this theory help in the here and now?

Cult

Is this a cult? No, but you can build your own cult with it.

This is a general guide to setting up groups of up to 144 people. I don't care which "religion" you live by (slave morality? master morality? both?). I believe: If the fundamentals are right (justice, voluntarism), then each group will automatically find its optimal culture, that best suits its living space (milieu, habitat, climate).

Honeypot

Is this a Honeypot? Am I a provocateur (agent provocateur)? Is this a provocation, which is controlled by the police (controlled opposition), as bait for enemies of the state?

Like the "Hundred Flowers Campaign" in China in the year 1956, where the slaves should express their honest system-criticism, but as the criticism became too much, the government censored it again with violence as "hate speech".

Well. Let me say this: I don't consciously work for the cops, but no matter what I do, the cops will always abuse my work as a bait for their eternal hunt for enemies of the state.

So: You can send anonymous feedback, see the "Help wanted" section on page 44.

The caravan moves on

Repairing existing groups is difficult or impossible, because physical inertia is linked to mental inertia (peer pressure, public image cultivation, playing roles, fulfilling expectations).

Simpler is: get individual people out of their groups ("Which one of you can I take away?"), walk around with these people ("The caravan moves on"), and build a new group step by step.

Walking around is important because "a moving body carries a moving mind" (Peripathetics). But "settling down" is also important, to search and occupy a new place. (Voting with your feet. Moving to a new place must be cheap.)

In this "caravan game" I (unfortunately) must follow my own rules, which means: Step 1: I must find people, who are compatible with my type.

Example: My type is M1, which means: I am looking for my 4 friends: F2 and F3 (same age, my women), M2 and M4 (different ages, younger or older, my sons or my fathers).

Step 2: I must find people, who are compatible with my 4 friends. Example: My type is M1, my woman is F3. The next group of four is M1S-F3S-F2L-M4L (then we are missing 2 parents) or M1L-F3L-F2S-M4S (then we are missing 2 children). So: I (M1) am missing a father (M4L) or a son (M4S). My woman (F3) is missing a mother (F2L) or a daughter (F2S).

Step 3: I need to find the people, who fit into my other group of four.

Example: I already have the group of four M1-F3-F2-M4 (cross in the Pallas pattern). My other group of four is M1-F2-F1-M2 (square in the Pallas pattern).

Moses parts the sea

"Moses parts the sea" is shorthand for: Moses divides a group of people into friends of Moses and enemies of Moses. "Enemies" in the sense of: These people will always misunderstand him. Moses leaves his enemies behind, and takes his friends to another place ("The Caravan Moves On"), where Moses can speak freely, because his friends always understand him correctly. If Moses would speak to the entire group, his enemies would misunderstand him, and the group would split into those who understand and those who misunderstand. So: Splitting and walking away is a method to avoid misunderstandings.

Offline Peer Discovery Protocol

is the Peer Discovery, the searching and finding of peers. (Peers, people with similar interests, friends...) For that you always need a list of stable addresses, so-called "Bootstrap Nodes", "decentral centers", ...

Offline Peer-to-peer networks

In the offline world, we need stable meeting points (constant places and times) that are known to everyone, even new people who don't yet have any connections. Because good people are everywhere, but finding these people is difficult, because everyone sits in his apartment and waits... but nothing happens, because everywhere are walls.

The world of work wants a monopoly on organization, and all private life should be chaotic. Primitive cultures have many small market places (bazaars), with self-organization and more freedom. High cultures have few large market places (cathedrals), that are strictly controlled and offer little freedom.

Offline Peer Discovery Protocol? My suggestion: 7 and 16.
We meet twice a day:

A morning meeting at 7 a.m. at house numbers "7 times K"
(i.e. house numbers 1, 7, 14, 21, 28, 35, 42, 49, 56, 63, 70, ...)
and an evening meeting at 4 p.m. at house numbers "16 times K"
(i.e. house numbers 1, 16, 32, 48, 64, 80, 96, 112, 128, 144, 160, ...).

Why 7 and 16? Before school, after school. Before work, after work. So exactly in the border area between private life and work life. And the time periods 7 to 8 a.m. and 4 to 5 p.m. are symmetrical at 6 and 6 p.m. And: The Pallas symbol has 7 points, the Pallas pattern has 16 points...

These meeting points are a global consensus (because I say so...) and local meeting points can be chosen at will. The global meeting points (7 and 16) then serve as a link to the local meeting points.

Group composition

We take several pairs, and we build two large groups: The "right" group realizes the Pallas pattern (4 or 8 or 16 people), and into the "wrong" group ("control group") comes everyone, who does not fit into the right group, because some types are too many or too few, or because they don't want to take part in the experiment (the experiment is voluntary).

Building Village Culture

Each village has 144 people (Dunbar's Number) =  $9 \times 16$  people. Each village is at a distance from its neighboring villages (otherwise it would be a part of a city). Each village has self-sufficiency and self-defense, a mix of eco-village and Shaolin monastery, permaculture and martial arts, farmers and soldiers (symbiosis).

144 people

Why 144 people? Because Dunbar's Number 150. Robin Dunbar has done research on group size for prehistoric societies, and found: A statistical average of 150 people.

Geometric interpretation of Dunbar's Number 150: For this I need to decode the hash symbol #. One name for the # symbol is "Octo-Thorpe". Octo ... what? One translation is "Eight-Village". The # symbol creates 9 areas: one area in the middle, plus 8 areas on the outside. 16 people stand on each area, as in the Pallas pattern. If the center is empty, then that is a total of  $8 \times 16 = 128$  people. If the center is full, then that is a total of  $9 \times 16 = 144$  people. There are eight farming areas around the "eight-village": one area for 16 people.

Natural group size: The limit of 144 people is important because my "paradise on earth" only works in small groups (small states). The beauty of small groups (144 people) is: the administration of such groups (internal order) works "in the head", so you don't need any technology: no accounting, no money, ...

Flat hierarchies: Who wants to lead can lead. Close relations (tight coupling) allow feedback. Local variety: four types in equal numbers. Role change between leading and following: both subtypes can be used. Justice, balance.

Small States and Utopias

Also many other "utopias" only work in small groups. How can you keep small groups small? How can you prevent a village (144 people) from escalating into a city? How can you prevent several villages from growing together? Peaceful utopias force small groups through the "small island" habitat. Warrior utopias need regular tribe wars (competition between tribes), so that the groups keep each other small.

Tribe culture

Exactly this tribe culture (tribalism) had primitive cultures (Germans, Celts, Indians, Africans, ...), before the Roman Empire (Roman Church, Christians) "civilized" and "pacified" these tribes. Today the football hooligans remind of the old days of tribe wars.

The migrant invasion of Europe and North America can be seen as a "back to tribe wars". Angela Merkel: "I am fighting for my plan: turning illegality into legality"

DÉJÀ-VU-ERLEBNIS

"There was something ..." "Moderate islam" on the outside, "radical islam" on the inside. Trojan horse, Taqiya, lies, trick of war, déjà vu, history repeats itself

Conquering foreign land

Niccolo Machiavelli - The Prince:

When you conquer states in an area, where a different language is spoken, and different customs and laws prevail, there are difficulties. You have to be very lucky and use lots of skill to conquer them.

One of the best and most effective means is for the conqueror to move his residence there. This will make his rule more secure and lasting. This is what the Turk did with Greece; This could not have been held despite all measures taken to conquer it, if its ruler had not moved the residence there.

If you have your residence there and discover unrest that is emerging, you can quickly suppress it. But if you don't live there, you will only find out about them, when they have already spread widely and there is no longer any way to stop them. In addition, the country can not be plundered by your officials.

The slaves are happy to have the new ruler near them; therefore they will have more frequent cause to love him when they are rich, and to fear him when they are poor.

When a foreign ruler attacks such a country, he will have greater inhibitions; Because as long as the ruler resides there, it is very difficult to take it away from him again.

— Niccolo Machiavelli - The Prince, chapter 3 (1513)

Predator-prey relationship

When a herd of prey animals becomes too large / ugly / old (overpopulation, degeneration, ageing population), the prey animals call out to the predators: "Kill our weaklings!" (provocation, passive-suicidal, "refugees welcome"). The goal is a dynamic balance between prey and predators. See also: Stockholm syndrome, slave morality, "love your enemies", suicide cult, ...

Predator	Prey
Perpetrator	Victim
aggressive	defensive
Soldier	Farmer
Carnivore	Herbivore, vegan
Pro Choice	Pro Life
homicidal	suicidal
Serial killer	Rescuer, helper syndrome

When we talk about "predator-prey relationships", we usually mean a relationship between two different animal species, or between an animal species and a plant species, but predator-prey relationships also exist within a species, for example between aggressive and defensive humans.

Tyrants need weaklings

Aristotle - Politics (-400) -
Book V - Chapter 11: Preserving Kingships and Tyrannies:

Tyrannies are preserved in two ways that are complete opposites. One of these is the traditional method by which most tyrants maintain control of their rule. People say that Periander of Corinth established many of these, but it is also possible that many things of the sort are taken over from the Persian empire.

They are the things that were mentioned some time ago as tending toward preservation of tyranny as much as possible, by cutting down those who stand out, and getting rid of those with proud thoughts, [mediocrity versus excellence, help the weak and punish the strong] and not allowing common meals, clubs, education, or anything else of that sort, but guarding against everything from which two things customarily come — pride and trust — and not letting there be any schools or other collegial gatherings for leisured pursuits, and doing everything that will keep all the people as unknown to one another as possible (since familiarity breeds a greater degree of mutual trust). [no self-organization, no decentralization]

Another measure [to preserve tyranny] is to require the townspeople to be always out in the open [no privacy] and spend their time near the palace gates (since in that way, what they are doing would be least likely to go unnoticed [no secrets], and they would get in the habit of thinking small [low self-esteem], as a result of always living like slaves). [low self-esteem, slave morality]

And as many other Persian and barbarian practices of that sort as there may be are tyrannical in character (since they all have the same power).

Another is for there to be spies, to try to keep whatever any of his subjects happens to say or do from going unnoticed [no privacy, surveillance], such as the so-called "talebearers" in Syracuse, and those Hiero used to send out to listen in wherever any meeting or gathering would be taking place [secret police] (for people speak less frankly when they fear creatures of that sort, [self-censorship] and if they do speak frankly they are less likely to go unnoticed). [surveillance]

Another measure is to stir up mutual slander and clashes of friends against friends, the populace against the prominent people, and the rich among themselves. [divide and conquer]

It is also characteristic of tyrants to make their subjects poor, both so that they cannot maintain a militia, and so that they are too busy looking after daily needs to have free time to get into conspiracies. Examples of this may be found in the pyramids of Egypt, the monumental offerings of the Cypselids, the construction dedicated to Olympian Zeus by the Peisistratids, and Polycrates' works among those at Samos (for these all produce the same effect: poverty and a lack of leisure among those who are ruled). [job creation, waste of time, pointless work, distraction]

Another tyrannical measure is the imposition of property taxes, as in Syracuse (for in five years in the time of Dionysius people ended up paying in their entire property). [taxation is theft]

A tyrant is also a warmonger, so that people will be without leisure and be constantly in need of a leader.

And whereas the power of a king is preserved by his friends, the characteristic of a tyrant is to distrust his friends, on the assumption that all wish to overthrow him, but his friends are particularly capable of it. [paranoia, preservation of power]

And all the things that happen in the last stage of democracy also apply to tyranny: female control over households, to get them to denounce their husbands, [feminism, traitors, gossip, petty tyrants] and permissiveness toward slaves for the same purpose. For slaves and women do not get into plots against tyrants, [weaklings, gratitude, good slavevs] and when things go well for them they are necessarily favorably disposed toward tyrannies and democracies, [system winners, consent of the majority] since the populace also tends toward being a monarch. [slaves want to feel "free", secret government]

This is also why a valued person in both is the flatterer: in popular governments this is the demagogue, since a demagogue is a flatterer of the populace, and with tyrants, it is those who hang around them in a self-abasing manner, which is what flatterers do.

And it is for this reason that tyranny is friendly to corrupt people, since tyrants enjoy being flattered, and this is something no one who thinks like a free person would do. Decent people are friends; in other words, they do not flatter.

And corrupt people are useful for corrupt employments — a nail hammered at a nail, as the proverb has it.

And it is characteristic of a tyrant to take no pleasure in anyone dignified or free. For the tyrant considers himself to be the only person of that sort, and anyone who matches him in dignity and carries himself like a free person robs tyranny of what is exceptional and masterful about it. So tyrants hate them as if they were overturning their rule.

And it is also characteristic of a tyrant to use foreigners instead of citizens as companions at their meals and pastimes, on the assumption that the latter are their enemies while the former will not oppose them.

These things and their like are characteristic of tyranny and are safeguards of its rule, and there is no sort of vileness they leave out.

One may say that they are all encompassed within three forms, for tyranny aims at three things.

One is for its subjects to think small, since a small-minded person would not conspire to attack anyone.

A second is for them to distrust one another completely, since a tyranny cannot be overthrown until some people have trust among themselves. And this is the reason tyrants make war on decent people [right] as detrimental to their rule — not just because such people do not think they deserve to be ruled like slaves by a master, but also because they are trusted, among themselves and by others, [elected folk-leaders, folk heroes, resistance leaders, competition] and do not inform on their own kind or anyone else. [cohesion, selforganization]

And the third aim is a lack of power for action (among slaves), since no one attempts impossible things, and hence no one overthrows a tyranny if he has no power.

So the ultimate terms into which the intentions of tyrants are reducible are just these three, since one may trace every tyrannical measure back to these underlying purposes:

making the people not trust one another, making them have no power,
and making them think small.

— Aristotle - Politics (-400) -

Book V - Chapter 11: Preserving Kingships and Tyrannies

Large states and hell on earth

Any group larger than 144 people automatically produces a "hell on earth", a "mass" of people, that you have to keep together using technology (accounting, money). In the long run, such large states again and again lead to usury (growth beyond natural limits) and collapse (urbanization, union, peace alliance, boom-bust cycles, growth-based economies, Ponzi scheme, pyramid scheme, bulls are speculating on increasing demand).

Growth-Based Economies

Question: All cultures are based on growth? (are "growth-based"?) Growth, diffusion, increase in entropy. Limited only by "hard limits", by limited resources, or by competition from other cultures, which are also growth-based.

Balance

Balance: Each village is in balance: 72 men and 72 women. 72 young and 72 old. Fairness in the distribution of gender and age. This justice does not come by itself (nature is chaos), but must be created and cultivated (culture).

Example: Village A has 100 men and 44 women and village B has 44 men and 100 women. The distance to equilibrium is  $72 - 100 = -28$  men for village A and  $72 - 44 = +28$  men for village B. Solution: Village A sends 28 men to village B and village B sends 28 women to village A. Result: Each village has 72 men and 72 women.

Balance in Small Groups

The same is true on a small scale: Family A has 3 men and 1 woman and family B has 1 man and 3 women. Solution: We take the two small families and create an extended family with 4 men and 4 women.

TODO dynamic equilibrium like in chemistry. The equal sign = is actually a "back and forth" arrow, and the balance swings around an average.

Problem child: Hold on or let go?

Imagine you are the biggest pacifist in the world, but your child wants to kill people. What will you do? Will you hold on to your child and raise him to be a pacifist? (Passive violence, holding on, locking up, resigned to fate, "it must be like this", "too late to correct", "now we have already started and we must finish it") ... or will you let go of your child, and let the "others" raise him to be a soldier?

I fear: Some people will never let go of "their" children voluntarily, no matter how mentally distant these children are. Only "liberal violence" helps here, using violence to free these "imprisoned children" and bring them to better parents.

Child robbers

We know such "child robbers" as Krampus, and some people say, children should be afraid of him. But for me, Krampus is a liberator, a hero. I myself was such a problem child (mentally distant to father, mother, brother), and subconsciously I was always looking for "better parents", older friends as substitute parents. [Child Protective Services want monopoly on child robbing]

Both are guilty

We also know such "problem children" as changelings, swapped children, unloved children, cuckoo children, devil's children ... Who is to blame? Both! The problem is the incompatible relation between parent and child. That is why it is so hard to find someone to blame. Example: My parents think I am crazy (hormone disorder in my head), I think my parents are stupid (wrong images in their head). We are "united in hate." Each side hates the other side. Both sides feel the incompatibility, and the best solution is: we go separate ways.

Can this liberation of children also happen without violence? Yes. To do this, you first have to give the parents a better child, wait until the parents get used to the better child, and then the parents can let go of the wrong child.

System winners

For some people, the conventional system works (small family, school, work). These "system winners" will always say: "the others" only must try harder, then they will have more success in this system. Why are there such system winners? Coincidence or low expectations.

Example: Small family: By luck, children can be compatible with their parents, then these children say: Small family is good. More precisely: "I had good experiences with small families." What is problematic here is the extrapolation from subjective experience to objective world view ("judging others by yourself")

Limitations

My theory has multiple limitations ...

Estimating personality types

The big weak-spot is: I must correctly estimate personality types. I try to estimate as "holistically" as possible, based on body shape and behavior. When in doubt, I ignore the results of questionnaire tests (MBTI, Big Five, etc.) because they can also produce a "wrong self-image" ("you are mistyped!")

Estimating relation quality

The small weak-spot is: I must measure relation quality. Every measurement is relative, which means: I must try compatible relations and incompatible relations, and then I can look back and say: Were the compatible relations better?

Consequences

What is the catch? The price for "paradise on earth" is serial murder. Normalizing serial murder has 2 positive effects: low quantity and high quality. Serial murder is the cheapest solution to overpopulation (high quantity) and degeneration (low quality, hereditary diseases, ugly people). Pacifism replaces serial murder with mass murder (overpopulation and system crash), so pacifism can only delay death, so pacifism is a waste of energy. It is clear to me: Many people say that the fun ends when it comes to "killing people." (Here ends the tolerance of these people.) But this is exactly where my fun begins (I say as Type 1). And that is exactly the problem with personality types: Each type has its subjective worldview (subjectivism): My fun is your fear. My virtue is your sin. My paradise is your hell. And so forth. TODO sublimation of aggressive drives to productive workforce, playing with fire, civilization, taming from animal to human (Sigmund Freud - Civilization and Its Discontents, 1929)

Radical tolerance

Tolerance is cheap when it's easy (fair-weather tolerance). But to "tolerate" also "extreme" worldviews, these worldviews must live in "friendly" bodies. Compatible relations can withstand such "controversial issues".

Compatible relations give both sides an equal opportunity: everyone can freely live his natural strengths (and work for his friends), and everyone can freely delegate his natural weakspots to his friends.

Incompatible relations always produce fights, no matter how big or small the issue is, unless both partners agree to ignore it (ignorance is bliss) and only talk about small problems (low-level agreement). When confronted with major problems, such relations are overloaded and the mental hostility (incompatibility) comes back. Holding on to incompatible relations produces "equal outcome", mediocrity, injustice: everyone hides his natural strengths, and everyone hides his natural weakspots, so all look "equal".

Similar with drugs: Some people have already a mental defect before taking drugs, and without drugs, they can suppress this defect. Drugs overwhelm that suppression and act as an apparent "trigger" for the defect. (In vino veritas = alcohol makes you honest.)

(Many such "defects" are caused by nutrient deficiencies and a toxic habitat. See also: Rat Park experiments by Bruce Alexander, 1978.)

Light without shadow?

Can this work without serial murder? Is there a "paradise on earth" without the downsides? No. For about 10,000 years, people have been rebelling against natural laws, with such "beautiful" inventions as criminalization of murder, insurances, welfare state. But these people are just tragic heros, who start with good intentions, but always end in catastrophes.

(overpopulation, degeneration, decadence, collapse, boom-bust cycles.)

Tragic heros are fighting lost wars. Tragic heros are rescuing sinking ships. Arrogance comes before the fall.

Nietzsche and Zarathustra

Zarathustra is trapped in slave morality, in the legal system, in this world. Zarathustra wants to prove that he is serious, but for this proof, he needs violence. The mob demands: Prove to us that you are serious! Zarathustra says: I can not, otherwise I will be in jail tomorrow. Prophets without swords are laughed at. Prophets with swords end up in jail. This is why there are no prophets in this world, but everywhere are cops, who are hunting prophets. (The cops want to fuck me too, I just say "Thank you for the confirmation.")

Initial resistance

My "paradise on earth" is failing...

because my readers feel offended ("99% idiots"), because my readers think mass murder is better than serial murder, because I am a "prophet without sword", so I cannot force my neighbors to participate in my Pallas experiment, because my neighbors abuse their freedom to waste time (blue pills)

(incapable of voluntary cooperation), ...

Where do you leave?

My minimum demand is: "Everyone should be free to live out his natural strengths, and delegate his natural weakspots to his friends." That sounds harmless at first, and I guess that most people would agree with this demand.

But when I say "I am a born serial killer, and I am allowed to kill 100 people every day, because everyone is allowed to freely express his natural strengths", then I guess most people will get scared (fear of the unknown), and many people will rhetorically strike back with the accusation "He is crazy and dangerous!"

Well, also my book is a personality test: Type 1 people will find it easier to agree with me on many points, and Type 234 people will tend to read my book only superficially and often shake their heads because "you can't say that", but what they really mean is "I as a Type 234 person would not say that", exactly because they are not Type 1 people.

When type 234 people tell me to rewrite my book, I tell them: Do it yourself! Copy all the "good" sections, and ignore all the "wrong" sections, and then do your own book: write, print, distribute.

But I am sure that also a watered-down version of my "Pallas" book would be ignored by 99% of people, with the usual excuses ("no time", "no energy", ...), so I am not wasting my energy on self-censorship. (self-betrayal, fear of conflict, anticipatory obedience, addiction to harmony, opportunism, compromise, sellout, fake, pop)

By Nature Blind for Natural Order

Over the past five years, I received frustrating amounts of ignorance or hostility towards my Pallas-Hypothesis. This negative feedback is too much to ignore, so I developed another hypothesis that many readers will find provocative and unacceptable:

Some personality types are by nature blind to personality types, and therefore blind to natural order.

What are the blind personality types? In the worst case, types 234 are blind for natural order, so only type 1 (my type) can see natural order. Alternative cases: Types 12 / 13 / 14 can see natural order.

This hypothesis is a paradox. If a natural order exists, why would nature produce beings incapable of recognizing natural order? Why would "mother nature" produce creatures who deny the very structure that governs them?

At first glance, this appears as self-destructive, absurd, a sick joke. A theory of order, and an essential part of it is the denial of order.

Blindness is a personality trait, not a defect

"It's not a bug... it's a feature!"

Blindness to natural order is not a failure of intelligence, education, or moral development. Blindness is a trait of certain personality types.

These blind personality types may be: intelligent, technically competent, morally articulate, socially influential, ... but they remain physically blind for: natural order, inborn personality types, stable rank-order differences.

Instead, they experience order as: arbitrary, oppressive, constructed, morally wrong.

From within their subjective world, this experience is entirely sincere. They are not "lying". They are reporting reality as it appears to them.

Therefore, persuasion is doomed to fail. One cannot argue someone into perceiving a structure that does not register in his perceptual-cognitive apparatus.

Type-limited access to truth

This leads to a cognitive principle:

Access to natural order is conditioned by personality basetype, not by reason.

Reason is no neutral ground. Reason is subjective, biased by personality types.

Some personality types: naturally expect structure, assume differentiation, search for constant patterns.

Other personality types: expect randomness, assume plasticity, search for constructed explanations.

Neither view is chosen. Both views feel self-evident from within, because both views are natural tendencies, inborn and stable for life. Both views are natural constants that will always exist in parallel.

This is why disagreement here is not resolvable through debate. It is not a clash of arguments, it is a clash of cognitive orientations.

The Structural Risk: Totalization and Cognitive Closure

At this point, my theory encounters a danger. If blindness itself is explained as a property of some personality types, then disagreement becomes predictable, even necessary. This creates what philosophy calls: totalizing theory, self-sealing belief system, self-sealing doctrine, immunizing cognitive clause, cult logic, rape logic, "yes means yes and no means yes", ...

In such systems: agreement confirms the theory, disagreement also confirms the theory (as an expression of blindness).

This structure is real. Pretending otherwise would be dishonest.

The question therefore is, not whether this risk exists, but how it is handled.

Right paradox of tolerance

Some traditions acknowledge type-relative access openly: Nietzsche, who writes only for "good Europeans" and accepts being unreadable to others.

Gnostic traditions, which distinguish between those who can receive knowledge and those who cannot, without pretending universality. Certain aristocratic philosophies, which limit their claims to a subset of humanity.

These systems practice what could be called cognitive harm reduction. They name the limit instead of disguising it.

They say: "This is not for everyone". This honesty prevents secret power structures.

But certain personality types (Type 4?) want precisely these secret power structures, and certain personality types (Type 3?) in public (superficial, conscious) want to have the illusion "we are all equal" (because what Type 3 doesn't know doesn't make him hot) (Type 3 is easy to distract).

Explicit systems make their limits transparent. Explicit systems openly show: who can see, who is blind, and where does tolerance end. Explicit systems have no moral disguise. Nietzsche is very explicit about this. Also my version of the "paradox of tolerance" is explicit:

Personality types who see natural order tolerate personality types who are blind for natural order, and personality types who are blind for natural order do not tolerate personality types who see natural order.

This names the asymmetry directly, without pretending that tolerance is universal or morally guaranteed.

Left paradox of tolerance

By contrast, many egalitarian systems deny type-differences publicly, while enforcing them privately. "All animals are equal, but some are more equal." — George Orwell - Animal Farm (1945)

They claim: everyone is equal, everyone can see the truth, disagreements result from ignorance or evil.

But real differences persist, so power re-emerges: informally, subconsciously, through moral pressure, through centralization.

The problem of power is not solved, but power is moved into the unconscious, where it becomes uncontrollable.

Hidden systems deny their limits, while they enforce their limits in practice. "Do as I say, not as I do." Example: Karl Popper's "paradox of tolerance". Popper presents intolerance as a reluctant defense of openness ("we don't want but we must"), but actually Karl Popper's strategy is simple: tolerance for moderate views, repression of "too radical" views. (See also: Overton Window)

Karl Popper is blind for natural order. Popper is egalitarian: "all people are born equal and all differences are learned". As a result, strongly anti-egalitarian views appear not as alternative perceptions, but as existential threats. Intolerance follows necessarily, but is renamed "defending the open society".

This is the paradox behind Karl Popper's "paradox of tolerance": A system blind to natural order must suppress the recognition of natural order as "too radical", while claiming "tolerance" (moderate tolerance, fair-weather tolerance).

In contrast: Radical tolerance also tolerates radically different views. But for that, these views must live in a right body (compatibility, personal reasons).

Hidden systems do not eliminate power, they moralize power, privatize power, and push power into institutions and elites. Explicit systems keep the limit visible, and therefore controllable.

Empirical Falsifiability: Limited but Real

This theory does not claim universal empirical falsifiability. It claims conditional falsifiability: On a personal level, individuals of compatible personality types can test it seriously, because they expect natural order and therefore look for natural order. On a structural level, the theory provides clear comparative methods: systems designed in accordance with the Pallas pattern can be compared against systems that violate the Pallas pattern.

The theory can fail: for the types capable of testing it, within the domains it claims to address. That is sufficient for it to remain scientific rather than religious. What it rejects is the fiction that everyone can test everything.

The Cost of Honesty

This position has a cost. It guarantees: permanent conflict, serious testers of the hypothesis remain a minority, accusations of elitism, circularity, or arrogance.

But the alternative (denial) has a higher cost: hidden hierarchy, unconscious power, moralized domination.

This chapter does not ask for belief, it asks for recognition of limits. Nature did not design humans for consensus. Nature designed humans for tension. Any theory that pretends otherwise is not humane, it is fraud.

What if I am right

What if I am right, but everyone else is too stupid to follow? What if my predictions are correct, but no one believes me? The problem is not new...

Greek mythology tells of the curse of Cassandra: Cassandra sees the future, but no one believes her.

Plato (-330) describes the problem in his allegory of the cave: the philosopher leaves the cave and recognizes the truth, but when he returns to the cave and tries to enlighten the other people, he is laughed at and killed.

Niccolo Machiavelli (1500) says: Armed prophets win, unarmed prophets die.

Thomas Hobbes (1650) says: Not truth makes the law, authority makes the law.

Friedrich Nietzsche (1880) his prophet Zarathustra says: "I am not the mouth for these ears" because people do not believe him.

Max Weber (1900) says: Popularity and charisma define public opinion.

Walter Lippmann (1922) and Noam Chomsky (1988) say: Opinion-makers define public opinion. (Manufactured Consent)

Carl Schmitt (1960) says: Decisions and actions define public opinion. "Sovereign is he who decides on the state of emergency." In a crisis, truth and morality don't help.

Michel Foucault (1960) says: Power defines public opinion.

Everywhere the same observation: it is not truth that defines public opinion, but power defines public opinion. Only stupid people believe that "truth always wins in the end" or "knowledge is power".

The "irrational adherence to public opinion" is also known as normality bias, type 2 error, turkey illusion, ...

Agreement often only arises in retrospect. When predictions come true, coercion is legitimized retrospectively, because coercion was necessary to break initial resistance. Only after order has been established, it appears reasonable to many. (Rationalization, hindsight bias)

Hannah Arendt distinguishes between power and force. Force is short-term, power is stable. Force creates obedience, but no lasting legitimacy. Force is a sign that power (and consent) does not yet exist. When rule by force (tyranny) becomes the norm, then that rule is fundamentally unstable.

Historically, force often appears as a means of overcoming initial resistance, but force loses its justification when it remains necessary in the long term. The longer force is needed, the more it becomes clear: the public opinion is harmful to believers. (Deception, abuse of power, hostility)

So the question is not "Who is right?" or "Who is a scammer?" but rather: How do we get from "being right" to "getting justice", without being destroyed by the powerful and their believers?

Forced therapy

Forced therapy is a "necessary evil", necessary to break initial resistance to positive change.

One major bottleneck in the propagation of my theory is the modern state's monopoly on violence. This monopoly does not only include policing and warfare, but also the exclusive authority (privilege) to impose involuntary imprisonment, behavioral correction and therapeutic intervention, under the banner of "expertise", "legality", or "public safety".

Personal reasons

Violence is not removed from society, violence is centralized. The monopoly on violence decides who is permitted to use violence for "the greater good" (the elite) and who is criminalized for doing the same (everyone else). The unresolved question is not "should violence exist", but: Who do we trust with the use of violence? Who grants that trust? Why do some people have this privilege, while other people are categorically excluded?

Violence is Authority

In contemporary societies, forced intervention is permitted only when administered by state authorities: licensed experts, courts, institutions, or agents with formal mandates. Outside of these structures, identical actions are called "criminal" (Vigilantism), regardless of outcome or consent obtained after the fact. (Intention versus Outcome)

This produces an asymmetry between two classes:

1. State-imposed authorities: Elected from above, credentialed as "experts", insulated by legality, and protected by institutional legitimacy. ("consent from above")
2. Self-initiated or informal authorities: Autodidacts, dropouts, hobbyists, self-help groups, ... individuals or groups without formal permits, regardless of results.

The difference between these groups is not cognitive (who knows better), nor ethical (who wants to help), but juridical (who is allowed by "the law"). Authority is not earned through good results (positive feedback), but authority is granted in advance through institutional position ("consent from above"). (blind trust in authority, false patience)

This asymmetry violates a core principle of decentralization: equality of arms, or more broadly, equal opportunity among authorities.

Prophets without swords are laughed at. Prophets with swords end up in jail.

Equality of Arms and Decentralization

Decentralization that leaves the core instruments of power untouched remains conceptually incomplete. Decentralization must include equality of opportunity in all domains of power, including the use of force.

So long as one class of actors holds exclusive rights to coercion (including forced therapy) while others are prohibited regardless of outcomes, decentralization remains an illusion. Power is merely redistributed within the state's architecture, not reclaimed by society.

From this perspective, the monopoly on forced therapy is not a safety measure alone, but an elite privilege that will not be relinquished voluntarily.

Voluntary Methods Fail

Modern ethics typically assume that persuasion should always precede coercion and that violence is always wrong. However, this assumption fails to account for persistent cases of destructive behavior who remain stubborn for their entire life, despite information, persuasion, and voluntary assistance.

"A stupid person causes losses to others, while himself deriving no gain, and even possibly incurring losses."

— Carlo M. Cipolla - The Basic Laws of Human Stupidity (1976)

So: Non-intervention protects destructive behavior.

"Exposure to true information does not matter anymore. A person who is demoralized is unable to assess true information. The facts tell nothing to him. Even if I shower him with information, with authentic proof, with documents, with pictures. Even if I take him by force to the Soviet Union, and show him a concentration camp, he will refuse to believe it, until he is going to receive a kick in his fat bottom. Only when the military boot crushes his balls, then he will understand, but not before that. That is the tragedy of the situation of demoralization."

— Yuri Bezmenov - Ideological Subversion, 1984, Ex KGB Agent

This leads to a paradox: Pacifism protects destructive behavior (Pacifism protects idiots) particularly when the resistance to change is rooted in irrational fears, habituation or psychological inertia ("bad reasons") rather than personal experience ("good reasons").

Forced Therapy for breaking Initial Resistance

The concept of forced therapy examined here is not punitive, indefinite, or totalizing. Forced Therapy is strictly limited to the function of breaking initial resistance, not enforcing permanent compliance.

Constraints of Forced Therapy:

1. Last-resort necessity: Forced Therapy is applied only after voluntary approaches have failed and ongoing harm persists.
2. Proportionality: The force applied must not exceed what is required to overcome the initial resistance.
3. Time limitation: If meaningful engagement or improvement does not emerge within a short predefined period (lets say four weeks), the intervention must be terminated.
4. Abortability: Persistent resistance is treated as an evidence of therapeutic failure, and the therapy must be either modified or aborted.

The goal is not obedience, but the goal is a stable change in behavior, the goal is a stabilization of good habits. Without eventual consent, no outcome is stable.

Retrospective Consent

Because improvement cannot be guaranteed, the only possible ethical grounding for such intervention lies in retrospective consent: the individual later recognizes that the intervention overcame a barrier they were unable to cross alone, and that their quality of life has improved as a result.

Consent is not presumed or enforced. Consent is merely a hoped-for outcome.

Where consent does not emerge, the intervention must end. Simulated consent, offered merely to terminate the process, is a therapeutic failure. Stability requires genuine internalization, not strategic compliance.

Individual Resistance and Social Resistance

At the individual level, forced therapy aims to break psychological inertia. At the social level, a parallel resistance exists: collective rejection of any non-state use of coercion, regardless of outcomes.

This social resistance cannot be broken through force without reproducing the very monopolies decentralization seeks to dismantle. Instead, the social resistance can only be challenged through reputation and feedback.

If interventions generate genuine retrospective consent, improved outcomes, and voluntary advocacy by former "patients", decentralized public spheres may begin to form (counter-public spheres). Word-of-mouth legitimacy replaces institutional authorization ("elected from below" versus "elected from above") ("consent from below" versus "consent from above").

In this sense, retroactive consent functions socially as proof of legitimacy, much as credentials function institutionally.

Risk, Criminalization, Asymmetry

Any attempt to reclaim coercive capacity outside state authorization carries risk. Informal actors will be labeled reckless, criminal, or dangerous precisely because they challenge elite privileges embedded in legality.

This risk is not accidental, it is structural. Monopolies on violence persist precisely because challengers are deterred by criminalization long before outcomes can be evaluated. ("actual outcomes" versus "predicted outcomes") (pre-crime punishment)

Decentralization entails asymmetrical risk: established authorities act with impunity, informal authorities act under threat.

Abuse of power

None of this resolves the danger of abuse. Any framework that permits coercion risks being weaponized for conformity, domination, or personal vendetta.

But this danger already exists within centralized systems. The question is not whether coercion is dangerous, but whether monopolized coercion is inherently safer than distributed and constrained forms of violence.

This chapter does not claim an answer. It insists only that refusing to consider equality of arms guarantees the permanence of centralized authority, justified by ethical language that obscures structural privilege.

My forced therapy

Forced therapy is helpful for a faster propagation of my theory. I would: Recruit martial artists as my soldiers. Search for "interesting people" in public. Knock the target unconscious with a strike to a vital point. (Alternatively: tape their mouth shut, tie them up, put them to sleep with ketamine.) Put the target person in a large car and take them to my prison. (Car: no electronics, no phone, no drive-by-wire, ...) (Problems: biomagnetism, 6G RF Sensing Radar, WiFi Sensing Radar, SpaceX Starshield surveillance satellites, surveillance planes, surveillance drones, ...)

For my Pallas experiment, I need at least four people for a group of four, for example M1 F2 F3 M4. Otherwise, the four people should be as similar as possible: same language, same age, same height, same skin color.

Such abductions are illegal (illegal imprisonment), so my soldiers and I must remain invisible: no cameras, no phones, black clothing, black balaclavas, black combat gloves, ...

Wikipedia: "A black operation or black op is a covert operation in which the operation is hidden from the government."

Nowadays, every idiot carries electronic devices (smartphones, smartwatches, ... surveillance devices), which are all placed in a shielding bag to protect from being tracked (Disklabs NS1 Notebook Shield, Booster Bag).

My prison for four people has two rooms. The prisoners can move freely between the rooms (partner exchange). The rooms have no open windows, but a ventilation system, so there is always fresh air. The prisoners have a supply of food (food shakes, vitamins, natural medicine) and clean laundry. Each room has: two beds, toilet, sink, shower, yoga mats, books, strength training equipment.

My prison is soundproof, so the prisoners cannot call for help. If prisoners riot or shout, I spray them all with ketamine mist, to calm them down and help them process their problems (emotional processing).

I communicate with my prisoners via letters through a letter slot. My prisoners have white paper and pens in four colors: blue and red ballpoint pens, yellow and green highlighters.

My prisoners stay in my prison for one week. My prisoners have exactly one task: partner exchange in groups of four. I show each prisoner: their personality type (according to my assessment), their two friends (according to the Pallas pattern), and how partner exchange works.

During partner exchange, my prisoners should learn how to play both subtypes: the active subtype with one partner, and the passive subtype with the other partner.

Problem money: If we want to make this forced therapy safe (safe for therapists and safe for patients), then we have to invest a lot of money in prisons and tools. It could be cheaper to buy voluntary patients, who are only paid if they obey all our commands = financial force.

Two pairs are one group of four

Building relationships between prisoners can be easier if we recruit our prisoners in pairs. Then all four prisoners are at Level One ( $2^1 = 2 = \text{pair}$ ) and can easier advance to Level Two ( $2^2 = 4 = \text{group of four}$ ).

Forced therapy against vaccine damage

Too many normies with vaccine damage stubbornly claim "I don't have vaccine damage", "I don't have dementia", "I don't have thrombosis", ...

The only cure for stupidity is force. So kidnap the normies, lock them up in my prison, and feed them natural medicine every day: Molecusan = Vedicinals-9, Multivitamin Now Foods Adam/Eve, Omega-3, Probiotics, Co Q10 100mg, Lithium Orotate 5mg, N-Acetyl Cysteine powder, Nattokinase 100mg 2000FU (risk: internal bleedings), Melatonin, Ginseng Citicoline, Arginine, Vitamin D3 + K2, minerals (bioavailable), Super Greens, protein (Huel Food Shakes?), good fats, vegetables, salad, ...

Sources: Michael Nehls - Lithium the essential trace element.
recoverlongcovid.com/treatments-and-protocols/. Dominik Ludwig - Removing spike proteins after the Coronavirus vaccination.

Problem: Natural medicine is slow. So I would have to lock the normies up in my prison for weeks until they feel an improvement and understand that natural medicine works. But that is expensive for me and stressful for the normies. So it is better for everyone if this forced therapy is part of group therapy, so the prisoners have friends and meaningful work. ("species-appropriate treatment of prisoners")

TODO Move sections

Wild theory

I am an amateur researcher and I write my theory primarily for other amateurs (including children), because I believe: most professional psychologists are failures, or at least specialist idiots, but not generalists, and therefore incompetent, to seriously study my "holistic" theory. But I say: I don't care : )

And also every "serious" researcher should say: "I don't care" where exactly this theory comes from, all hypotheses look good on paper, and only experiments show truth. In that sense I say: "Shut up and test my hypothesis!"

Nobody is responsible

My theory is so general (holistic, abstract, generic), that nobody is responsible (at least not a specialist) ... so everyone is responsible. That means: Everyone is allowed to help, everyone can help, every feedback is valuable.

Where does my theory come from?

Self-study of psychology for about 5 years. Focus on personality psychology, the art of "putting all people into some boxes" (abstraction). Self-study means: I only read what I find interesting. I decide for myself: What is important? What is next? The final thesis of my self-study is this book that you are currently reading.

Help wanted

I need help with my goals: publish, finish writing, experiment.

Publishing means: Reaching as many new people as possible through broad-first search, and spending as little time as possible with each human, not getting stuck to find many other people. Examples: Print flyers (2 Euros / 100 flyers) and distribute them (in human, not in mailboxes). Print books (120 Euros / 100 books). Emails, letters, phone calls. Repost to your social media feed. Ask a "journal" if they want to print my article. Ask your favorite "influencer" if he wants to feature me. The frustration is guaranteed, because most people (99%?) have no interest in this work.

Book printing

My "print shop" consists of laser printer and stapler. Printer I buy new from eBay. Toner and drums I buy not original, but "compatible" from eBay. Paper I buy on palettes from eBay. My 12 printers are symmetrically connected to 3 power lines. Physical limit: The 3x 20 A Neozed pre-fuses after my electricity meter limit the constant load to 14 KW = 20 printers.

Laser printer: Brother HL-L5100DN. New price: 420 Euro. Warranty: 3 years. Power consumption: 700 Watt. Maximum Duty Cycle: 50K pages per month. Lifetime: 1.8M pages = 0.023 Cent per page. Toner: TN-3480, 10 Euro / 7.2K pages = 0.138 Cent per page. Drum: DR-3400, 13 Euro / 15K pages = 0,086 Cent per page. Paper: Go Copy Basic Pro, 70 g/m<sup>2</sup>, 3 Euro / 500 Blatt = 0,3 Cent per page. Fuser Sleeve + Roller, 90 Euro / 3 pieces, 0,003 Cent per page. Fuser Grease: FY9-6022-00, 20 Grams = 40 Fuser Rebuilds (fix vertical creases in printer output), 20 Euro, 0,0005 Cent per page. → Printing costs: about 0.55 Cent per A4 page = 0.473 Euro per book with 172 A5 pages. Speed: 40 pages/minute. Duplex Speed: 20 pages/minute. Weight: 10kg. Paper input: 250 sheets. Paper output: 150 sheets.

Block stapler: Novus B54 block stapler. Alternative: Skrebba Skre 120 block stapler. Up to 170 sheets (cheap staplers only handle 15 sheets). Depth: 25cm (DIN A5 width: 15cm). Stapler i buy used for 50 Euros from eBay.

I deliberately don't make a nice softcover book, because that is more work (cutting + gluing). Keep It Simple: Anyone can copy my book.

Target group

People with a future. Farmers and soldiers. Rich and smart people.

Soldiers: boxing clubs, gangs, police, mercenaries, Grey Wolves (Bozkurt), Hells Angels, Bandidos, Mongols, Miri Clan, ...

Also random collisions are important for meeting new people, because good people are everywhere: park, swimming lake, protests, shopping, train, bus, hitchhiking, hiking ...

Finish the writing means: I myself am a beginner (Types 13), so my text is just a beginning, that I will never finish writing myself ... so: I am looking for "finishers" (Types 24), who help me finish writing my text. And I am looking for people who produce secondary literature (derivations), for example a compact research proposal paper, or a children's book, or a YouTube video, ...

I have already described the experiment. Anyone can publish feedback and results on my websites (Github, Gitlab, ...).

Voluntarism

My project is something like "Linux for education": transparent (open source), zero cost, voluntary. Advantage: voluntary work produces better quality (self-motivation, voluntarism). Disadvantage: It takes longer because you have to take your time. Disadvantage: Most people have no experience with voluntary cooperation, and only work when they have to.

My theory can be described as a theory of voluntarism: The goal are voluntary relations: both partners have a veto right, so if one says "no", then the relation is over. Or even more explicit: relations are created for one year. After a year, both partners must explicitly agree, to continue the relation. "Divorce by default". Separation as the norm. Individualism. Egoism. Classical liberalism. Capitalism (caput = head). Narcissism. Types

Children and parents

Also small children can say "yes" or "no" to their biological parents, but small children use body language, and children must "try out" (physical contact) different parents, so that the child can compare: who is better? Comparison makes smart. Monopoly makes dumb.

On the other hand: When parents say: "Children belong to their parents" and "No experiments", then these parents are playing a game of luck: Some children match, some children cause trouble. Some children match: risked and won, child and parents are friends, both sides win. Some children cause trouble: risked and lost, child and parents are enemies, both sides lose.

Successors wanted

I (as a Type 1 human) fear: only Type 1 people can understand my theory and apply it correctly. This is also why my theory will never be "acceptable for the majority", and the "stupid majority" can only unconsciously benefit from it.

This is also why paradise on earth fails: because the "stupid majority" gets involved in things they don't understand, because they believe "you can learn talent." I dare to disagree: talent is inborn.

Another paradox: The less talent someone has for a topic, the more he will find the topic "fascinating", the more he will go to college to study the topic. But ultimately, he tries to compensate for his lack of talent by "hard learning". On the other hand: If you have talent, you don't need a university (self-study, self-initiation, self-teaching, magicians without a guild). School is not a place for smart people ...

TODO move: My theory is rather simple: You must connect people like in the Pallas pattern, and the subtypes must fit together somehow. My theory becomes complicated by its foundations and consequences.

The basis for my theory is personality psychology. So: I need a method to properly estimate personality types. If the personality types are wrong, then the Pallas pattern is worthless. So: I always must start with people, where I can safely measure the personality type.

The consequence of my theory is village culture (tribe culture, tribalism, small states). Each village has 144 people (Dunbar's Number). Every village needs distance from its neighboring villages. Each village has aggressive relations (tribe wars) and peaceful relations (trade, import and export) with other villages.

I will not always be here

My enemies want to censor me, throw me in jail, kill me ... So I will not always be here. I hope that my "crazy idea" will live on without me. So I hope that other people find value in my idea, and that these people will work to keep my idea alive.

Other theories

Arrogance: My arrogance is the claim: In 10,000 years of civilization no human has found this simple pattern. But: What if I am right?

Sure: There are many attempts to answer the question "which types are compatible?" But: This research is limited to couple relations (stable marriage). This research is too passive / descriptive / conservative, so it only observes old groups, but has no method (strong opinion) to create new groups. This research is not holistic / radical, so they don't look for a "world formula" that works for all people in all areas of life, because "private life is sacred" and "only crazy people interfere in other people's private lives" so that would be "unprofessional" and "unethical". So "paradise on earth" fails because of a thousand ridiculous excuses. And perhaps also: "The decision-makers are not elected, the elected ones have nothing to decide." (Horst Seehofer) So, the paradox: talent is punished, weakness is rewarded. So, forced equality: destroy the strong, help the weak. Why? Types 34 first seek equality, then difference. So types 34 need the stable pairs F3-M3 and F4-M4, as the basis for all other relations.

MBTI is too complex

MBTI pretends it can measure 4 properties, but there are only 2 properties: inner gender and inner age. MBTI pretends to measure basetype and subtype, but basetype and subtype are too similar to distinguish with such a simple test. Also, MBTI is blind to body type.

Serious personality tests

TODO move: What is a "serious" personality test for me? A serious test must list all the answers given by the test subject (raw data), so that you can ask later: How do you understand this question? Why are you giving this answer? A serious test must specify for every question: Which dimension is being tested here? Most tests play a game of hide-and-seek, and assume that the test subject understands all the questions correctly, but I find that unrealistic. A serious test must give the result in percentage points, for example "you are 80% masculine and 60% childish" for type 104, and not "you are 100% type X". A serious test must also measure body type: tendency to: under-weight / middle-weight / over-weight = type: 4 / 12 / 3. Serious psychologists are proactively transparent about their own personality type, so say right at the beginning: "My personality type is X, which means Y." So don't just use technical terms, but also "simplify it in simple words", as you would explain it to a six-year-old child. In the "which means Y" part, for example, you can describe your personal strengths and weaknesses.

A personality test is always a decision between 2 options that are objectively equivalent but subjectively different. Example: Which is better, luck or patience? Security or freedom? Soft skills or hard skills?

Calendar astrology is wrong

There are also system-winners in calendar astrology, where you use your birthday to calculate your personality type. By luck, this system is correct for 1 of 4 people (25 of 100), because personality types are randomly distributed over birthdays, and there are 4 personality types. These system-winners keep calendar astrology alive, because they say "for me it is true".

Calendar astrology tries to "rescue" false results by increasing complexity: exact time of birth, ascendant, bla bla bla. But calendar astrology is "broken by design", because birthday and time of birth have zero influence on personality type. Astrology can be useful if you read the descriptions of the types, and think about: What suits me? Which type best describes my behavior?

Traditional Alchemy is wrong

Traditional Alchemy has a different distribution of Inner Properties (page 28):

Types 13 are masculine, Types 24 are feminine

→ Congruent group of four: M1L F2S M3S F4L

The positions of the basetypes 1234 remain the same. The positions of the outer values MFSL are changed so we get stripe-patterns again.

I believe this pattern is wrong, because I as type M1 find F3 and M4 more likable than M3 and F4.

In the Pallas experiment (page 10), this "wrong" pattern could be used as an alternative hypothesis.

Five-value scales

A five-value scale is created by mixing basetype and subtype. That is why many personality tests have five answers for each question: Strongly Agree, Agree, Neutral, Disagree, Strongly Disagree. Or with numbers: +2 +1 0 -1 -2. But this is not just a theoretical concept, but an exact picture of reality, where one can distinguish five values for each property, depending on how the basetype and subtype are mixed.

Basetypes in five-value scales

Types 12

Say: Types One Two

Commonality: Types 12 have the same diagonal = double opposite.
Therefore: Types 12 are both vertical in the scales 12.

Difference: Both properties are different: inner age and inner gender. Type 1 has son-brain, type 2 has mother-brain.

Pallas pattern, detail: Types 12:

Types 13

Say: Types One Three

Commonality: Types 13 have young brains. Difference: Type 1 has a masculine brain (14), type 3 has a feminine brain (23).
There are two representations for types 13: With the scales 12 = types 12 are vertical. With the scales 34 = types 34 are vertical.

Types 14

Say: Types One Four

Commonality: Types 14 have masculine brains. Difference: Type 1 has young brain (13), type 4 has old brain (24).

Subtypes in five-value scales

Types 104 and 203

Say: Types One Zero Four and Two Zero Three

Types 104 and 203 are created by rotating types 12. Commonality: inner age is neutral = Both brains have the same age. Therefore: both bodies have the same age.

Difference: inner gender is extreme: 104 is extremely masculine, 203 is extremely feminine. Therefore: both bodies have different genders.

So either M104 and F203 (gender-congruent: masculine brain in a masculine body, etc.), or F104 and M203 (gender-opposing: feminine brain in a masculine body, etc.).

Pallas pattern, detail: F104L and M203L:

Types 103 and 204

Say: Types One Zero Three and Two Zero Four

Types 103 and 204 are created by rotating types 12. Commonality: inner gender is neutral = both brains have the same gender. Therefore: both bodies have the same gender.

Difference: inner age is extreme: 103 is extremely young, 204 is extremely old. Therefore: both bodies have different ages.

So either 103S and 204L (age-congruent: young brain in a young body, etc.), or 103L and 204S (age-opposing: young brain in an old body, etc.).

Pallas pattern, detail: M103S and M204L:

Types 104 and 302

Say: Types One Zero Four and Three Zero Two

Commonality: inner age is neutral = both brains have the same age.
Therefore: both bodies have the same age.

Difference: inner gender is extreme: 104 is extremely masculine, 203 is extremely feminine. Therefore: both bodies have different genders.

So either M104 and F302 (gender-congruent: masculine brain in a masculine body, etc.), or F104 and M302 (gender-opposing: feminine brain in a masculine body, etc.).

Pallas pattern, detail: M104S and F302S:

On the other side: M103 does not match F3 because type 3 is double.
F301 does not match M1 because type 1 is double. If a type is double, then the two people are in competition = stress from the inside. Such relations are good for arguing or fighting, but are not "compatible", not stable to external stress.

Appendix: Concepts

Here I promote concepts that are useful in the context of "group composition by personality type".

My journal contains more concepts that are not (yet) in my book. I have published parts of my journal at github.com/milahu/alchi-journal.

Playing theater is psychotherapy

When playing theater, you can practice difficult situations. Example: Are you afraid of a job interview? Then ask a friend if he wants to play a human-resources manager. Example: I find it difficult to interfere in other people's private relations. So I ask my friends if we can act out this situation. Here is interesting: what can I do wrong? And how can I avoid these mistakes?

Morbid Gain

Our superiors feel safe when we are alone and when we are fighting each other. Our superiors benefit from our weakness and stupidity. Doctors profit from sick people: A patient cured is a customer lost.

Investment protection

concept: Investment protection, ego investment, "too late", "I am too old", "no way back", "old trees cannot be changed, they must be killed". The more energy you have invested in one direction, the harder it is to change this direction. Then you say: "Changing course? Better never than late!"

Anyone, who has invested lots of energy somewhere, and does not want to let go, will protect his investment. Cling on, hold on. Opposite of initial resistance.

Investment ruins arise where people "risk and lose", where energy is invested, but this investment does not bring any profit.

Old habits give security

TODO move: We always take refuge in old habits, in search of security. Similar with the subtype: Every human has a strong subtype and a weak subtype. I guess: The middle subtype is practically non-existent (ambivert in Carl Jung, mutable modality in astrology). Similar with partners: Everyone has two "strong" friends who fit particularly well. Which types are these? This is decided by the subtype, by the "strong" subtype. Two "weak" friends fit the "weak" subtype. The two "diagonal friends" are mutual friends, who exchange partners in groups of four.

Illusion of movement

Illusion of movement, wrong work, waste of time, controlled opposition, ...
TODO

Slave morality

Slave morality, slave education: Isolation is the first step in education. Step two: Systematic neglecting of children, under-challenging, boring, only letting them do light work, only letting them solve simple problems, no risk, no experiments, no martial arts, "beating is bad", only encouraging "good" behavior, "bad" behavior is ignored or punished. Children are treated like wild animals, "man" wants to tame them, domesticate them, civilize them ... "man" forbids the children to use their body language (example: beating), "man" takes away the children's weapons (fingernails), and forces all children to be "smart", to "solve problems with their head", even if many children "actually" (voluntarily) don't want that, and only play along because they are defenseless, because they are trapped. But "man" fights against forces of nature, against natural order, against inborn tendencies, against personality types ... therefore, this path has no future, and we must go "back to nature".

Industry has no future

Industry means first of all: machines. We invented machines, because previously, we found cheap energy: coal, oil, gas, Uranium. But this cheap energy is finite, and in the end our machines starve, and the next day we humans starve, because our lives are dependent on machines.

What is next? All we must do is look back 200 years. Instead of a fridge, we had a cold cellar. Instead of a washing machine we had soap and hands. Instead of lawnmowers we had goats. Instead of the Internet, we had letters and books. Instead of a printer, we had pen and ink. Instead of having "perfect hygiene", we were dirty and healthy. Instead of "bananas from Africa" we had self-sufficiency. Instead of "bananas in winter" we had seasonal fruits. Instead of "canned food from the supermarket" we cooked our winter supplies ourselves. Instead of "cotton from Africa" we had hemp from our garden.

Amish as a role model: The Amish people were right. They said 200 years ago: Industry has no future. 200 years ago it was a risky bet, but today it is clear: the Amish won the bet and we are the stupid ones.

Traditional agriculture

In the future, we will have no fuel and no machines. So: more manual work, more craftsmanship. So: We must organize people efficiently. So: We need appropriate education for each personality type, early education of natural talent, real tolerance (letting go of problem-children), real justice (both are right), active building of relations, active creation of personal justice through people-exchange between villages, early promotion of teamwork, mutual completion, feedback, mutual friends, self-government.

Our fight against nature needs cheap energy. Cheap energy allows us to waste energy. This "beautiful" time is over (peak oil, peak phosphorus... peak everything), and the sooner we get "back to nature", the better.

Healthy fats

Good fats: Omega 3, olive oil (only cold), coconut fat, avocado, hemp oil (only cold), clarified butter, lard (animal fat), fish oil, pumpkin seeds, linseed (not linseed oil).

Bad fats: Omega 6, sunflower, rapeseed, corn, palm fat. The "bad" fats are everywhere in fast foods: oat milk, pickled fish, tomatoes pickled in oil, creams, sauces, chips, fries, deep fryers, ...

Wild Potatos

Jerusalem artichoke = Indian potato = Topinambur = Helianthus tuberosus. Wild: grows automatically, without care. The spread is so aggressive that root barriers (rhizome barriers) should be used in the garden. Origin: North and Central America. Hardy plant: survives outside in winter, as a tuber in the ground, up to minus 30 degrees Celsius (-22°F). Raw food: No need for cooking. Also eaten by: voles (mice) and wild boars (pigs).

The harvest is less than with "culture" potatoes, but Wild Potatos require less work. In Europe, wild potatoes were largely replaced by the more productive potato from 1750. In commercial gardening, wild potatoes are cultivated as an annual crop (grows only one year). Grows mainly on a loose, slightly sandy soil. Sunny locations are particularly valued, but wild potatoes also feel comfortable in partial shade.

Nutrient therapy

Julia Ross, Kenneth Blum, Charles Gant, ... Each type (1234) has its typical nutrient deficiency, and therefore typical deficiency symptoms (typical burnout). Typical deficiency: 1 = adrenaline/dopamine, 2 = endorphin, 3 = GABA/cortisol, 4 = serotonin. Craving Type: 1234 = Fatigue Comfort Stressed Depressed. Nutritional supplement: 1 = Tyrosine, 2 = Phenylalanine, 3 = GABA/Theanine, 4 = Tryptophan/Glutamine. Each up to around 5 grams per day.

Social therapy

TODO move: A basis for my theory is the assumption: changing people is difficult, changing relations is easy. So when psychologists say "this human is mentally sick", then I say: "this human is trapped in wrong relations" and "my sick society makes me sick". I believe: Many mental disorders are the result of wrong relations. I believe: So-called "problem children" are trapped in wrong relations, and the best solution is adoption. I believe that child robbers like Krampus are liberators, heroes who free problem-children and bring them to better educators.

Electrosmog makes sick

TODO move: (TODO measurement. Where does 16 KHz come from? Power grid? Monitor? Power supply? Measuring errors?) By electrosmog I primarily mean the 16 KiloHertz harmonics in the power grid. These harmonics are produced by power electronics (inverters, power supplies). Electrosmog disrupts the quality of sleep, which is why everyone is always so tired ("Electrosmog is opium for the people"). Symptoms: dry nose, dry mouth, red eyes, tinnitus.

"The system" says electrosmog is great, because it means the slaves are too weak to resist. Technical suppression. Mass hypnosis. Crowd control. A minority controls the majority. Few guards versus many prisoners.

Electrosmog makes displays so fascinating. When we stare at displays, the beeping gets louder. We have an "addiction to displays". We want to confront and fight the beeping, but every display is a trap that attacks our brain. Electrosmog makes you tired, Electrosmog makes you insensitive (blind and deaf)...

Carrying books makes sick

The hidden curriculum (John Taylor Gatto - Dumbing Us Down) says: All students must carry heavy books every day. Why? Because carrying a heavy backpack (weighing more than 10% of body weight) every day promotes tension, stubbornness, narrow minds, obedience, tolerance for suffering, patience, ... = subtypes 24.

Official reason: Because schools don't have lockers. Why don't schools have lockers? There was no money left. As always, the official route is absolutely frustrating (this way we will change nothing), so also here, we have to help ourselves!

Self-help: Digitize all school books, leave the original books at school, and if you need individual pages at home, you can print them out or read them on screen.

To digitize books, you need: A4 guillotine paper cutter for unbinding for 110 Euros. Document scanner (ADF scanner) for 300 Euros. (I have all that, my neighbors can use it for free.) (If you want to share your machines with your neighbors, you should offer a "Scanservice" on kleinanzeigen.de.) Each book only needs to be digitized once, and all other readers can download the digital version from the internet.

The unbinded book cannot be returned at the end of the school year, instead, you must compensate the school for the damage (about 20 Euros per book). ("I lost the book.") The unbinded book can be sold on eBay with a clear note stating "Condition: unbinded", so that others can also scan and upload the book. The uploader can add a "Post Scriptum" page at the end of the book with links to his git repos. The uploader can ask for donations (payment via Monero). On average, around 10,000 students use the same book, so if only 1% of readers donate one Euro, the uploader receives 100 euros for his work.

Problem: trust. Readers must trust the uploader to not manipulate the scan. That's why there should be multiple uploads for each book, which can then be compared with "imagediff" programs like odiff.

Problem: discoverability. To help readers find your uploads, add the tag "schoolbook" to your git repos. In addition to the raw data (TIFF and HOOCR files), you can also create a compressed version (EPUB file with AVIF images, about 50 MB per book) and upload it to Library Genesis (open-slum.org), where readers can search by book title or ISBN number.

I regularly digitize important books and publish them on github.com/milahu/books. In addition to the TIFF and HOOCR files, I also publish my Bash and Python scripts, so that anyone can easily copy my process.

Problem: Censorship by Copyright. This publishing of scanned books is not exactly legal (risk: filesharing cease-and-desist demands) (but schoolbook-publisher are just as shitty as all mainstream-media or closed-source software producers, so for my taste, they should starve), so if you want to be on the safe side, you can use a "tor-hidden git-hosters": Darktea.onion, Righttoprivity.onion, gdata.onion, Darkforest.onion, ... A book scan in TIFF format with 600 dpi (raw data) is about 5 MB per page, so about 1 GB for 200 pages. You can't upload such large amounts of data to git-hosters, but for that we have filesharing: BitTorrent over I2P, Rapidgator.net, Mega.io, ...

Also here: technical problems are long solved, but the "paradise on earth" fails on social problems: offline networking, self-organization, division of labor, publication, advertising, flyers, activism, private teachers... So if you don't like carrying books, then do something!

Children don't understand this

"Children don't understand this", say teachers who kick me out, when I distribute my text to "their" students. Teachers say that my text is "not helpful" and that it only confuses the students ... but I make exactly the same accusation against teachers: forced schooling is a waste of time and child abuse. The teachers make children stupid and weak, so that later, they go to work as good slaves for the industry. The problem is, the industry has no future, so the children are being prepared for something that has no future.

School is political

The homeschooling ban in Germany is political. Teachers act as if school is "politically neutral"... but only dead people are neutral, every living human has his inborn bias, and his subjective worldview. One must be stupid or evil to make one's subjective worldview to an objective standard for all (totalitarianism), and all those who have a different inborn subjective worldview, are labeled "sick" and either re-educated or sorted out (artificial selection, made order). I am one of those "sorted out" people where re-education failed, and now I am on the regime his death list (page 82).

Simple problem

This is another "design goal" for my theory: The problem must be radically simple, so simple that many people overlook the problem because "that is too simple". And the solution must be radically simple, so that it works always and everywhere. It must be a "bottom-up" solution, the beginning must be where everyone can realistically change something (realistic freedom, private environment, inner circle).

Social Darwinism

Social Darwinists believe: Types 34 are "healthy" people, who should reproduce aggressively. (Socialists, Altruists, High Agreeableness in Big Five, Paradise in Heaven, Spiritual, Daughter and Father, Air and Love, High Culture, Made Order, "all differences come from education", by nature blind for personality types, by nature blind for natural order, "personality psychology is a pseudoscience", "all people are born equal", "every child's mind is a tabula rasa that can be programmed at will", Egalitarians, Mystics, Monists, "same and same attract"), Types 12 are "sick" people, who are "healed" in state schools (socialization, equalization), or thrown in jail, or killed. (narcissists, egoists, low agreeableness in Big Five, paradise on earth, materialists, mother and son, peace and war, unbelievers, pagans, antichrists, primitive culture, natural order, Gnostics, Dualists, "opposites attract"). Types 12 are sacrificed for "progress", away from the "primitive" natural order. ... so this is a "discrimination by personality type", which should be as "wrong" as racism, because personality type is inborn and stable for life. ... so this is the exact opposite of my demand for justice: fair distribution of personality types, every village needs exactly 25% of each of the 4 types.

Why? Types 34 have a "simple" worldview, a "one-dimensional" worldview, so they see only 2 types. For colors: For types 34, red-green are artificial colors. For numbers: For types 34, 1 and 2 are artificial numbers, the "artificial" world views (knowledge, consciousness) of types 34 are always based on the numbers 1 and 2. Example: Thesis Antithesis Synthesis = turn 2 into 1. Father mother child = 2 parents make 1 child. That is why types 34 instinctively believe "art is stronger than nature" (nature versus nurture debate): Subtype only has 2 extreme values (introvert-extrovert in Carl Jung). Basetype has 4 extreme values (Fire-Earth-Air-Water for elements).

You can also say: Types 34 instinctively believe in "linear" worldviews (progress, movement, dynamics, variation, hybridization, noise, chaos, always new, modern, fashion, neo), Types 12 instinctively believe in "circular" worldviews (History repeats itself, repetition, selection, stabilization, cycles, reincarnation, fate, natural order, classical music, nothing new).

Social Darwinists say: "Every person shall have the right to free development of his personality, insofar as he does not violate the rights of others or offend against the constitutional order or the moral law." — Basic Law for the Federal Republic of Germany, Article 2, Paragraph 1 (Personal freedoms). Also this is a typical "yes, but no" right: yes, every person may freely develop his personality, but no, evil persons may not freely develop their personality. So only good slaves may freely develop their personality, and evil slaves are punished for life, because evil slaves have a "wrong" personality type.

See also: By Nature Blind for Natural Order (page 47):

System criticism

System criticism is mostly shit, because most critics get lost in diagnoses, but offer no solution. So the standard accusation against every critic: "You can only complain, but you can not do it better yourself." In short: "Stupid!"

I am allowed

I believe: My theory about compatible relations is a possible solution for our broken world, so I am allowed to open my dirty mouth wide open when it comes to criticizing the system.

Justice

As a type 1 human, I am always looking for justice, balance, order, balance, symmetry, beauty. So: balance between diagnosis and therapy. Balance between analysis and synthesis = personality types and relations = "Who am I?" and "Who are my friends?" Balance between men and women. Balance between children and parents. Balance between inner values and outer values.

Insurance

Insurance and insurance fraud go hand in hand. What exactly is insurance? Anywhere, where workers always get the same money (flat rate), no matter how bad their work is.

Example of health insurance: If you want to bore me, you give the police the false statement "he threatened me". Police arrest me and throw me into psychiatry. Doctors force me to undergo "voluntary" treatment with sedatives for about 4 weeks. Doctors tell the judge that his condition is getting worse and worse. Judge gives permission for compulsory treatment. Doctors are treating me against my will with sedatives (depot injections). Doctors make the false statement in my file that "he is slowly getting better with medicine." A few weeks later I am released. My health insurance pays the doctors 400 Euros per day for this "hotel". So 2 months of psychiatry generate a turnover of  $60 \times 400 = 24,000$  Euro. A hotel room costs around 50 Euros per day, and psychiatry is just a hotel with no exit. After I am released, my insurance says: I should pay 10% of the costs, around 2,000 Euros, otherwise I will be downgraded to an emergency tariff ... So the beautiful idea of the "right to life and health" can easily be misused for modern slavery (Treatment as a pretext for insurance fraud) and/or political manhunt. Example: Gustl Mollath got into a fight with the financial mafia, and was thrown into psychiatry for several years innocently, because of false statements. Generally: separation of powers is fake, state is mafia, state is organized crime.

Religion

Christianity, Islam, Judaism, positive racism, Covid cult, ... can all be summarized under the term Slave morality (Friedrich Nietzsche). Slave morality means: Type 1 is sacrificed, then Type 234 can live in "peace". Civilization = Pacifism = Pro Life. Holy Trinity = Types 234 = Body Soul Spirit = Creator Doer Thinker. Type 2 serves as a positive example. Type 1 serves as a negative example.

Type 2 is Bella, Living God, Perfect Slave, Sacrificial Animal, Prototype Victim, Creator, Womb, Stockholm Syndrome, Polite to the point of self-destruction, mother role, Vulnerable Narciss.

Type 1 is Satan, problem child, proud egoist, attacker, criminal, enemy of the state, serial killer, terrorist, executioner, destroyer, natural selection, natural death, pro choice, judge of life and death, grandiose narciss, son role, main-job son, devil, Satan, predator, lion.

Example of Christianity: The son (Jesus, type 1) is sacrificed by his father (Yahweh, type 4), so that "the people" (types 234) are cleansed of sin (serial murder, tribe wars).

Pro Life

Problem: All of these "Pro Life" cults keep producing overpopulation (too many people) and degeneration (ugly people, old people). (TODO boom-bust cycles. "Bulls" speculate on growth.) To compensate, these cults invent: help to self-destruction (gays, drugs), conventional medicine (making stupid people sick), sex taboo (one-child families), contraception (sex for fun, without having children), clothes (ban on nudity, hiding ugly bodies), ... but at the end of the day, these systems never work as efficiently as natural order, where type 1 people kill the "unworthy people" immediately, and don't keep them alive for years, and don't tempt people from all sides to commit suicide.

Detail: Devils are always men, type M1. So apparently F1 is better than M1. Why? The masculine gender of M1 is symmetrical to the masculine brain of M1, therefore M1 is "stronger" than F1.

Patriarchy and Matriarchy

TODO Patriarchy = M1-M4-F2-F3. Matriarchy = F1-F4-M2-M3.

Roman Cross

Symbol: †, †, Roman Cross, Latin Cross, Dagger, Sword.

Types 3402 seek proximity to type 2 ("God") and distance from type 1.

Types 3401 seek proximity to Type 1 ("Devil") and distance from Type 2.

The connection between Type 302 and Type 402 is via the common subtype: Both play subtype 2.

With raised sword

Idiots end their letters "with friendly greeting". But only enemies have to be "friendly", real friends write "Your friend". So shit on this lying crap, I end my letters "with raised sword †".

"Raised sword" means: Who stands in our way, we kill him. Middle finger. We are: Living gods, executioners, masters over life and death, Satanists, Antichrists, soldiers, serial killers, ... We take life serious, dead serious. We don't have a "second life after death".

Trauma Releasing Exercises

by David Bercei. Cramping and shaking. Real exorcism. Releasing blockages. Liberation from fear.

Video: The Wounded Woman - Chapter 3 (youtu.be/41rfdsv4zB8)

Shaking is also a sport

basics: Trauma Releasing Exercises, neurogenic tremors, Shaking Medicine. In sports, you usually only make slow movements. Here you make quick movements, and use the resonance frequency of your body. Example: Hopping. Tense your arms and legs, fists to your chest, legs are hopping, elbows make circles. The hopping frequency is like running. If you do this hopping for a while, you get a "runner's high", an endorphin rush.

Stretching muscles and relieving pressure on joints

The martial arts teacher and the doctor Liebscher and Bracht (liebscher-bracht.com) have discovered: If you stretch muscles (with certain yoga exercises), you can relieve pressure on joints. It is also logical: stretching makes the muscles longer, and the joints have more space.

The problem is: This solution is "too easy" for conventional doctors, because you can not prescribe a patented drug, which would bring money to the pharmaceutical industry.

Fairness in sex

Men climax more easily during sex. Why? Because men are "on top" and are active, and women are "on bottom" and are passive. .

Solution: Amazon position. He lies on the bottom, legs up, legs apart. So he "spreads his legs", like in "manspreading". The rest works like in the missionary position, only the other way around. She is "on top" and is active. She has her legs together and makes thrusting movements with her ass. For her, the climax is better than in the cowgirl position, because her legs are together, where her legs automatically want to be when she climaxes.

Dont pay for government propaganda

There are still too many idiots in Germany, who pay the broadcasting fee ("Rundfunkbeitrag" or "GEZ-Gebühr"), even though the official broadcasting networks produce only shit, which keeps its consumers stupid, poor, weak. The problem is: Idiots (types 24?) conclude by reverse-logic from "I pay for this" to "this must be good". (stockholm syndrome. "love your enemies." logic fail.) So instead of "active search for information" idiots do "passive showering in propaganda".

beitragsblocker.de (fee blocker) is no solution, but a scam. You pay 50 Euros for 3 mysterious "writings" ("Schriftsätze") (can someone publish these "writings"?!) which you send to the broadcasting service (GEZ) and courts of law, which then somehow magically remove your obligation to pay. This process is completely intransparent (where are the "writings"?!) and at trustpilot.com there are many negative reviews from humans who bought the "Beitragsblocker" but then still had to pay the broadcasting fee, at the latest through bank account seizure. The offer by "Beitragsblocker" sounds like they represent their clients in courts of law, but that is false, they only sell pretty letters, hot air. (dreamseller. false hope.)

What helps: Working for cash. If you have no bank account, then they can not (so easy) seize your money.

What helps: Unemployment. Unemployed people do not have to pay the broadcasting fee.

What helps: Insolvency and bank account with seizure protection (P-Konto). The seizure exemption limit are 1500 Euros per month. "Once your reputation is gone, life is easy." But then you should not have children, otherwise they are taken to a child prison = foster care. But "child protective services" hate poor people. Children are a coercion-tool against parents.

What helps: Living without a permanent residence. Only with a permanent residence, you have to pay the broadcasting fee.

What helps: Emigration, away from Germany.

What helps: Killing spree at the broadcasting service. Shoot down some of these parasites (all are guilty), and then go to prison "for life" = for 20 years, then you also don't have to pay the broadcasting fee. But in prison you have to die of boredom, thanks to pacifism.

don't pay for filesharing demands

There are still too many idiots who pay for filesharing demands, even though they don't have to pay.

The trick is: The copyright lawyers (copyright trolls) not only demand a cease-and-desist declaration, where you promise "I will never upload this content again", but they also demand a payment obligation, where you voluntarily agree to pay around 1000 Euros for damage repair.

Theoretically, the lawyers can sue for the cease-and-desist declaration in court, but they have zero claim to compensation, for the simple reason: the lawyers can not prove that the upload caused damage. But if you sign the payment obligation, then you must pay.

The smart solution: You send a "modified cease and desist declaration" (abmahnwahn-dreipage.de), where you only promise "I will never upload this content again", but nothing else, also no admission of guilt.

I have done this about 20 times and it works. Now I completely ignore these demands, because these lawyers are looking for "easy prey", and they have already noticed that I don't pay.

I also find it interesting that I upload hundreds of torrents, and only get these demand letters because of porn. I guess these lawyers want to destroy families: "Honey, why did you download porn?!" Or: "Child, why did you download movies?!"

My parents paid my first filesharing demand (because I uploaded Latin translations, LOL) because my parents are stupid, and because they asked "their" lawyer, and he is also stupid (or evil). So instead of spending a few hours reading on the Internet (self-help), my parents relied on an "expert", who earns more money, the higher the amount in dispute (conflict of interest), and who simply says "you must pay" so that he gets his share.

By the way, these demands are also one reason why the German torrent scene is so shit. German content is almost only available via one-click hosters or Usenet, but that is expensive and shit. And most German uploaders are too stupid to compress, so an English film as a torrent is 1 gigabyte, and a German film as a "direct download" (DDL) is 5 gigabytes.

Trauma-based mind control

Provocation and sublimation. A child is forced into teacher-child relations, under evil or stupid teachers. These educators traumatize the child through false education: hurting them or neglecting them. Trauma means: the child was too weak to defend itself, the child was not allowed to fight back, the child was always only allowed to "be nice" / "be good", unresolved conflict, repressed aggression, underlying hatred, tense posture, blockages, taboo topics, trigger topics. Consequence: A lifelong campaign of revenge against all "authorities", against anyone, who reminds the child of his educators.

So above all, a revenge campaign against all "proud" authorities (type 1 people, transactional leadership style, 1 leads and 2 follows), who openly live out their dominance. Such type 1 people awaken hope in the child, hope for "redemption" (trauma release), because type 1 "leads to freedom". But most Type 1 people are not prepared for this situation, and don't know (stupidity), how to react to this hope. Consequence: The child is disappointed with the type 1 human, the type 1 human seems like a failure, the child feels hurt or neglected, the child remembers his trauma (injuries in childhood) (re-traumatization), the repressed aggression comes up again, the child becomes aggressive towards the type 1 human.

The winners in this game are Type 4 people, who subtly express their dominance (Type 4 people, type 4 is playing the victim, transformational leadership style, 3 leads and 4 follows). Such type 4 people use the repressed aggression as motivation to work (motivation, drive). In addition, the Type 4 human makes hidden references to the child's taboo topics. The child becomes weakly aggressive, and the Type 4 human channels this aggression into productive work (sublimation, playing with fire).

You can also understand this "game" like this: Type 4 people are blind to natural order. Say: "Nature is nothing, nurture is everything." So: "All people are born equal, and all differences are learned." So: aggression is learned. So: Some children are forced into an "education to aggression", so that these children later have a "motivation to work". These people also don't believe in voluntary work (negative view of humans, "all people are lazy")

child protective service as child robbers

child protective service (in Germany the "Jugendamt") recruit child soldiers for training in an orphanage. Children are "fucked", physically and mentally injured and traumatized.

Chaos and order

Evolution needs both. Order matters: Which parts fit together? Chaos is needed, to get the parts moving (chaos, luck, movement, playing dice, noise), so that different parts can meet each other and try to work together. When two parts have found each other, they stay together, if they are strong enough to resist chaos, decay, separation, entropy, death. So: When it comes to matchmaking, you also need these two driving forces: chaos and order. Movement and compatibility.

Appendix: Fragments

For whom? Who am I doing this for? For me and for my friends.

For me, because I have been working on this topic for too long, since my puberty, for 20 years. Apparently I have to write this book completely by myself. That is my curse, I am a "smart egoist" (Type 1).

Strict or sloppy

My path is called "Right Path": I solve the causes of problems. Radical solutions. Change problems. Destroying something negative = destructive. Minus times minus equals plus. Liberal strategy. Type 1. The main thing: solve the problem. Minor things: The positive effects come automatically. Open results. Open minded. Macro management = details don't matter. Beginning is important = progressive. Foundation is important.

The other path is called the "left path": There you solve symptoms of problems, which means such solutions are "superficial". Repeat solutions. Increase something positive. Plus times plus equals plus. Conservative strategy. Narrow minded. Purposeful. Greed for profit. Type 4. Sloppy solutions. Showmanship. botch. Empty customs. Micro-management = getting lost in details. The main thing: happy ending. Side note: How exactly you get to this happy ending does not matter. A good goal allows all paths. End is important = Arguing from the desired outcome = regressive. Example: prohibition of arguments, politeness, suppressing negative symptoms.

Who is who? So: who takes the right path? Who takes the left path? Good question ... I think Type 14s are strong strategists. Type 1 = Right Path. Type 4 = Left path. Types 23 are weak strategists and follow the strategies of Types 14.

Life and Death: Love and Hate. Eros and Thanatos. Dionysus and Apollo. Chaos and order. Mutation and selection. Pro-Life and Pro-Choice. Aeros and Focus. Air and fire. Type 3 and Type 1.

Mathematics: Modulo Five

Why Modulo Five? Because four elements. That is why 6 is equal to 1, and -1 is equal to 4. Modulo is a spiral. At modulo 5 there are 5 angles with integers: 0 1 2 3 4.

Four fingers and a thumb. Our thumb is not a finger, that is why it is called thumb and not thumb-finger. The two thumbs have the numerical values 0 and 5. The eight fingers have the numerical values 1234 and 6789.

Politics and Basics

politics is quite simple, if you understand the basics. The foundations of our civilization are prohibition of murder and cheap energy. The result: global overpopulation. So there are too many people worldwide.

The worst part of environmental destruction is the deforestation of virgin forest, and the indirect destruction of virgin forest through pesticides, animal extermination, water wells, concrete, etc.

Overpopulation is the cause of all problems

Here is the number of people worldwide over the last 10,000 years. The graph has a linear vertical axis and you can see the "explosion" of the population over the last 200 years (coal, steam engines, industry).

Here are the same numbers, but this graph has a logarithmic vertical axis, whic, h means: Each level has 10 times more people.

The problem of overpopulation has been known for over 40 years (Georgia Guidestones: Commandment 1: Keep the population below 500 million.)

The only way out is global mass murder (Depopulation, Agenda 21, Great Reset, Holodomor). How will people die? Supply failure. No electricity, no water, no food, no heating. Three days later, anarchy reigns. When? February 2026. Gas shortage → Blackout → Cold, hunger, civil war → Most people will die.

And Covid? Haha. Covid is just a distraction. (And a license to print money = Inflation.) If people no longer have anything to eat from one day to the next, they will quickly forget about luxury problems like Covid or gender asterisks.

Cheap energy

Cheap energy is a blessing and a curse. The nice thing is: we have lots of energy for research (doing things differently). The problem is: We can waste energy (do wrong things): cultivate the wrong friends, have the wrong education (waste of potential), defend false expectations, build large states (growth, usury), ...

Cheap energy is also the basis for machines. We use machines for "heavy" work, and only do "light" work. But ... how long is this supposed to last? In the future we will have: no coal, no oil, no gas, no wood. So, back to manual labor. So: We must organize small businesses (150 people) efficiently again, we must take natural tendencies (natural order) seriously again. In the future, we simply can no longer afford to do the wrong things we do now.

Solar panels and wind turbines are a desperate attempt, to save a standard of living dependent on cheap energy. These machines have a lifespan of 20 years. And then? Then they end up in the trash and must be bought new, "made in china". And here too the raw materials will run out at some point. And then? Back to handwork. Back to natural order. The only "renewable" (renewable) energy sources are wood and vegetable oil, but these also must be harvested somehow.

Back to the human problem: machines have no will, so they are perfect slaves. People are willful, so "education" must be used to make them stupid and weak, so that they can be exploited. But why so complicated? Why is it so difficult to support stubborn children? I believe: Because stupid mothers/caregivers/teachers cling to fake children. Because problem children are not let go. Because you want to sabotage "the others", but in the long term that is self-destruction.

End time

Imagine you have five months left to live, and then you must die. What will you do in your last days? What else do you want to accomplish in this life? What would you still want to achieve in this life? Take the shortcut of suicide? Lie on the couch and wait for death? Lie to yourself with "you will live forever"? Continue walking a straight line? Become active and use your last days meaningfully? You are dying already, so how do you want to die? My answer: I want to find out: Is my Pallas-hypothesis right or wrong? If correct, then my Pallas-hypothesis is a basis for a better world t-collapse world. I will not experience this better world myself, but I don't care.

Dualism

No shadow, no light. No dark, no light. No cost, no benefit. No hate, no love. Without war, no peace. Without chaos, there is no order. No loss, no gain. Without winter, no summer. No risk, no profit. No pain no gain. Without initial resistance, no improvement. ... Paradise on earth fails because of false expectations: stupid people want it to be nice, but don't want to sacrifice anything for it. Stupid people want "justice", but when I define what justice is mathematically and precisely, then they say "that is not how I imagined it", and wait for a better definition of justice, where only the "nice" aspects appear (fair weather justice), and where all the "ugly" aspects are kept quiet. And so the stupid people wait forever, because true justice is radical and makes no compromises.

Dynamic balance

These "stupid" people (types 24? types 34?) will never understand how d Dynamic balance works. Specifically, this can be justified with small families: If a mother only has 1 or 2 children, then it is very difficult for the mother to let go of these children. On the other side: If a mother has 10 children, then the mother can more easily let go of 1 or 2 children.

But a d Dynamic balance brium also fails because of a broken world: If I live in a city (city: more than 144 people), then most people are strangers to me, then I am afraid and distrustful of my neighbors, so it is much more difficult for me to care for my children let go. In a world like this, I need "professional educators" (state-certified idiots), who claim a "monopoly on education", and everyone else is by definition incapable of educating, because monopolists hate any competition.

On the other hand, perfect world: If I live in a village (village: 128 to 144 people) then I know everyone, then I trust my neighbors, and I can let go of my children much more easily.

What do children need?

For me the more important question is: WHO do children need? Any "certified" supervisors? Or real friends and voluntary relations?

Who is the best educator for a child? I think: same type, different body. Only the same type can understand exactly, what the child wants to say with his body language. Example: M1L and F1S. So: father-daughter and mother-son relations. With Sigmund Freud: Electra and Oedipus. But for me that is the solution, not the problem. In the Pallas pattern these are diagonal relations in square groups.

But the "same type" can not do the upbringing alone, so he needs two helpers: the other two in the square group. Example: At M1L and F1S still missing F2L and M2S. So overall a "small family": son, mother, daughter, father. See also: problem child, adoption, child exchange, children's market

Common correlations

What is masculine? What is feminine? What is childish? What is mature?

There is not one global answer, but four local answers. Each cross group has common correlations between internal properties and external properties.

Example: Cross group M1S-F3S-F2L-M4L. The following applies here: Men have masculine brains (M14), Women have feminine brains (F23), Children have young brains (13S), Parents have old brains (24L). Here both properties are "correct" or "symmetrical" or "congruent".

There are a total of four different cross groups: double correct (M1S-F3S-F2L-M4L), correct gender and incorrect age (M1L-F3L-F2S-M4S), double incorrect (F1L-M3L-M2S-F4S), correct age and incorrect gender (F1S-M3S-M2L-F4L).

Minimum law

A good educator needs both halves: Personal reasons (compatible relation, voluntarism, talent) and factual reasons (material and knowledge). If one half is missing, then the result is much worse, and you can not make up for the missing half, by making the other half stronger.

Why do I do this?

TODO move: For me. For my child. For all children. I want to know if I am right. I want to know if my hypothesis is correct. Out of self-motivation. Because I enjoy it. Because I feel like it. Because otherwise it will not leave me alone. I have invested lots of energy and want to finish it. Because I don't care about anything else.

Why am I an enemy of the state?

Because government fails to address major problems, such as environmental protection or population control. The state fails to hunt down major criminals (the state is a conspiracy of large corporations, there is no separation of powers), and blinds the stupid public with its hunt for petty criminals (scapegoats).

State is by idiots, for idiots. Formerly church, now state. Formerly religion, now politics. Formerly witch hunts, today criminal prosecution. Formerly clergy, now experts.

I mean, how stupid do you have to be to always look for short-term profit, and dig your own grave in the long term? Fraud only works against people, but fraud fails against natural laws. Nature can not be fooled.

These people are probably really that stupid and believe in "life after death" (another idiot test). In such a worldview it is logical that one does not take "the first life" seriously, that life is just a joke, that one "just wants to have fun", that one wants to "get by somehow", etc ...

.. but then follows my standard question to every "believer": If your first life does not matter, and if a better life awaits you after death, why can not I kill you, here and now? Because I only have one life, and unlike you, I take my life seriously, and "just having fun" is not enough for me.

Zero euros

Why am I giving away my work? Because so far, my work is just a hypothesis. But also otherwise: Because information should be free. Everyone should have this basic knowledge. Because money spoils everything. Because money hides the true costs.

What are the true costs? You have to read and think about my work. You have to get out of the rabbit hole find your way back into the real world. You don't have to talk the world more beautiful, you have to make it more beautiful.

Trapped in poverty

TODO move: You must fight for health and happiness. Weakness, illness and death come by themselves (entropy). TODO "why can not we have nice things?" TODO "perfection is boring." TODO Dreaming of breaking out of the prison of poverty. TODO cheap tricks for poor people. TODO work sets you free. TODO most apartments are too small for shared apartments.

TODO forced model small family. Problem: Most work requires discipline, patience, boredom, monotony, linearity, order, Types 24. But: Types 13 are creative, short-sighted, entertaining, non-linear, chaotic, and want short relations.

religious community or community of life

TODO move: The difference is: poor or rich. Poor people are trapped in a community of faith, and dream of living together. Rich people live in cohabitation, and maintain religious communities as "crumbs" for the poor. (Trickle-Down Economy).

We do the same shit EVERY DAY, and we are amazed us why we are so stupid. Monotony makes you stupid. One-sidedness makes you stupid. And that is exactly the goal of our superiors: to make us stupid so that we can continue to work well.

Science and politics

"Science is free" promises politics, but as always in politics: promises only apply before the election.

Real science: is free, open-ended, curious, courageous, risk-taking, uncomfortable, dirty, aggressive, radical, is open to amateur researchers, all hypotheses are equal, does not give a fuck about certificates/diplomas/certificates, is suspicious of the rich/powerful/clean, works with exact methods (shit on the outside - gold on the inside), wants to be right, seeks truth and justice, invests more energy in content/content, has inner beauty, is beautiful in itself and does not need a "clean" image, is also beautiful naked, is not afraid o f being naked, has no secrets (fully transparent), has nothing to hide, "first do then think", ...

False science: has taboos, bans on thinking, bans on speech, censorship, must be polite, must be politically correct, must deliver a desired result, must confirm a prejudice, always wears a white coat, attaches great importance to titles such as "Doctor" or "Professor", "forbidden" hypotheses are excluded from the outset ("that should not be the case"), is dependent on money (only "real" research is funded), can be bought, can be blackmailed, is a closed society (only "state-certified experts" are allowed to conduct research), has no room for critics/outside/here/etics, and, prohibits fundamental discussions ("We have already sorted that out"), real critics are insulted and excluded, only pseudo-critics (strawmen) are allowed, only superficial criticism is allowed (form criticism: "The content fits, but we can say it more beautifully" ), works with dirty tricks (gold on the outside - shit on the inside), secretly wages war against their opponents (secret services, sabotage, murder), wants to be successful, wants to be popular, invests more energy in advertising/marketing/layout/presentation/formalities, has to maintain a "clean" image to the outside world, has to "make oneself beautiful", only has external beauty, is afraid of being naked, has to hide their inner ugliness, "think first then do", ...

Freedom of opinion

You can believe many things, you can have many "opinions".

But whether these hypotheses work in the real world, is simply irrelevant to some people (short-sighted, ignorant, moral ethics, idealism, good intentions, mind over matter), and exactly these people are selected by the system for positions of power. Such people become teachers, cops, judges, prosecutors, doctors, ... because only such idealists can sell shit for gold, only such idealists fight for this system of lies.

Such people are always playing for time: "Tomorrow I will test my hypotheses, but today you have to believe in my hypotheses." But this "tomorrow" never comes, the hypotheses are never tested, and always have to be believed.

And those who do not believe, are simply forced with "good" violence... it is always only a minority that fights back, and most people play along because they are too stupid or too weak to resist.

No discussion

"Fight the beginnings." "No discussions of principles." "We have already discussed that." "Let's move on." "The subject is taboo." Revolutions are stopped on day one. Deviants are sabotaged from the start. Ignorance. Stupid and happy. Sleeping dogs want to keep sleeping. Believers are afraid of disappointment. Believers are afraid of payday. Believers are afraid of consequences, when their hypotheses are exposed as wrong. Believers prefer a known deception over disappointment. Believers prefer a known evil over an uncertain good. "Everything in here stays as it is! And you shut up!!" (RTL Andreas).

Internet is censored to death

Any content that is "too radical" is aggressively censored, and the censorship is also censored (meta-censorship), so that the censored content disappears without a trace. All that remains is boring shit, so that the idiots can feel smart (stupid and happy), and so that sleeping dogs can keep sleeping. "There's nothing to see here, please move on..."

Anyone who produces content that is "too radical" is not given any reach. So such "too radical" content is not published, and the "too radical" people are left to talk to themselves. (Shadowbanning. Shouting into the void.) Because there are no "neutral" platforms, only publishers. And every publisher has their own inclinations (bias, prejudices, principles, strategy), and will only publish content that suits their inclinations.

The situation is already bad, but will get even worse in the future to the forced introduction of CBDC (Central Bank Digital Currency) and the forced introduction of a social credit score system (like in China), so that "antisocial" people are killed, i.e. social Darwinism.

How will these measures be introduced? Through "the event". We do not yet know exactly what that will be. But it will again be an artificially created "emergency", i.e. a "false flag attack", as so often (9/11, Covid, ...). Maybe a power outage? Then they will push the narrative: "Some hackers caused this power outage, so we now have to make the Internet more secure so that such a catastrophe does not happen again. And those who are against it want such catastrophes to happen again in the future." The fact that these "catastrophes" are artificially created from above is not mentioned, because that would be "rule through fear", i.e. terrorism from above, but "terrorists" are always the others.

"Making the Internet more secure" then means: no encryption (HTTPS, AES), no anonymous accounts, no proxies, no VPN. So all Internet traffic is visible to secret services, and every online account is linked to an offline identity. The fact that secret services can falsify evidence at will in order to kill "annoying" people is probably the smallest problem... The Internet is already 99% a boring pile of shit, but this proportion will then rise to 100%. So the future is offline: LAN and sneakernet (file sharing via external hard drives). And books, they also work after the blackout.

Censored or ignored

When I send emails to promote my book, I almost never get a reply. And then the question is: am I being censored or ignored? So am I being censored by email providers, or am I being ignored by email recipients?

Too many people don't understand that all email providers censor emails, not only through spam filters, where emails are delivered to the spam folder, but also through delivery filters, so that emails are not delivered at all. Because who will check that? You would need a second channel (phone or chat) to check email delivery.

Direct voting rights for children

Children are allowed to choose their educators. Everyone can be an educator.

Not just an "indirect" right to vote, where every 4 years I vote for someone, who elects someone who tells someone, that someone should do something different ... how stupid do you have to be, to believe that?

I want a "direct" right to vote, direct influence on my educators, teachers, trainers and trainers.

If I think someone sucks, I want to get away from them. (I would rather be alone than fake friends.) If I think someone else is better, then I want to go to them.

I don't want to be trapped under some bosses who I did not vote for, who I can not vote out of, who always get their flat rate salary, no matter how shitty their work is.

I don't want to be trapped by stupid parents when, there are enough neighbors who can offer me a better education.

Illusion of choice

The so-called "free" choice is often a choice between shit and shit. I say: Better nothing than shit. Better no teachers than shitty teachers. Better no friends than shitty friends. Well, I can easily be alone. Other people need the warmth of society more, make compromises for it, allow themselves to be blackmailed.

Doing or Talking

Whoever can do, does. If you can not do it, talk.

Why am I talking? Because: I can not do anything. More precisely: What I want I can not do, what I should I don't want. There is no compromise in between. Everyone points at the other, and ultimately only violence helps. Therefore: Only violence helps against stupidity.

I am too poor to live my ideals. My ideals are forbidden, privileges for the rich and the "good" (good violence). I am "smart and poor", and ultimately I am looking for a sponsor t, o pay for my research. You must be "smart and rich"...

Until then: My book is my answer to the question "What would I do if I was allowed to do EVERYTHING?" I have all the freedom, I can create a new culture "from scratch"... What do I do? What do I have done?

Good violence and evil violence

It is always the others who are bad ... so: everything is relative

But then who is right? If two people argue, then you should bet.

Example of parenting: mother and father fight over their child. Everyone says: I am good, you are shit. Who is right? Both and neither. If two hypotheses conflict, then you must test both. Raising children is easier with shared parenting: one week with mom, one week with dad. After a few months it will become clear: who is better for the child? So: who does the child want to stay with?

Even Wikipedia says good things about shared parenting: "children with a shared parenting arrangement have better physical, mental, social and academic outcomes compared to children in a primary parenting arrangement."

On the other side: So-called experts who get involved here and decide with some evidence: Who does this child belong to? Such decision-makers can only make wrong decisions, because they don't even understand: All hypotheses are equal, and only through experiment can one arrive at the truth. But as I said: only violence can help against stupidity. These superiors have no interest at all in "truth" or "justice", but", rather these bureaucrats always want to be innocent, always play it "safe" and never risk anything. And "cheap tricks for poor people" are also better t han the tedious, dirty search for truth. You don't want to get your fingers dirty. That is why you have studied smarts for 10 years ...

These monopolists only ever create false security. They say "let us not argue", they suppress problems, they bully their opponents away, they throw their opponents into prison = passive violence. And then, when everything is shit and boring, who is to blame? Sure, it is still "the other" because he is so weak and can be bullied away and thrown into prison, because he lost the "shit test". The problem is, this game is unfair, because stupid victims are protected by "good violence" (officials, prosecutors, police), and are insured and subsidized for the rest of their lives, and I, as the evil attacker, am de stroyed and kept down for the rest of my life. Equality is the opposite of justice. This equality is achieved through egalitarianism, rewarding victims and punishing perpetrators. That too: a nice idea with catastrophic long-term consequences.

Blood or Tears

Defenders of passive violence say: "Tears are better than blood". So: psychological violence is better than physical violence. Passive violence is better than active violence. Locking people up, locking them away, repressing them, ignoring them, keeping quiet ... are better than attacking, imposing, killing.

As a defender of active violence, I say: I dare to disagree. I beg to disagree. I want a "paradise on earth" and not just a "paradise in my head". The price for this is blood. Real decisions. Natural selection. Judgment over life and death. What only a "god" is allowed to do in your country (a rich human with privileges). But maybe I am a "god"? Why is there only one God? Why do gods must be dead? For you I am a heretic, for me you are failures. Fuck the system! But this time right.

Slave morality and master morality

Slaves and masters = farmers and soldiers.

I say: both are important. So we need lots of them. A village with 144 people needs 72 farmers and 72 soldiers.

Many years ago a smartass said: "Farmers are great and soldiers are shit" and since then we have had too many farmers and too few soldiers. We call this imbalance "civilization" and we feel great about it. But I think it sucks, because 1. too many people and 2. too ugly people. So overpopulation and degeneration.

This is also why farming villages and rural communities fail: only farmers, no soldiers. Only field work, no martial arts. For me, Shaolin monks are a good role model; t, hey do both: field work and martial arts.

"Farmers are great ..." - Hence the problem of "symmetrical warfare" "soldiers against soldiers". "Soldiers against farmers" would be correct, anti-symmetrical warfare. Civilians act as if they are holy and innocent, as if they have a "right to life." It is a nice idea, but unfortunately not sustainable.

Slave morality	Master morality
Beautiful lies	Hard truth
False hope	No future
Wait	ing Fighting M
asochism	Narcissism
social, moderate	antisocial, extreme
Altruists	Egoists

Principle	Fear	Lus
	t Basic rights	Privileges
	Low standards	High standards
Goal	Paradise in the head	Paradise on earth knowledge is power	violence is power
	Weakness is good ( NormoPathy)	Strength is good defensive, hold back	interfere, aggressive push out	confront
	ignorance	daredevils

Bulls and bears

Bulls bet on rising prices, bears bet on falling prices. Which courses?
Ultimately: people. Lots of people = lots of demand = high prices.

Seen this way, "Pro Life" politics is an artificial speculative bubble. Murder ban, overpopulation, prices rise, bubbles burst. And we are so stupid that we fall for the scam. Because banning murder is just a "good idea", but not sustainable.

The most important law is prohibition of murder. All other laws are just logical consequences.

Infallible

Officials are infallible, Titanic is unsinkable, World Trade Center is indestructible, tobacco is harmless, alcohol is harmless, heroin is harmless (heroin used to be medicine), asbestos is harmless, fluorine (PTFE plastic) is harmless, plastic is harmless, DDT is harmless vaccines are harmless, conventional medicine is harmless, patents are harmless, paper money is harmless, loans are harmless, chemical fertilizers are harmless, milk is harmless, solar cells are harmless, lithium batteries are harmless, ...

How stupid do you have to be to believe so much crap? Probably endlessly stupid, but stupidity is also a talent ...

"Stupid" people overestimate benefits and underestimate costs. So: positive thinking, solution-centered thinking, stubbornness, fixation, "obsessed with the good", greedy for profit and blind to costs.

If I argue against this, I am a pessimist, critic, black thinker, doubter, unbeliever, "enemy of progress", ... I just say: I will see you in the future, then we know the side effects and long-term consequences. I wish anyone who sacrifices themselves for "science" lots of fun with the side effects.

Devil stuff

Killing people is evil martial arts is evil, aggression is evil, insults are evil, dirty words are evil, Tryptamine are evil, Phenethylamine are evil, Amphetamine are evil, knives are evil, guns are evil, ...

The normal people scream "Ugh devil!" but I (as a devil) find this useful.

And I don't see why passive violence (civilization, war against nature) is better than active violence (tribe wars, tribe wars, civil wars). As always: well-intended, bad for the future.

Peasant Revolt

Our superiors are afraid of the next peasant revolt every day, and they would rather regulate everything to death than risk too much freedom.

Security obsession, passive violence, fear, ... as boring as a football game without an attack.

Miracle Healing

In Africa they drink gasoline and orange juice, and call it Miracle Juice. In Europe they get injected with "something" and call it vaccine and science. For both remedies they say: If you get sick, then you took not enough "medicine". And if you die from "side effects": "That means its working! Trust the science!"

Both means are an intelligence test with the aim of killing stupid people. So: selection for cleverness. What is missing? Selection for beauty. Kill ugly people. For that we need serial murder.

Forced Schooling

When you remove the free will from education, you turn education into schooling. — John Taylor Gatto - Weapons of Mass Instruction

South Park: Stan from the future wants to warn Stan, but Stan does not listen. Generational conflict. The difficult relation between old and young people. Old people have experience but are tired. Young people are stupid but motivated. Problem: forced schooling, too few private teachers. The state has a monopoly on education: only those who are friends of the system are allowed to work as teachers. Therefore: All teachers are failures. For me, these are "state-certified complete idiots."

The state wants to have a monopoly on society, groups of people, relations, friendship. (Relationship control, attachment intolerance, authoritarian parenting style.)

Therefore: Groups of people are only allowed for school and work, and otherwise people should be alone.

Just no self-organization. Just not an "organized private life". Just no "regular table discussions". Just no self-justice.

Not that the subjects come up with the "stupid" idea, of starting a peasant revolt again ... The organized criminals in our government (white collar criminals) are above the law (infallible), and only the lower class is sacrificed (original sin).

Leader without followers

I am a "leader without followers". I would have work (ideas) for a hundred people, but I am always alone, so I only get a small portion of my ideas done.

Managers are not trained at school. You should "serve yourself highly" you should first be a follower (slave morality for everyone), and perhaps later (if you are good) you can be a leader (master morality for a few). The problem is, I don't have time for these games. My inborn personality type says: I want to lead. And I don't want to must prove to any shitty boss that I am "good", because I am not "good", I am anti-social, and I don't give a shit about your laws, and I will not let myself be forced into your society. I just want to grow up with my friends "from the beginning", and choose for myself who I want to run with. See also: problem child, devil child. My superiors are monopolists: they don't want to let me go, because otherwise I would work for their enemies.

99 percent idiots

I am looking for the one percent of people who are smart enough to understand me, and strong enough to realize my ideas. Who don't waste their time saving sinking ships. Who don't waste their time fighting lost wars.

Most people (the 99 percent) will throw my book in the trash, because they are too weak to deal with this big topic. These people will not pass on my book, because "you don't do that", and who are you supposed to pass on such a crazy book to? (The biggest idiots report me to the police ...) The really smart people have either run away (emigrated), or they are hiding in their room at home, waiting for nothing, like "the beautiful ones" with the John Calhoun rats -Experiments on overpopulation.

My Death List

In my revolution I would first kill all government educators. So all kindergarten teachers and all primary school teachers. Because kindergarten and elementary school produce useful idiots for the government. Because state educators are state-certified child fuckers. Because kindergarten has compulsory vaccinations (all vaccinations are useless and harmful). Because in state schools there is always an "invisible curriculum", slave morality. (See also: John Taylor Gatto - Verdummt noch mal. Dumbing us down.) Because these institutions can not be reformed: Anyone who believes "you must work with the system to improve the system" is a useful idiot and is wasting his time, because these people will never follow their false principles let go, they say "only over my dead body", so please: head off!

Of course, I would also condemn Child Protective Services, family court and experts (the child stealing mafia), for stealing thousands of children and destroying thousands of families.

Next I would kill all conventional doctors, because they only sell expensive shit from the pharmaceutical industry, because that is how they make the most money. For me, conventional doctors are like soldiers in psychological warfare, who look for stupid and weak people as prey. My world has no room for such parasites.

Next I would kill all the doctors and nurses in the psychiatric hospitals. I would select the patients: the worthy people are allowed to live, the unworthy people get shot in the head. Psychiatric hospitals are prisons for enemies of the state (political prisoners) and for human trash (people who have been rejected by their social environment).

I would also dismantle prisons. If a prisoner is truly a pest, shoot him in the head. If a prisoner is a "small fish", then release him. This fuss about prisons is a waste of energy. The prisons are enriched by cheap workers (hourly wage: 1 euro), but "the taxpayer" pays for this nonsense.

I would also immediately shoot anyone who has ever worked for an insurance company, from the boss to the cleaning lady, because insurance companies always reward the wrong people (morbid gain). And ultimately, "the state" is just another insurance company... But a global minimal-state must remain (world government, United Nations), which then only collects 10% taxes, and only has to ensure that small states remain small, and otherwise leaving the small states all their freedoms (self-organization).

Kill ugly people: big tits, small dicks, ... Kill disabled people: weak eyes, weak ears, ...

To my daughter

The people who took your dad away from you because your dad is an enemy of the state, "unable to educate", are the same people who ...

... say that your mom is "fit to educate", because she is stupid and does everything Child Protective Services asks, because she is afraid that Child Protective Services will take the child away. So your mom would rather have a broken child than no child at all.

...force you with useless and harmful vaccinations, that you don't want and that make you sick and weak.

...just wasting your time in kindergarten and school, making you stupid and weak, not letting you work (because "children must play"), forcing you to sit around, forcing you to carry a heavy backpack, forcing you to commute every day between sleeping and school, just giving you crappy texts to read, frustrating your curiosity, wasting your time, ...

When will you understand that these are your enemies? And what will you do? Except wanting to be alone because "all people suck"... because lots of people feel that way, and why should we stay alone, just because "normal society" sucks? Somewhere and somehow we must be able to help ourselves ...

Refusal

I want both: to be nice and to be evil.

If I can not be angry, and only must be nice, then I would rather don'thing. Passive resistance. Refusal. Strike. All or nothing. My way or the highway. Screw compromises.

Grandpa wants to die

... is my favorite episode South Park (S01E06 Death)

Stan's Grandpa wants to die because he is too old, but he can not do it himself, and none of the adults want to help (loser). Even Chef and Jesus say "I would not even touch the subject with pliers" (Original: I wont touch that with a twenty foot pole).

We have far too many people (overpopulation), but killing people is still a taboo topic, because we believe "the ban on murder is a foundation of our civilization" and "if we give up the ban on murder we will be back in the Stone Age". Well, the one-sided "Pro Life" policy is destroying the entire planet.

Brain Drain

If you are smart and rich, you go abroad. For example to Africa or South America. It would be better to continue living as a slave abroad than to stay here and fight a losing war.

All the good guys run away, only the scum remain. Escape. Exit. Exodus. The caravan moves on. Noah's Ark. Recruit valuable people: beautiful, smart, strong, high-value males, high-value females.

Too little or too much

Do we have too little violence or too much violence? The symptoms are similar, like with vitamin deficiency and vitamin overdose. The only way to know: measure, change, measure, change, ... and compare different measurements. But holding on to the current state and conducting some "experiments in your head" will not produce new knowledge.

Everyone wants justice

... but how do we get justice? Opinions differ on the journey: some want to fight, some want to wait.

Hope dies last

People don't change ... - Can he hope? - Of course he can hope! As long as he lives, and even longer. Because you know, hope always dies last. — Das Leben der Anderen (2006)

What keeps people alive? Even if this life is completely meaningless? There must be some hope, but hope for what? What exactly are we looking for?

I think: We are looking for real friends. And that is been the case since the beginning, since our birthday. But that is also the problem: we have been looking all our lives, and still don't have a good solution. This embarrasses us, and we become mute and helpless like little children.

Old people cling to life, because they don't want to die alone, because they have not found a worthy successor yet, because they still want to improve the world, ...

"Something is still missing" ... I say: something is still missing.

This lifelong dissatisfaction is exploited as "motivation to work", but this is again a stupid game with fire, that will destroy everything in the long term.

Stupid or evil

I always ask myself this question when other people talk shit.
So: Is he negligently talking shit? (Is he stupid?)

Or: Is he deliberately talking shit? (Is he evil?)

Evil and stupid people rule the world.

Fake Evidence

Normies believe: Police always follow all laws. Normies are "True Crime" junkies who get excited every night watching TV, when cops are hunting scapegoats, and in the end "the good guys" always win. Because paying protection money, er, tax money, must have some reason...

Enemies of the state know: Police are above the law, and if cops don't have enough real "evidence", then they produce false evidence, so they can better sabotage and destroy the hated "targets", so they can better drive their victims to suicide.

The future is in Africa

Rich and smart Chinese buy land in Africa, because in the future: Africa has a better climate.

Europe: Burning coal → Global Warming → Melting Arctic → Blue Ocean Event → Dying Gulf Stream → Chaotic weather → Dying agriculture → Starving people

Or: Sun becomes weaker → Ice age → Agriculture is dying → People are starving

Where would I go? Mexico, Chile, Tanzania, ... Sources: Wealthy Expat on Youtube, Bodo Schiffmann, Whitney Webb, Joel Skousen (Strategic Relocation), ...

How do we want to die

A thought experiment: It is the year 2026 in Europe. We will not survive the coming crash: migrant invasion, inflation, deindustrialization, confiscation, depopulation, war, ...

What do we do? Convince ourselves that "everything will be fine" and everyone dies?

Or: Orderly retreat? Select one percent worthy people, give them all our assets and help them emigrate (to Paraguay?), and everyone else commits suicide, for example with an overdose of alcohol on an empty stomach (5-8 g/kg = 2 bottles Vodka / 70 kg).

Also that is a matter of taste: which is better, sleeping or fighting? And also that is a social problem: do we have good self-organization that will enable us to survive even such extreme situations? Or does everyone want to have their own way, and in the end all die?

We will see! So far, this situation is just a thought experiment, or just a "conspiracy theory" from a "paranoid" mind... But who is really right you can only tell in retrospect.

A similar thought experiment: life after death and rebirth. Imagine: you feel "smart" and ignore all warnings from "stupid" people, but your strategy leads directly to suicide, and the "stupid" people stay alive. You are dead and looking back on your life (life review). What will you do in next life? What will you change? Will you find better friends whose warnings you can take serious? Will you try harder to understand the "stupid" people?

Good news: Such a "life review" you can also get with psychedelics like LSD or DMT. Then you can see yourself from the outside and laugh at yourself (out-of-body experience). People who can laugh at themselves have a better life. Challenge: Productive processing of such experiences.

Digitalization and power outages

Our "brave new" digital administration works exactly until the next power outage.

Power failure is the beginning of the end. Supermarkets give away their refrigerated goods. Cash register systems don't work. Gas stations can not pump gasoline. Waterworks can not pump water.

How long does the power outage last? Three days is enough for chaos and anarchy, but the blackout will last several weeks, perhaps even months or years. The blackout marks the high point of our civilization. The crash afterwards will be deep and hard.

Brace for impact. — Ice Age Farmer
Prepare for impact.

Digitalization and Hyperinflation

Cash becomes a problem in hyperinflation. At some point, you need a wheelbarrow full of banknotes to buy a loaf of bread. At some point, banknotes are cheaper than firewood. Every fiat currency ends in hyperinflation, because money-printing is too tempting. But this time, bankers want to be smarter: they are replacing cash with digital money (central bank digital currency), and from then on, they can let hyperinflation run its course, because then it's just numbers on displays. And at some point, prices will be in scientific notation, making the difference less visible between 1E10 and 1E100.

Great Reset is nothing new

Bank holiday in the USA: Thousands of banks were closed, many money-savers lost all their money, all that remained was debt. The coming "Great Reset" is the same: savers lose all their money and all their shares, but the debt remains. Capitalism creates a hierarchy for the next mass murder ("war"). Poor people should die, rich people should survive.

David Rogers Webb - The Great Taking, 2023:

8. Bank Holiday

My Aunt Elizabeth had been ten years old when the banks were closed by executive order in 1933 [31]. When I asked her to tell me about the Great Depression, she said that suddenly no one had any money, that even wealthy families had no money and had to take their daughters out of private school because they could not pay the tuition.

I wondered why even these wealthy families could not send their children back to their schools after the banks were reopened.

The answer is that only the Federal Reserve Banks and banks selected by the Federal Reserve were allowed to reopen.

"The Federal Reserve Banks," writes Allan Meltzer, "sent the Treasury lists of banks recommended for reopening, and the Treasury licensed those it approved." Meltzer's study A History of the Federal Reserve [32] is considered the most comprehensive history of the central bank.

People with money in banks that were not allowed to reopen lost all of it. Their debts were not canceled, however; these were taken over by the banks selected by the Federal Reserve System. If these people could not make their debt payments — which was now likely, since they had lost their cash — they lost everything they had financed with any amount of debt, e.g., their house, their car, and their business.

Thousands of banks were never allowed to reopen.

Gold confiscation is nothing new

Private gold is confiscated every time governments want to wage war or when governments are bankrupt.

History repeats itself! Private gold was confiscated in: India 1962, Australia 1959, Turkey 1942, Germany 1938, France 1936, USA 1933, Russia 1920, England 1914, Japan 1900, Turkey 1800, Spain 1700, England 1642, Germany 1618, Europe 1500, France 1300, Italy 400, ...

Conversations with Dying People

When you talk to people, who only have a few days or hours left, to live, you often hear: "I should have done more" and "I wasted too much time".

Wait less, do more. Less fear, more risk. Why not? Memento mori.

Remember: you will die, everything will die.

But of course, freedom goes both ways. We have the freedom to do better, but also the freedom to be lazy ... nihilism.

NO FUTURE

No Future

We all will die anyway, that is the hard truth. My conclusion from this: So I have all the freedom to do right and to do wrong, and there is no "God" that I must please.

Anyone who seriously believes that he must "save the planet" is just a complete idiot, who is used by the elite as a foot soldier for the revolution from above.

Or anyone who works for "Extinction Rebellion" as a "rebel" against the extinction of the human species, must also be an idiot who does not understand, that sooner or later the human species will 100% die out.

Nihilism is the only truth: everything will die. I, you, we, all humans, all animals, all plants, our entire planet, our entire solar system, our entire galaxy ... everything will die at some point.

When will all people die? There are approximate forecasts for this, for example in the Wikipedia article "Timeline of the far future":

In 100 million years, an asteroid may hit the earth, that is the same size as the asteroid 66 million years ago, that killed all the dinosaurs. Movie: Dont Look Up (2021).

In 250 million years, all continents will grow together to form a super-continent, there will be more volcanic eruptions and earthquakes, solar radiation will become stronger, and temperatures will rise. These conditions will make life increasingly difficult for animals and plants, and may trigger mass extinctions.

In 500 million years, perhaps a gamma ray or supernova will hit Earth and trigger a mass extinction.

In 600 million years, solar radiation will become increasingly stronger, so that more and more CO<sub>2</sub> will be stored in stones. There will be less and less CO<sub>2</sub> in the air so C3-photosynthesis will no longer work, so 99% of today's plants will die.

In 1000 million years only single-celled organisms will live on earth, in mountain lakes or in caves. So by then everyone will be dead.

So we are somewhere in the middle of the life cycle of the human species, and now the only question that remains is: How do we want to die?

Personally, I don't give a damn because it makes no difference at all, whether everyone dies today from atomic bombs, or only in 1000 million years from natural processes.

But obviously there are always enough idiots who are unsophisticated enough, to work for a "one percent less shit" policy, even if the long-term result is exactly the same as, doing nothing. But the main thing is "well-intended"...

Medicine makes you sick

Medicine only helps for a short time, in the long term medicine makes you addicted and sick. The symptoms become weaker, but the causes become stronger. Doctors always want to "save lives", regardless of whether that life is "worthy" or "unworthy", and murder is the last resort.

As Type 1, I say: Murder is the first resort. Bad eyes? Away with it. Crooked teeth? Away with it. Disabled? Away with it. Ugly? Away with it. Too old?

Away with it. Too big? Away with it. Too small? Away with it. ... The sooner the better. My path is destructive in the short term, but better in the long term, because this is how I create healthy genetics, the cause of healthy people.

Medicine is the opposite: sick people are rewarded, healthy people are punished through compulsory insurance. In the long term there will be more sick people and the healthy people will be burdened pointlessly.

Passive violence, torturers: letting victims die slowly.

Active violence, murderer: kill victims quickly.

Torturers make it exciting and always give their victims false hope. As a murderer, I am just honest, and say what is going on straight away. Why should I waste energy on worthless life? As if an animal breeder would continue to feed sick animals, just because he is too weak to kill sick animals.

The long journey can also be glossed over with slave morals. Slaves should be ugly and sick, then they are immediately recognized, and then they are too weak to resist.

Natural medicine makes the body strong, so the body can help itself. Help to self-help.

Vaccinations make you sick

All vaccinations are useless and harmful. Yes, also the tetanus vaccination, which can also be used as emergency medicine if you need it. The vaccinations contain harmful substances such as aluminum (which is stored in the brain and never leaves), or glyphosate (which can cause cancer and should actually be completely banned).

A control group is the Amish people: They don't give their children (and their animals) any vaccinations and they have survived everything so far, and they don't have any "civilization diseases" such as sinusitis (inflammation of the nasal cavity), immune deficiency, asthma (shortness of breath), ADHD (difficulty concentrating), autism (mental disability), epilepsy (seizures), ... (See also: Steve Kirsch on kirschsubstack.com)

State is church

Some people believe in a "separation of church and state", but these people are too stupid to see: Yesterday's church is today's state.

So "state" teachers are just missionaries, who use violence to spread their religion and eliminate all competition. Just as stupid and brutal as the religious wars 500 years ago.

The so-called "religious lessons" in school are just a distraction. "Reli" is obvious stupidity, so that the other school subjects look less like stupidity, but that is where hidden stupidity happens.

Advertising has the same function: Advertising is blatant manipulation (BUY THAT SHIT!!) t, o make the rest look less like manipulation, but that is where hidden manipulation happens.

Anyone who is sensitive to this underlying violence is called "crazy" and given sedatives, then they become less sensitive, and the underlying violence can continue undisturbed.

School makes you stupid

School is for idiots, and the biggest idiots stay at school and become teachers.

Smart people learn themselves, and only when they must, when I need to know something for my work.

School wants to teach "basic knowledge"... and then? Then we move on to specialist knowledge ... and then?

The problem is: So many years pass before children are finally allowed to work, that many children have no strength for hard work, and then only want to do "easy" and "nice" work ...

Under-challenged: What you don't train will atrophy.

In my world, children should do both at the same time: learning and working. Every school is a boarding school where the students live permanently (like in Harry Potter ...), like in a monastery, with self-sufficiency and self-defense.

In my world, children should only carry what they need: 2 pens, 10 pieces of paper, a small book. No heavy school bags with 95% ballast that destroys the upper body: shoulders in front, chest in = shame, fear, slave, victim.

Martial arts is part of the basic training for all children. A healthy mind resides in a healthy body.

Power vacuum

One problem is the power vacuum between parents and teachers. Everyone points at each other, and in the end no one does it.

Teachers have the excuse "education is a private matter", parents have the excuse "school has an educational mission", and so children are pushed back and forth every day (swinging), between failure and failure ... The old people want to be innocent, but if no one is to blame, then everyone is to blame.

You think you have time

You think you can wait for a better offer, but it does not get better, just your time passes.

There is no free lunch. You must fight for paradise on earth. If you want peace then prepare for war. Whoever abandons himself is abandoned.

Why do I write so strangely?

Because: I know what is beautiful myself. (Autonomous) Because I don't give a shit about your grammar. Important words remain in the nominative. Sentences are relaxed, so: Auxiliary verbs stay with the main verb. Everything is in the present, in the here and now. I capitalize important words. I avoid overcompression, so: I allow repetition and write simple sentences. I avoid complicated before-and-after signal words, but instead I write sentences in time order (first the beginning, then the end), and connect the parts of the sentence with the word "and". Because my style is better than your grammar. And I shit on your German teacher.

Punks Not Dead

Wikipedia: Underground culture: The underground often plays the role of an avant-garde (researchers, pioneers);, its forms are later taken up in the mainstream, but in the process they are also ripped of their subversive content (castrated, softened, disarmed, civilized) and reduced to purely formal-aesthetic elements. Especially between the scenes of punk music (independent) and pop music (pop culture), a conflict between underground and overground has developed since the 1980s ("punker versus popper"). There is also a clear separation between underground and mainstream in youth culture and clubs. AKA: punk, trash, pulp, smut, trash, decadence, degenerate art. On the other side: forced schooling, child protection, youth protection, censorship, index, FSK, BPJM = BZKJ, Parental Advisory.

Wikipedia: Untergrundliteratur: Literature that is secretly produced and distributed in authoritarian states. Literature that does not fit the norms and values of pluralistic societies. Texts that are only copied or appear in self-published publications (yep, I shit on your son-of-a-bitch publishing house!) In the former communist bloc, especially in the former Soviet Union and Poland, underground political literature was published on a large scale in the so-called samizdat (self-published). The distribution points were among members of the local intelligentsia in the literary, student or scientific milieu. The underground saw its publications as the "antithesis of the party-state-controlled public sphere" (counter-public sphere)

Wikipedia: Gegenkultur: questioning the primary values and norms of the majority culture. Sometimes (social) visions and ideas of utopia play a role. A counter-public or even a parallel society can form from a counterculture.

No Go Areas for Everyone

No Go Areas are an extreme form of parallel society. Strangers are kept out by force. The only "rebellious" thing about it is that poor people live here. For rich people, such "no go areas" are self-evident, and are called "gated communities" or "bunker", where the rich are among themselves and have peace and quiet.

[Tribalism, small states and small wars, ghettos, cultural mosaic]

Homogeneous neighborhood

Small states are homogeneous in terms of: language (and dialect), religion = political views, body colors (skin, hair, eyes), body height.

→ Cultural mosaic, ghetto, "racism", "racial segregation", "apartheid", "inbreeding", breeding for stabilization.

Small states are heterogeneous in terms of: gender (half men and half women), age (even distribution, active fight against over-aging), personality type (all types are equally important).

→ "Diversity", "tolerance", "strength in diversity", "all colors are beautiful"

Active Neighborhood

Explore the neighborhood regularly (daily?). Go door-to-door. Talk to your neighbors. Work together with your neighbors. Solve problems together. Organize the division of labor. Let children temporarily stay with neighbors ("child sharing", Shared parenting), let neighbors adopt children, ...
 Similar: mendicant monks, Jehovah's Witnesses, door-to-door marketing

Choosing neighbors

"You cannot choose your neighbors" is a rule in hell on earth. In my paradise on earth, the rule is: Every neighborhood (150 people) chooses each year one neighbor who has to move out. So every year, one apartment becomes free. This gives all neighbors a strong motivation to actively participate in the neighborhood.

The neighborhood (150 people) also decides: who is allowed to move into the free apartment? Because the neighbors know better who fits into their neighborhood, better than some landlord who doesn't live here.

Three-class society

Division by age:

Lower class = children = 0 to 15 years old.

Middle class = parents = 16 to 45 years old.

Upper class = grandparents = 46 to 60 years old.

The age limits are sexual maturity (15) and menopause (45).

The middle class is the ruling class (voting rights). The middle class also decides over life and death of the lower and upper classes. The lower and upper classes serve the middle class. Inheritance is transferred from the upper class to the middle class. The upper class is dispossessed and stripped of its rights.

When children want to work

When children want to work but can't find work, then the parents have to pay for their living expenses, i.e. food and a place to sleep for around 400 euros a month, until the children are 25 years old, only then are the children entitled to social welfare.

Radical solution? Go kill a few people, and put yourself in prison for 15 years. Then the stupid "taxpayer" has to pay 100 euros every day for your prison cell, so 3000 euros per month. If enough people do that, then the stupid "taxpayer" will eventually consider whether it might be cheaper to pay welfare from the age of 15, which is only 1000 euros per month, or simply an unconditional basic income from birth, when every human life is so valuable.

But welfare will more likely be abolished completely, and the death penalty reintroduced, so that the system runs efficiently again. So in the long term everyone needs a job.

Unfortunately, important work is currently underpaid (gardeners, harvest workers, craftsmen) and pointless work is subsidized (psychologists, educators, bureaucrats). In the "workers' and farmers' state" of the GDR it was the other way around, "intellectuals" only got a starvation wage, because "nice ideas" are worth just as little, and anyone who has nice ideas should look for a sponsor who will pay for their food and a place to sleep.

Idiots like children

Idiots like children, because children are stupid and weak, so idiots can feel smart and strong, because idiots are constantly overwhelmed by other people of the same age.

Young teachers

Every human should also play a teaching role as early as possible. And the age difference between teachers and students should be as small as possible, around 2 to 5 years, as this makes it easier to switch roles from student to teacher.

AFD is Controlled Opposition

The AFD is just a controlled opposition that gives false hope but changes nothing, similar to Donald Trump in the USA.

If the AFD were a real opposition to the empire, then the AFD would have been banned long ago, and all AFD politicians would be in jail or dead for high treason (regime change from below).

AFD only produces hot air. AFD produces false hope ("the AFD will save us") and false fear ("the AFD will kill us"). AFD is pro-Israel. (Why? Money rules the world?) AFD talks too much about pseudo-problems (specialists, narrow minded). AFD has no solutions for real problems like overpopulation. AFD has no solutions that work "here and now" ("Please wait..."). AFD believes in "rule of law" and "parliament", but there is no political solution. AFD is just a CDU in blue.

The Empire (NATO, UN, WHO, central banks) is currently deliberately driving all national governments into the wall. so that it can later install a world government to "save" them (NWO, New World Order), i.e. sabotage from the very top, controlled demolition like on 9/11 (the blowing up of the World Trade Center). Like in the past: The socialists of 1933 deliberately drove the Weimar Republic into the wall and then presented themselves as "saviors". Problem and solution from the same hand.

Groups like AFD give hope for stupid slaves (populism), but that is false hope, they are just sedatives (blue pills, feel-good events, stupid and happy, Opium for the masses) for the German people (especially for German men), who are currently being replaced by "migrants", i.e. young, aggressive men from Islamic states (population replacement). The interim goal to world government is a Caliphate Europe, and nobody will stop it. See also: CIA Operation Timber Sycamore. The Islamic "holy warriors" are useful idiots, foot soldiers for the NWO. Germany is also just a colony of the Empire. Real resistance is rare and short-lived.

If the AFD really wants to offer solutions in the "here and now", then we first have to find out: what freedom do we still have? What is our room for maneuver? Where can we realistically change something in the here and now? Example: We "elect" one percent of worthy people, and we help them emigrate, wherever that may be. The other 99 percent commit economic suicide: sell everything, close all bank accounts (bank run), buy gold, and give that gold to the worthy people.

The AFD is always portrayed by all the other parties as "extreme right", but that is nonsense. The AFD is only moderate right, because the AFD is afraid every day of being banned and has to censor itself, so it must weaken radical demands to compromise demands.

In public, there is no serious discussion about the AFD's concrete demands ("talking with the AFD"), only superficial and generic talking shit about the AFD ("talking about the AFD", "they are all the same"), because as a "normal" person you want to move "no millimeter to the right", no matter how much bullshit comes from the left, because these people are "better dead than right": leftists are passive, defensive, suicidal.

The AFD is also a scapegoat for the Empire. What the Empire does secretly itself (Grey Wolves, Caliphate Europe, regime change from above), it blames on the AFD (regime change from below). When the Empire says "the AFD wants to abolish the basic order", then the Empire itself is abolishing the basic order. Because "before the AFD abolishes the basic order, we must abolish the basic order."

In the past, the empire fought the same battle against communists, and as a "normal person" you were "better dead than red." The socialists of 1933 shot communists immediately, because communists were "too radical" and "incurable", and moderate antisocials were sent to prison (today "psychiatric hospitals"), where they were taught socialism. Words and symbols change, but the content remains the same. The empire is fundamentally against everything that comes from below, so against direct democracy, against referendums, against folk heroes, against selforganization, against selfsufficiency, against small states.

The only advantage of the AFD is: The AFD is an opposition party. Because the AFD as a government party would quickly show: Politicians do not decide anything at all, but only follow orders from above. Politics is just a marketing department for the global dictatorship (NATO, UN, WHO, central banks). The only interesting thing about the AFD are the people who are thrown out of the AFD because they are "too radical", because radical people should remain private, away from the public.

As an "extreme right", I do not feel represented at all by the AFD, because for me the AFD is far too unradical. I only vote for the AFD as a "protest" against other parties, because the AFD is less shit than other parties, but certainly not the best party for my interests. Maybe I am "extreme left" after all? I don't know. I think both sides are shit, "left" and "right". It's also like this: For leftists I am "too right", for rightists I am "too left".

This one-dimensional left-right thinking is too simple for me. Maybe I'm "extreme top"? A "radical centrist"? A "superman"? A "superior"? I have extreme opinions, and I have understood enough to be able to justify my extreme opinions precisely. (How many people have reached that level? Aggressive and clever.) But everyone has his reasons, and I'm not looking for a consensus, I'm not looking for a majority. My little world (small state with 150 people, tribe, commune). would be a "military dictatorship of truth". The empire should stay completely out of my tribe (domestic politics), and the empire has only one task: keep small states small.

Specifically, I have such radical demands as... abolish the "right to life", make the destruction of nature punishable by death, legalize all drugs, legalize all firearms, abolish all patents, abolish all copyrights, abolish all censorship, ban all fake money (fiat money, inflation money), legalize insults, legalize "incitement of violence", wipe out the entire pharmaceutical industry, shoot all conventional doctors, ban real toxins (pesticides, plastics, distilled vinegar, Nitrite curing salt), abolish all compulsory insurance, shoot all public prosecutors, shoot all judges, shoot all educators, shoot all teachers, abolish compulsory schooling, abolish "public" broadcasting, abolish all subsidies, abolish all social assistance, fire 90 percent of all civil servants, abolish 99 percent of all laws, normalize martial arts, normalize weapons training, normalize vigilante groups, abolish all prisons, abolish all psychiatric hospitals, pardon "small fish" and shoot "big fish", ... and so on, see also the section, "My death list" (page 77).

Spoiler: Even if the AFD wins 100 percent of all elections, the government is still broke, in debt, and dependent on banks. And if the bank says "we won't give credit for this policy", then the government is broke for real, and all civil servants starve.

The fact that the AFD is being called "extreme right" is also because truly extreme-right demands are being aggressively censored. This artificially narrows the spectrum of public opinion. (opinion corridor, Overton window) Also because Types 14 are private people, and the radical demands of Type 1 often remain private. Also because Type 1 are perfectionists, and until they have fully thought through their worldview, they don't want to publish it.

The best self-image that I have found for myself is my personality type M104. I identify myself through my personality type M104 (Identity politics, Who am I). My "true me" is my personality type M104.

Reviews

What my enemies say about me ...

You are banned from this school! Get a job! — a teacher

Your flyers are trash! I don't want you to recruit our students. I am banning you from this school! — a teacher

We will confiscate your flyers.

And you are banned from the public place before the school. — a cop

You are crazy and dangerous! You belong in jail!

You will not get custody of your daughter! — Child Protective Services, year 2020

You are crazy and dangerous! You belong in prison for life! (German Criminal Code, Section 63: forced therapy in a psychiatric hospital)
— a psychiatric assessor, working for the state-attorney in Munich, year 2012

You are crazy and dangerous, and you need our medicine! Otherwise you will become sicker and sicker with every day, and only with medicine we can release you.

— doctors in Psychiatry (psycho-jail)

That these doctors receive 500 Euros per patient every day from the patient's insurance, so the doctors can provide a one-star-hotel and shitty food for their prisoners, and also that these doctors get money from the pharma-industry for prescribing destructive psycho-medicine, all that they did not tell me, of course, because that would be a conflict of interests, egoism, corruption, but these doctors are acting like they are saints. That the shitty food is making the prisoners sick (lack of protein, lack of vitamins), is denied by these doctors, but everything is a "mental disease", and "medicine makes free".

That the "you are crazy and dangerous" diagnoses from Psychiatrists are just dirty lies, should be clear since the case of Gustl Mollath, who was locked up in psycho-jail for eight years (2006 to 2014), because his wife accused him of "domestic violence". Gustl Mollath accused his wife to be part of a conspiracy for criminal banking activity (money laundering, tax evasion). Six years later, Gustl Mollath is proven right in his accusation, which before was discredited as a "paranoid delusion" and "conspiracy theory".

On your USB-drive we found child porn.

— two cops in prison in Munich

I guess they wanted to blackmail and recruit me as civil cop / informant / traitor. I said nothing, and I just left the visiting room in jail. The cops could not prove that I did copy child porn onto my USB-drive, and I could not prove that cops did copy child porn onto my USB-drive (so that cops did produce false evidence), and the gay judge at the court in Munich did not want to fight against cops, because prejudice: "Cops always tell the truth". The court case was discontinued (so no court decision, but also no "not guilty" decision), but the "child porn entry" will be in my police record for the rest of my life, so for example, I could never officially work as teacher or educator. But anyway, in my eyes, the official schooling system is shit, so shit on you.

You have produced too much natural medicine (Cannabis), so I send you to prison for three years.

— a judge in Munich, year 2012.

The pharma-industry says: Thumbs up!

He said "fuck off you shitty cop-pigs".

— two cops in Munich, year 2010

In reality, I said "fuck off" after these two cops said "have a nice evening" after they have searched my pockets for about five minutes in a subway station. [false testimony, false evidence.]

Your sick Pallas-book you are no longer allowed to distribute in public, especially not to children under 16 years, otherwise we break into your apartment, steal all your things, and throw you in jail for 5 years for "disrupting the public peace", or we throw you in psycho-jail for the rest of your life for "schizophrenia", because everybody knows: You are crazy and dangerous.

— a state-attorney in Munich, in year 2023, who with his orders is unleashing his cops on me. In advance, I say "thanks for the advertisement", you useful idiot. I will take the prison cell right next to Julian Assange, Gustl Mollath, Murat Kurnaz, Ted Kaczynski, Udo Ulfkotte, Sophie Scholl, Hans Kohlhase, ... (the list is long. history repeats itself.) How convenient that all violent criminals get "not guilty" court decisions, so more prison cells are free for such "dangerous" thought criminals like me.

He has schizophrenia.

— My biological father (M3) around 2017 in his statement to the Munich District Court.

Since then I have the label "he is schizophrenic". This statement has never been proven but is used again and again to put me innocently in jail, because idiots in power positions (parents, teachers, cops) want to "get rid of" me because they feel "threatened" by my presence.

"Help Mister Police! This Pallas book is inciting violence!" — Around 100 anonymous idiots who have reported me to the police because they are too stupid to read.

We have been investigating you for incitement to hate crimes since year 2023. — a public prosecutor in Traunstein, who still hasn't found any "incitement to hate crimes" in my book. Maybe it's only "incitement to hate crimes" when someone else kills "innocent" people and then tells the cops "I have read the Pallas book"... Then he gets released, and I go to jail for "incitement to hate crimes". The cops especially hate my chapter "My Death List" (page 77), but that "slaughter of the middle class" is an absolutely normal process in every revolution (regime change) (truth is innocent), which is why vaccination is mandatory for soldiers, which is why there is infiltration by the Grey Wolves (Bozkurt) (Caliphate Europe)... After all, "The Great Replacement" is not a "conspiracy theory", but a conspiracy practice, it is happening right now before our eyes, but you can also play dumb and look away (ignorance), because you can't do anything about it (fight) anyway (resignation), except emigrate (escape, leave Europe), but who can afford that? (feudalism)

"Pay your debts!" — the cop from the "Criminal Investigation Department" in Traunstein who is working on my "case" (Pallas book) (since around 2022) and has to read every word I publish. That was on December 9, 2024, when I was arrested because i had distributed my book in a "public" school. My response was "haha, keep dreaming" (you stupid piece of shit). And thanks for the reminder: money rules the world. (fake gold, lies.) 99% of my debts are imaginary claims from my enemies against me: court costs for my cannabis trial in 2012 at the Munich Regional Court (3 years in prison), claims from my health insurance company for expensive psychiatric prison (many months in prison), child support claims for "my" child which I am not allowed to raise because I am so "evil", ...

You have downloaded childporn on October 20, 2024, so we break into your apartment and steal all your storage media worth 3000 Euros (computers, laptops, hard drives, phones, memory cards, USB drives, ...). — Cops in Traunstein on December 9, 2024, who so far have been unable to prove any intentional downloads of childporn, because these were only negligent downloads of childporn, but my storage media will remain with the cops for about two years for "evaluation", and then the case will be closed, but I won't get my storage media back (nor any compensation) because there might still be childporn on them... (So it's the same story as with my USB drive in Munich.) No, the childporn is just a pretext for "house raids" and "seizures" (burglary and robbery), and the real goal is sabotage against my research (my "Pallas" book). But my research is legal, so the cops can't get a "search warrant" from the judge. The "war on childporn" is just as ridiculous as the "war on drugs": it may sound good on the surface, but in the end it always hurts the wrong people (innocent civilians) and practically always serves as a pretext for state violence against people who are somehow "annoying" (like Gustl Mollath), but otherwise there is no "evidence" against them.

Forbidden in schools

He is not normal, he should be off the streets! He believes his passive resistance is legal but we just say that he is "suicidal" then we put him in psychiatry-jail for life until our doctors say he is "healthy". In the psychiatry-jail he also has no internet, that will do him good. He just copied his shitty book somewhere from the Internet, that's all nothing new.

— cops in Traunstein, 9.12.2024.

Prehistory: I distribute 20 books to children in a school. The school director calls the police because a "hooded" man (me) runs through the school and distributes notes where he says in the chapter "My Death List" that he wants to kill all teachers. Cops move out with 20 men to an anti-terror mission. Cops find me 5 minutes later on a street nearby. I do passive resistance. Cops put me in psychiatry. The psychiatric expert says: I'm "crazy" because I am a loner, I am "dangerous" because I want to kill unworthy people, I am "suicidal" because I see my own genetics as unworthy.

Prison for book distributor

Traunstein, 2024-12-09

The thought criminal Milan Hauth storms the Annette Kolb Gymnasium at 0800 in Traunstein, Germany.

He gives away around 20 copies of his sick book "Pallas. Who are my friends. Group composition by personality type."

He knows that Mr. Teacher hates him because as a private teacher, Mr. Hauth is competition.

So Mr. Hauth quickly leaves the school again and marches on to distribute books.

Mr. Teacher already knows Mr. Hauth because he has already done the book distribution at this school.

While reading, Mr. Teacher had to puke on every page and by the end of the book he had lost about a million brain cells, which he could only restore through intensive consumption of mainstream media. Hail mainstream media!

But this time Mr. Teacher doesn't want to let Mr. Hauth get away with it.

So Mr. Teacher calls his old friend: "Help, Mr. Police! There's a terrorist in my school, armed with books and a black jacket."

Mr. Police immediately understands the seriousness of the situation and sends 20 men on an anti-terrorist mission.

Only a few minutes later, police find Mr. Hauth on his way to the next school.

Right from the start, Mr. Hauth refuses to cooperate. But Mr. Police is allergic to such people: "He's not normal, he belongs off the streets!"

So Mr. Police calls his old friend: "Help, Mr. Doctor! He's suicidal!" and locks him up in the Wasserburg psychiatry under Section 1831 of the German Civil Code (§ 1831 BGB) until Mr. Doctor says "he's no longer suicidal", which can take a few months. (Spoiler: Four months until 2025-04-16.)

Mr. Judge and Mr. Expert and Mr. Guardian allow all this without hesitation, because fascists have to stick together against such sick loners, and who wants to risk his job? The military and pharmaceutical industries are too powerful.

An imprisonment by secret trial in civil law has less publicity effect than imprisonment by public trial in criminal law for sedition or something like that. Nobody wants to advertise Mr. Hauth's sick book.

Mr. Doctor calls his old friend: "Help, Mr. Health Insurance! I need your money!" Mr. Health Insurance is happy that finally something useful is happening with the "contributions" he deducts from Mr. Worker's salary every month.

The fact that Mr. Worker is not asked whether he wants to finance this "hospital stay" with his "contributions" is not so important, Mr. Worker should simply continue to work.

The "voluntariness" or "direct democracy" that Mr. Hauth talks about in his book would only give Mr. Worker the wrong ideas, revolution and revenge and all that.

It is quite clear that such sick books have to be kept away from children, because children are gullible and therefore defenceless against sick ideas, and only "state-certified" teachers are allowed to program children's brains.

In Mr. Hauth's black backpack (only terrorists carry such things), the police find the keys to Mr. Hauth's apartment.

Two months earlier, Mr. Hauth had accidentally downloaded child porn via BitTorrent. Intentional or accidental, the police don't care, they justify a house raid, in effect breaking into private rooms and stealing all valuables: Computers, hard drives, diaries... in search of Mr. Childfucker. Because Mr. Police and Mr. Teacher want a monopoly on child fucking.

Who protects children from stupid teachers? That's another sick question that Mr. Worker shouldn't ask.

Shut up and keep working! Because only work makes free. This is something Mr. Hauth still has to learn in work therapy, where he is expected to produce useless shit, like in kindergarden, even if he asks a thousand times if he can print his sick book.

No! He'll only be allowed to do that again when he's released. But hopefully he will have forgotten his sick book by then.

He says that this book is his life's work, but Mr. Doctor will get rid of this sick idea.

Mr. Doctor would also like to exorcise him from writing his diary, because this is how Mr. Hauth can stabilize his psychosis, but writing a diary does not yet have an ICD-10 code.

Mr. Judge is happy to receive praise for his work at

Akte 2 XVII 914/24
Amtsgericht Traunstein
Herzog Otto Str 1
83278 Traunstein
Germany

Mr. Police calls his friend Mr. Newspaper: I have something for you, but you have to show us as heroes. You're not allowed to call his sick book by its name, just say "his staplething", because the poor sucker hasn't even got money for a soft cover binding for his book. Nobody should read this book, we don't want a revolution.

TODO ...

TODO move: Matchmaking is the game of life. Everyone needs friends, right from the start. Level one in this game is pairing. Level Two: Groups of four. Level Three: Groups of Eight. Level Four: Groups of 16. And so on, until 128 or 144 people = a village.

Our educators also fail when it comes to matchmaking: they are actually supposed to help us with our question "Who are my friends?" The problem: Our educators have no friends themselves, and have no plan on how to make friends. They solve the problem by not solving it: Everyone should look for their own friends, and if someone does not find any friends, then friends are not that important to them. It is also true that some people (*) prefer to be alone than with fake friends. (*) = egoists, recluses, types 12 (or types 14), low agreeableness, high demands.

TODO move: Why "Alice" in Wonderland? Alice = Chalice = Chalice = Heart shape = Type 1. Chalice = Graals Chalice = the holy Graal = the holy grail = knights are looking for Chalice = Arthurian legend = King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table. Graal = Kraal = King.

TODO move: Why are Arabs beautiful? Because they select. Because they kill ugly people. Why are slaves ugly? Because they are tolerant. Because they suppress problems, care for sick people, hide ugly bodies, "repair" bad eyes with glasses, "repair" broken joints with prostheses, etc.

TODO move: Inner gender: education in "same age groups" (school classes). Consequence: Children become "sexist", either extremely masculine (types 104 and 401), or extremely feminine (types 203 and 302). So, they define themselves primarily by gender. For these mixed types: The inner age is balanced, there is a constant "inner monolog" between son (1) and father (4) (for types 104 and 401), or between daughter (3) and mother (2) (for types 203 and 302). The young half (13) is impulsive, emotional, driving. The old half (24) is reactive, rational, inhibiting.

Why? See Pallas pattern. If there are only attachment partners of the same age, then this forces these subtypes. Because attachment to peers is synonymous with these subtypes. Note: There is a "bidirectional" connection between partner and subtype, meaning both can be cause or effect.

Types	14	23
Brain	masculine brain	feminine brain
nds	loner	sociable
politics	long-term strategy	daily politics
	Being Right	Being Popular
	Authoritarian	Popular
	Strong Opinions	Weak Opinions
movement	fine motor skills	gross motor skills talent	Hard Skills	Soft Skills
	Task Focus	People Focus

TODO move: We don't have to talk about what goes without saying.

TODO move: Whoever relies on his enemies, is abandoned by his friends.

TODO move: "The world sucks!" Anyone can scream. The challenge is: Do better! So: Make a concrete solution proposal to the question: how can we make the world better? We expect such suggestions from our "smart ones": students, professors, researchers ... but amateurs (like me) are also allowed to make suggestions. So create hypotheses that "we" can test and apply.

The problem with our "smart" people is: We send our smart children to universities where there are only smart people, so that contact is lost between stupid and smart people. (Equalization, mental inbreeding, monoculture, equals like to "associate", formation of "societies", socialization, equalization, homogeneous groups, false selection, top-down organization, large groups, large states ...)

Effective organization needs always t he symbiosis of opposites, the coexistence of different people.

TODO move: Provoke and integrate. This is how you can summarize civilization. So we humans provoke violence from nature, and integrate this violence into our artificial world as productive work. AKA: taming, taming, education, domestication, playing with fire, aggression and sublimation, end of the world and redemption.

TODO move: Mutation and selection. Boom and bust cycles. Multiplication and shrinkage. Problem: If the cycles take too long, around 100 years. Solution: Shorter cycles, around 5 years. "Bulls" speculate on growth and prevent shrinkage, until the next hard limit = system crash = bust = the bubble bursts.

TODO move: mixed culture. Companion planting. In organic gardening, there are rules of thumb to answer the question: Which plants go together? (Problem: no empirical confirmation? Wishful thinking?) Some plants go well together: carrot and onion, corn and bean and pumpkin, lentils and grain, oats and barley. Some plants go badly together: peas and garlic, radishes and tomatoes, radishes and cucumbers, onions and French beans, onions and cabbage.

Why is it called "Pallas"? The Pallas symbol is the combination of the diamond and the cross.

Etymology: Pallas: Name of Greek goddess, another name for Athene, literally "little maiden", related to pallake "concubine", and probably somehow connected to Avestan pairika "beautiful women seducing pious men". The asteroid Pallas was discovered 1802 by Olbers and Bremen.

Greek mythology: Pallas is the daughter of the sea god Triton (sea, water, type 4) and an unknown mother. Triton is the surrogate father for Athena, a daughter of Zeus. Pallas and Athena are like sisters. Triton trains both girls in martial arts. Pallas and Athena fight spear and shields at a sports festival. Athena dominates at the beginning, then Pallas seems to win. Zeus is afraid that his daughter will lose and tries to distract Pallas. Athena accidentally hits her sister Pallas with the spear and Pallas dies.

Naturalists fight against artistic order, like Don Quixote against windmills. Civilians fight against the natural order, just, like Lucifer with his short-sighted cunning, is in the long term only a tragic hero, who destroys himself with altruism.

Ignorance is useless. Anyone who forgets stories will still repeat them.

Overthinking: You can think about theories forever, but the goal of my hypothesis is to apply it in the real world. But first we must test the hypothesis. Better said, everyone has to test the hypothesis themselves, because belief and trust will only be exploited. Testing the hypothesis can only be done through experiment. Not a "thought experiment", but a real experiment.

In state schools we learn: we are all "smart" and we can solve all problems by thinking and talking. But in this way you only reach a "paradise in the head" (mind over matter. escapism, ignorance, pseudo-problems), and the "hell on earth" continues to grow, because real problems are ignored.

The effective tax burden in Germany is around 70%. This includes all taxes, duties and compulsory insurance. And what does "Father State" do with the tax money? Just shit. So make the state even bigger, and destroy small structures even more. Large states build on the destruction of small states. Put scapegoats in jail, and subsidize real criminals. I would like to run away screaming, but where? The whole world is occupied by these idiots, who systematically do everything wrong, just to provoke me, and to prove that I am "wrong". TODO charts: money supply usd/eur, gold vs usd/eur → inflation, banks create money from nothing, boom-bust cycles movies: lets make money (2008) selfish, accelerate the collapse: sell all your money and buy food/tools/gold. social, postpone the collapse: keep holding all your money and watch its value shrink to zero.

The laws of anarchy are natural laws. In other words, laws of physics, that can be described and proven mathematically and precisely.

Nature or art? Being or appearing? Real or fake? Basetype or subtype? Constant or variable? Fixed or changeable?

Appendix: Quotes and sayings

Also here, the question also arises: Which type is speaking here? So: What personality type has "the lyrical self"? I am type 104, so I collect sayings that fit my type, that speak "from my soul".

don't become addicted to water. — Mad Max: Fury Road

You will live in interesting times. — Chinesische curse

We have tried everything. — Dont Look Up (2021)

Your fronting only helps you avoiding the truth, step to the microphone, but I kill your crew in one line. One gesture from you is enough to understand that you are gay, and against every crew with aggressive raps that is true.

Idiocracy: stupidity rules. As the 21st century began, human evolution was at a turning point. Natural selection, the process by which the strongest, the smartest, the fastest reproduced in greater numbers than the rest, a process which had once favored the noblest traits of man, now began to favor different traits. Most science fiction of the day predicted a future that was more civilized, and more intelligent. But as time went on, things seemed to be heading in the opposite direction: A dumbing down. How did this happen? Evolution does not necessarily reward intelligence. With no natural predators to thin the herd, it began to simply reward those who reproduced the most, and left the intelligent to become an endangered species. — Idiocracy (2006)

Quiet please - Idiots! - Quiet please - Idiots! Sometimes you wonder whether the rescue attempts are worth it. Is it worth saving people? The way I see it, intelligence has already been wiped out, and those who survived are all idiots! — Die Ärzte - Anti-Zombie

Who uses our fear? We don't wanna know. Because knowledge is only a burden, we don't wanna know, we leave it untouched, our conscience remains clean ... pore-deep clean. When will all this end? We will soon know. — Die Ärzte - NichtWissen

It has to go on, I don't like to stand still.

— Terrorgruppe - Weitergehen

I was never good at German or mathematics, and I still write stupidly with H. School has never been my thing, I know exactly why. I was simply too smart for that, I had more important things to do. This did not do me any harm, you can clearly see that. I am better off than the others, who go to work for their whole lives. Everything I know today, I certainly did not learn in any school.

Good intentions pave the way to hell.

You know too much. — Little Britain

We live in a country where there are more barriers than there are paths, more walls than bridges, the mood is negative. And the old people ask: Why do I smoke weed every day? Why are I and my entire generation so depressed? Every day we are surrounded by the living dead, surrounded by signs telling us "Keep out!" Surrounded by skinheads who take the lives of Turks and Africans, while cops stand by to avoid problems.

Surrounded by yes-sayers who blindly follow their leaders, with cold, dark blood pumping through their arteries. Surrounded by child molesters who are just getting parole, just like the fucking Nazis whose victims are buried in the ground. Does this country really have nothing more to offer, than a few million assholes with ugly faces full of hemorrhoids? They think they love this country very much, but they are not very happy, does it match your frustration or why did you stay here? I must keep distance from all you weaklings, all the ugly faces who stress me out every day. The same people at the top are filling their pockets, and minorities become the majority and are still forgotten. Please wake me up from this nightmare, people can hardly see the forest for the trees. They are constantly trying to convince us that it is still possible to live freely here. Please wake me up from this nightmare, people can hardly see the forest for the trees. Me and you and he and she and it are, better off when we help ourselves. I am the type of human who leaves shortly after the party starts, because I can not party while I live in Babylon. We have bad luck, ruled by psychopaths, managed by bureaucrats who have no feelings. Controlled by corrupt cops who are often sadists, who look for suspects by racist statistics. Fed by companies that poisoned us for decades, informed by media that only reported it too late. Forget the cat accident, damage from THC, soon we will all have BSE! And you look at your EKG before your heart stops, and you think "I still want a big steak now!" This is cursed! Brainwashing pure, all day long, and Father State beats and rapes Mother Nature. The shitty politicians serve the dark side like Darth Vader, and have a horizon of about one square meter. No own opinion but ten own advisors, who talk stupid shit like they have a speech defect. They hope the good voters are happy to continue paying taxes, but I am here to sound the alarm like a fire detector. What would [chancellor] Schröder say? I think I will give him a call, tell him "Gerhard, take a look at our youth." A third stare at their PlayStation with their mouths open, the second third celebrate excess as rave nation. Addicted to evil pharmaceuticals, because they did not know what the shitty drugs meant. The third third hangs around on the streets with no future, kids as young as 13 are sniffing that white stuff up their nose. They have no goals, only dreams, and these are usually expensive cars, don't plan their lives any further than tonight. Thinking, if necessary, you can restart like Nintendo, they don't care if they die soon, who wants to grow old? In this country where there are more barriers than there are paths, more walls than bridges, the mood is negative. For the old people: That is why we smoke weed every day, and that is why me and my entire generation are so depressed.

 because no one sees me, I don't care what I do. And because I don't do anything, I just watch everything, with the glass in my hand, at the table, on the chair. Everything feels as it is, and the more you forget what happens, the glass becomes empty again. Every day is too short, and the hours are too long, why every morning, I can not do anything with it. Why every evening, when I can not sleep, being awake hurts without energy. So that I can breathe, I keep the windows closed, the doors locked, and my heart in my hand. And step by step I forget the voice that means well for me, and tells me that I can change something. Look at my tired eyes, I have been thinking a long time, whether the past can be changed, but it is not possible. Because everything I did not do is now my blockade, and believe me, it is impossible to overcome. I no longer live in my dreams, they are broken, the rest is ballast and ends in the glass. I enjoy not feeling any more the things I forgot to do, when it was the best time, because that was the only time. It is over, no dream, no goal to fight for, nothing is missing like lost time.

I hang around, waiting for my life to change, and every day on the calendar seems so stupidly wasted. Always the same four walls, the same ugly faces as yesterday, the same conversations and the same empty promises. It makes me sick to know that tomorrow is the same day, the same ass-fuck, and that next year will be the same. I can not keep watching guys who are only half as good, living my dreams because I am a loser and I dont even try.

But I wake up, go out and make something of it, from scum to uptown, I rap until the city bounces. You have waited so long, I have waited so long, now no one can believe, that it is true, that I am finally here.

While you were sleeping, I was awake and thinking, night after night, I have put my thoughts on paper. Now it is too late to turn back, there is no way back, and no matter what it will cost me, I have no regrets!

As long as I have dreams, none of you can stop me, I am ready to die for this tonight. Ready to die, to reach for the stars just once, with every verse I write, I get closer to freedom.

You're biting your teeth, even after the tenth fist I stand up to anyone, you cockroaches are notches on my resume. You can't handle me, don't you get it? Not as long as I have dreams, 'cause for as long as I can remember I've had more enemies than friends.

You want to push me down, smother the words in my mouth, I'd rather die standing than live on my knees, you motherfuckers! What you do to me is just fodder for all the hate inside me, all I need to be free is a pen and a piece of paper.

Even if the rest of the world doesn't understand me and nobody believes in me anymore, I'll carry on as before, because you'll never stop me. I'm a dreamer, and for all dreamers is this sound, no matter how bad it is, I'm raising my fist.

You are also just wounded children. — Sarah Lesch - Testament

Also you were a child, and also I was small, and also to us, they have told some story. And then you do all that, and try to be like that, and then you realize, that something is missing. And then you forget, to really feel your self, and you escape into art or consume. And while you are busy making plans, the gods are laughing off their asses. Let your children say something about it, properly listen to them. They still feel their self, they have a feeling for the world, they are smarter than me and you. And remember, before you answer, you are also just wounded children. In the end, there will be new symptoms again, and you will be the inventors. And then tell them again, how to do it right, "grow up" and "you are childish". Preach formulas, let them write everything in down, the gods will laugh themselves crooked. Pay attention to calligraphy and curricula, and that they sharpen their pencils. Show them pictures of oak leaves, while they sit indoors at tables. And then work and study and throw up again, and in the afternoon RTL 2 [trash TV]. At the weekend you can buy something nice, and done is the one-size-fits-all. And anyone who does not conform is called a problem child. And anyone who is too lively gets a pill so he does not stress. And with that you are lying to yourself because, no child is a problem. And all the free spirits, all the school dropouts, are only symptoms of the system. But remember, when you judge so hard, you are also just trapped spirits. The anger is getting louder and louder, and the teachers are screaming and breaking their voices. Be angry, that small Hans is not what you expect, that he is just who he is. The gods are laughing and pissing themselves, and you think you know something. And when small Hans grows up to Hans, who has his own children, he will tell them some story. Then Hans and Kunz and maybe you too will notice, that again, something is missing. You have wishes and dreams, and are constantly running into imaginary walls. And every wish that you fulfill, will then come to an end. Just go to work for made-up numbers, and then wait for the burnout. Waste your money on plastic, to get a small piece of happiness. The best of cereal and milk, another carport, and another credit. And all think it is shit, but all go along with it. You talk smart and buy it anyway, and the advertisements profits from your stupidity. And then you sit in front of new flat-screen TVs, and complain about consumerism. If you call this a world, then I am happy to be away from this world, the gods are laughing their heads off. Your dream sellers, symptom designers, do you still notice what is happening? Who gave you the land and water, that you are now privatizing? You hypocrites, you liars, you tricksters, you paper sellers. You have been given spirit and feeling, and still you are just followers. You big, scarred, helpless giants, you were little once too. And someone punished you with silence, and left you there alone. And now, not only do you not hear the gods laughing, you also don't hear the children crying. And keep telling them "it does not hurt", without meaning it. Feel free to make plans, I am standing on the edge, I see you, and I am not alone. Behind me, there are more and more, who are away from this world, they also don't fit in. And now don't wait for a happy end, I will not do you that favor. No wink, no mild punch line, to release the discomfort. At some point, the gods will stop laughing, even if I no longer exist. I leave behind a child, that belongs to itself, and this uncomfortable song. — Sarah Lesch - Testament

The Industrial Revolution and its consequences have been a disaster for the human race. They have greatly increased the life-expectancy of those of us who live in "advanced" countries, but they have destabilized society, have made life unfulfilling, have subjected human beings to indignities, have led to widespread psychological suffering, in the Third World to physical suffering as well, and have inflicted severe damage on the natural world. — Ted Kaczynski [M2?] - Industrial Society and its Future

Everyone who has ever been to school knows that school is prison, but almost nobody beyond school age says it is. It's not polite. We all tiptoe around the truth because admitting it would make us seem cruel and would point a finger at well-intended people doing what they believe to be essential. ... A prison, according to the common, general definition, is any place of involuntary confinement and restriction of liberty. In school, as in adult prisons, the inmates are told exactly what they must do and are punished for failure to comply. Actually, students in school must spend more time doing exactly what they are told than is true of adults in penal institutions. Another difference, of course, is that we put adults in prison because they have committed a crime, while we put children in school because of their age. — Peter O. Gray - Free to Learn. Learning can only happen when a child is interested. If the child is not interested, it is like throwing marshmallows at its head and saying "the child is eating". — Barbara Lamping

Leaders are not, as we are often led to think, people who go along with huge crowds following them. Leaders are people who go their own way without caring, or even looking to see, whether anyone is following them. "Leadership qualities" are not the qualities that enable people to attract followers, but those that enable them to do without followers. They include, at the very least, courage, endurance, patience, humor, flexibility, resourcefulness, stubbornness, a keen sense of reality, and the ability to keep a cool and clear head, even when things are going badly. True leaders, in short, don't make people into followers, but into other leaders. — John Holt - Teach Your Own: The John Holt Book Of Homeschooling

Types 24 are finishers, defensive, ignorant, conservative, addicted. When types 24 start something, they must finish it, until the bitter end, until the hard limit, until death. Old trees cannot be changed, they must be killed.

At least 4 billion "useless eaters" shall be eliminated by the year 2050, by means of limited wars, organized epidemics of fatal rapid-acting diseases, and starvation. Energy, food and water shall be kept at subsistence levels for the non-elite, starting with the White populations of Western Europe and North America, and then spreading to other races. The population of Canada, Western Europe and the United States will be decimated more rapidly than on other continents, until the world's population reaches a manageable level of 1 billion, of which 500 million will consist of Chinese and Japanese races, selected because they are people who have been regimented for centuries, and who are accustomed to obeying authority without question.

From time to time, there shall be artificially contrived shortages of food and water and medical care, to remind the masses, that their very existence depends on the goodwill of the Committee of 300.

After the destruction of housing, auto, steel and heavy goods industries, there shall be limited housing, and industries of any kind allowed to remain shall be under the direction of NATO's Club of Rome, as shall all scientific and space exploration development, limited to the elite under the control of the Committee of 300. — John Coleman - The Conspirators' Hierarchy: The Committee of 300, 1992

Every different perspective I look at and imagine, well, we could do more of this, or go to a larger area, or use more of that. Well, it turns out, there is not more. I looked at marine production and fish production and found that peaked 20 years ago. More and more of what we eat is from fish farming. The current acres of actively farmed land, that has peaked also. The rivers are already being used for irrigation to about the limits of what they can sustain. The Colorado River doesn't get to the ocean anymore. Well, then you start looking at ground water, the Southern Great Plains, and I think they can almost predict when they will run out of ground water, and it is in a decade or two. A human vulnerability at the global scale, that any one of them we could maybe compartmentalize, but we're seeing them propagating across topic after topic of society and the earth system. And I don't think the people in charge are near nervous enough.

Gentlemen, it has been a privilege playing with you tonight.

— Titanic (1997) (few seconds before the ship sinks.)

It was becoming clear that what we have been calling "green renewable energy" and industrial civilization are one and the same. Desperate measures, not to "save the planet", but to save our way of life. Desperate measures, rather than face the reality, humans are experiencing the planet's limits all at once. — Planet of the Humans (2019)

Animal species hit the population wall a lot and then they crash. I mean, that is a common story in biology. If that happens to us, in a way it is the natural order of things. ... And I don't think we're gonna find a way out of this one. I don't. - As a scientist, what leads you to that conclusion? - Because right now, a large percentage of that number is supported by industrial agriculture, which is heavily subsidized by oil, and it is not sustainable ... and there is no going back, without seeing some sort of major die-off in population. — Steven Churchill, Planet of the Humans (2019)

Every culture offers its denizens the hope of immortality. Then the question is: What happens when you bump into people who don't share those beliefs? Whether you know it or not, whether you like it or not, that is undermining the confidence with which you subscribe to your own views, and that is exposing you to the very anxiety that those beliefs were constructed to eradicate in the first place. [Religion is an anxiolytic for the masses.] If we are to make progress, whatever the word "progress" means, or even to persist as a form of life, then we will need to radically overhaul our basic conception: who are we? what are we? what are our values? Because the believers, both on the left and the right, who think we're gonna discover more oil, or solar panel ourselves into the future, where life will look pretty much like it does now, only cleaner and better... I think that is just frankly delusional. - What I am hearing is that, if I have not come to grips with my own anxiety about death and life, and presented with a reminder of that anxiety, I am highly likely to make some tragic decisions for the community. - Yes. The only solution in principle is, as Albert Camus put it, he said, "There's only one liberty: To come to terms with death. Thereafter anything is possible."

Anyone whose major concern is the sanctity of human life, is, by leaving population growth unchecked, ensuring death by famine. Nature is pitiless, and if humans will not themselves limit population, then they will have it done for them. — Christopher Hitchens

Which is the greater danger, nuclear warfare or the population explosion? The latter, absolutely! To bring nuclear war, someone has to do something, someone has to press a button. To bring destruction by overcrowding, mass starvation, anarchy, the destruction of our most cherished values ... there is no need to do anything. We only need to don'ting, except what comes naturally, and breed. And how easy it is, to don'ting.

Scientist: ... and it's so simple, it's... it's almost elegant. It has the speed, it has the effectiveness, so we introduce the fungus to the gut of the mosquito. We just need a more virulent strain. Ending the mosquito ends Malaria, Dengue fever, yellow fever, West Nile virus. We believe we are very close... — Carvel: It won't work. — Scientist: I beg your pardon?

— Carvel: M. anisopliae? That's what you're talking about? It won't work. There's poor stability in the sporulating strains. You'll get 35% effectiveness at best, before the mosquito out-evolves it. — Scientist: We believe...

— Carvel: Besides, there are 3,500 species of mosquito. They've been around for 100 million years. You think you can just yank them out of existence? I mean, you do realise half the birds in the Arctic tundra will starve to death? I mean, you have actually thought of that or are you just fucking idiots? — Scientist: And how would you cure malaria? — Carvel: Cure malaria? Why would we want to cure malaria? Malaria's doing a great job. Leave malaria alone! — Scientist: Young man, you're drunk. — Carvel: Yes, I am, and in the morning you'll both still be cunts. — Milner: Have you come here just to drink? — Carvel: There's a blackout everywhere else.

— Milner: It's only held once every four years, this. The idea is to get people together, who could never normally talk. Like politicians, world leaders... scientists. No one knows it exists. Is that what you are? A scientist, then? Must be a good one to get into here. Must be some kind of genius to get into here... — Carvel: No offence. I'm sure you're great. But why don't you just fuck off? — Milner: Why don't you make me? What's wrong with curing malaria? Or don't you want to make the world "a better place"? — Carvel: Let me explain something to you. The sun throws a certain amount of energy onto this planet. We turn it into food, clothing, shelter, et cetera. It supports an amount of us, and it took 30,000 years for that amount to become one billion. Then we found a way to use ancient sunlight, sunlight trapped in oil and coal. We started to live off that. What happened? In just 130 years, our population doubled. The next billion took 30 years. The fourth billion has taken just 14. So, here's the question. What do you think is going to happen when that oil and coal runs out in, say, 100 years? When there's 10 billion living on a planet that can support only one?

— Milner: I think we're gonna tear each other to shreds. — Carvel: At last, someone with an ounce of fucking brain. Malaria? The only disease that needs curing is us. — Milner: Go on, then. Let's throw ourselves off! — Carvel: What are you doing? — Milner: Well, if there's no point in being alive... – Carvel: All right, Okay, I get it. Yeah, yeah, fine. I get what you... Look, look! That... that could tip! Please don't do that. Please? – Milner: Have you ever been in a genocide? – Carvel: What? – Milner: I have. So, if you have some sort of answer... I'd like to hear it. – Carvel: I have an answer. No one wants to listen to me, they're all too fucking scared, but if you come down off that table, I will tell you. — Utopia S02E01 (UK 2013). Philip Carvel meets Agent Milner in 1974.

Why did you have him, then? Nothing uses carbon like a first-world human. — Utopia S02E06 (UK 2014)

Are you going somewhere nice? - Just getting away for a bit. Somewhere no one can find me. - God, that sounds great. We're off on holiday. To the south of France. - Oh, nice. It's a long way by coach. - I know. It's just, you know, the environment. - Yes, we should all think of that. - I don't want to sound like a twat, but I just ... You know, I do think that we have all got a responsibility. I just do. - No, you are right, we do. We all do. - Why did you have him [your son], then? - Sorry? - Nothing uses carbon like a first-world human. Yet you created one. Why? Why would you do that? He will produce 515 tonnes of carbon in his lifetime. That's 40 trucks worth. Having him was the equivalent of nearly 6,500 flights to Paris. You could have flown 90 times a year, there and back, nearly every week of your life, and still not had the same impact on the planet as his birth had. - Yeah, but I don't think ... - Not to mention the pesticides, detergents, the huge quantity of plastics, the nuclear fuels used to keep him warm. His birth was a selfish act. It was brutal. You have condemned others to suffering. In fact, if you really cared, what you'd do is cut his throat open right now. - Excuse me? - Or I could do it for you. I could take out my knife, make an incision in his neck, walk away. I would get my coach over there and you would have done more than your bit for the future of humanity. I could do it now. But look at me chatting. I think they're about to leave. I hope he gets over that flu. But maybe he just shouldn't. — Utopia S02E06 (UK 2014)

What have you done today, to earn your place in this crowded world? — Utopia (US 2020)

Christie: I have done so many terrible, terrible things in my life. Horrible, wicked shit. Michael: I can not even fathom who the fuck you are. A human being with a mind as brilliant as yours ... you could do anything, and instead, you choose to rain down misery and death. Christie: No, you don't have it. How much evil do you have to do, to do good? [...] People think humans are driven by the search for happiness, meaning. That's not true. People are driven by the need to know what happens next. Do you want to know what happens next? [...] What have you done today, to earn your place in this crowded world? Exactly. [Nothing.] Everything I do is a cure for our current situation. [overpopulation] Wilson: Wait, how is it a cure if ... Ian: ... you are killing people! Christie: I told you, it does not kill. That was the amazing epiphany we had. We did not have to kill to accomplish our goal. Jessica: Which is what?! Christie: We intend to stop human reproduction for three generations. The busy, endless, global assembly line of babies ... will grind to a halt. Wilson: You are sterilizing people? Christie: Yes. In the first five years, we'll start to see major birth rate declines, as teenagers vaccinated today hit their childbearing years. Ian: You are controlling the future of human civilization? Christie: Is that what they're calling it? It's a very nice euphemism for a species that has replicated like a contagion across the planet, killing all other species in its wake. Except things that are cute, like puppies, or koalas ... Wilson: ... pandas. Christie: Never in history has there been a creature begging for extinction more than the fucking panda ... except us. Alice: You hate people that much? Christie: On the contrary, I love people. Ian: Then how ...? Why would you ...? Christie: Doing what our government, our citizenry is too spoiled or self-indulgent to do. We are saving ourselves from ourselves. Wilson: Halting overpopulation. Christie: A hundred years ago, the global population was 1.7 billion. In 2011, it reached ... Wilson: Seven billion. Christie: People live too long, die less often, fuck too much, shit out babies like ... Michael: In 2050, they say it is gonna plateau. Wilson: No, no, we'll blow past 11 billion and then slowly begin to ... decline. Christie: But by then, it'll be too late to save an Earth that bears any resemblance to a world we actually want to live in. This planet ... I love this planet, so I decided to take care of the problem. Becky: By injecting your virus into the veins of every human on it? Christie: Global warming, mass extinctions, food and water shortages ... All these problems can be boiled down to one thing: overpopulation. Michael: It's not as simple as that. Christie: But it is. At 1.7 billion, we can be as decadent, self-indulgent, and shitty as we want. At ten billion, we must live strategically, we must live modestly, we must live selflessly ... and as you know, we're not that good at it. Wilson: And you are beta-testing it on Americans, since we're the worst. Christie: If we don't do something now, right now, then in a decade, our world will experience extraordinary privations. The war of all against all. Wilson: Water. We'll go to war over water, and the people who will die first are the ones without power and money. Christie: And by then, we'll be fighting over a world that really isn't worth fighting for. Alice: But you can't just decide, people won't have babies because ... Christie: I can and I did. Think of me as the stern parent who tells the children they can not play with the family gun [human reproduction]. Ian: What about what this does to ... to people, to society? Christie: Salvation. We can form a new society.

Do you believe in fate, Neo? - No. - Why not? - Because I don't like the idea, that I am not in control of my life. - I know exactly what you mean. Let me tell you why you are here. You are here because you know something.

What you know you can not explain, but you feel it. You felt it your entire life, that there is something wrong with the world. You don't know what it is, but it is there, like a splinter in your mind, driving you mad. It is this feeling, that has brought you to me. Do you know what I am talking about? - The Matrix? - Do you want to know what it is? The Matrix is everywhere. It is all around us, even now in this very room. You can see it when you look out your window, or when you turn on your television. You can feel it when you go to work, when you go to church, when you pay your taxes. It is the world that has been pulled over your eyes, to blind you from the truth. - What truth? - That you are a slave, Neo. Like everyone else, you were born into slavery, born into a prison that you can not smell or taste or touch, a prison for your mind.

— Matrix (1999)

I would like to share a revelation that I have had during my time here. It came to me, when I tried to classify your species, and I realized, that you are not actually mammals. Every mammal on this planet instinctively develops a natural balance with its environment. But you humans don't. You move to an area, and you multiply and multiply, until every natural resource is consumed. The only way you can survive is to spread to another area. There is another organism on this planet, that follows the same pattern. Do you know what it is? A virus. Human beings are a disease, a cancer of this planet. You are a plague, and we are the cure. — Agent Smith, Matrix (1999)

I hate this place, this zoo, this prison, this reality, whatever you want to call it, I can't stand it any longer. It's the smell, if there is such a thing. I feel saturated by it. I can taste your stink, and every time I do, I fear that I have somehow been infected by it. It's repulsive, isn't it? I must get out of here, I must get free.

— Agent Smith, Matrix (1999)

The matrix is a system, Neo. That system is our enemy. But when you're inside, you look around, what do you see? Businessmen, teachers, lawyers, carpenters... the very minds of the people we are trying to save. But until we do, these people are still a part of that system, and that makes them our enemy. You have to understand, most of these people are not ready to be unplugged. And many of them are so inured, so hopelessly dependent on the system that they will fight to protect it. [Neo turns around] Were you listening to me, Neo? Or were you looking at the woman in the red dress? - Neo: I was... - Morpheus: [points behind Neo] Look again. [the woman becomes an agent] Freeze it! [the simulation stops] - Neo: This... this isn't the Matrix? - Morpheus: No, it's another training program designed to teach you one thing: If you are not one of us, you are one of them. [points at the agent] - Neo: What are they? - Morpheus: Sentient programs. They can move in and out of any software still hard-wired to their system. That means that anyone we haven't unplugged is potentially an agent. Inside the Matrix, they are everyone and they are no one.

We have survived by hiding from them, by running from them. But they are the gatekeepers. They are guarding all the doors, they are holding all the keys, which means that sooner or later, someone is going to have to fight them. - Neo: Someone? - Morpheus: I won't lie to you, Neo. Every single man or woman, who has stood their ground, everyone who has fought an Agent, has died. — Morpheus, Matrix (1999)

I know you are out there. I can feel you now. I know that you are afraid. You are afraid of us. You are afraid of change. I don't know the future. I did not come here to tell how this is going to end. I came to tell you how it is going to begin. I am going to hang up this phone and then I am going to show these people what you don't want them to see. I am going to show them a world without you. A world without rules and controls, without borders or boundaries. A world where anything is possible. Where we go from there, is a choice I leave to you. — Neo, Matrix (1999)

Consumption. It's the new national pastime. Fuck baseball, it is consumption. The only true lasting American value that is left. Buying things, buying things ... People spending money they dont have, on things they dont need. So they can max out their credit cards and spend the rest of their lives paying 18 percent interest on something that cost 12.50. And they didn't like it when they got it home anyway. Not too bright, folks. Not too fucking bright. But if you talk to one of them about this, if you isolate one of them, you sit down with them, rationally talk to them, about the low IQ's and the dumb behavior and the bad decisions. Right away they start talking about education. That's the big answer to everything: Education. They say "We need more money for education. We need more books, more teachers, more classrooms, more schools. We need more testing for the kids". You say to them, "Well, you know, we have tried all of that, and the kids still can't pass the tests". They say, "don't you worry about that, we're going to lower the passing grades". And that is what they do in lots of these schools now. They lower the passing grades so more kids can pass. More kids pass, the school looks good, everybody's happy, the IQ of the country slips another two or three points, and pretty soon all you'll need to get into college is a fucking pencil. Got a pencil? Get the fuck in, there, it is physics. Then everyone wonders, why 17 other countries graduate more scientists than we do. Education. Politicians know that word, they use it on you. Politicians have traditionally hidden behind three things: the flag, the Bible and children. "No child left behind, no child left behind ..." Oh, really? Well, it was not long ago, you were talking about giving kids a head start. Head start, left behind. Someone is losing fucking ground here. But there is a reason for this. There's a reason that education sucks. And it is the same reason that it will never ever, ever be fixed. It's never going to get any better. Don't look for it. Be happy with what you got. Because the owners of this country don't want that. I'm talking about the real owners now. The real owners. The big, wealthy business interests that control things and make all the important decisions. Forget the politicians. The politicians are put there to give you the idea that you have freedom of choice. You don't. You have no choice. You have owners. They own you. They own everything. They own all the important land. They own and control the corporations. They've long since bought and paid for the Senate, the Congress, the state houses, and city halls. They got the judges in their back pocket. And they own all the big media companies so they control just about all of the news and information you get to hear. They got you by the balls. They spend billions of dollars every year lobbying, lobbying to get what they want. Well, we know what they want. They want more for themselves, and less for everybody else. But I'll tell you what they don't want. They don't want a population of citizens capable of critical thinking. They don't want well-informed, well-educated people, capable of critical thinking. They're not interested in that. That doesn't help them. That's against their interest. That's right. They don't want people who are smart enough to figure out how badly they're getting fucked by a system that threw them overboard 30 fucking years ago. They don't want that. You know what they want? They want obedient workers. Obedient workers. People who are just smart enough to run the machines and do the paperwork, and just dumb enough to passively accept all these increasingly shittier jobs, with the lower pay, the longer hours, the reduced benefits. The end of overtime and the vanishing pension that disappears the minute you go to collect it. And now, they're coming for your Social Security money. They want your fucking retirement money. They want it back, so they can give it to their criminal friends on Wall Street. And you know something, they'll get it. They'll get it all from you, sooner or later, because they own this fucking place. It's a big club, and you ain't in it. You and I are not in the big club. By the way, it is the same big club they use to beat you over the head with all day long when they tell you what to believe. All day long beating you over the head, and their media telling you what to believe, what to think and what to buy. The table is tilted, folks. The game is rigged. And nobody seems to notice. Nobody seems to care. Good, honest, hard-working people ... white collar, blue collar, it doesn't matter what color shirt you have on. Good, honest, hard-working people continue to elect these rich cocksuckers who don't give a fuck about them. They don't give a fuck about you. They don't give a fuck about you. They don't care about you. At all. At all. At all. Yeah. You know. And nobody seems to notice. Nobody seems to care. That's what the owners count on. The fact that Americans will probably remain willfully ignorant of the big red, white and blue dick that is being jammed up their assholes every day. Because the owners of this country know the truth: It's called "the American dream" because you must be asleep to believe it.

You know what's killing the planet? Mental incest. Not war, not greed — mental incest: the same minds breeding the same ideas until everything comes out ugly and sterile.

Physical incest gives you genetic defects. Mental incest gives you moral defects. No new DNA, no new thought — just recycled fear wearing a smile.

A small club at the top decides what's "reasonable", turns its subjective worldview into "objective truth", and enforces it with laws, cops, and talks. That's not justice; that's a personality cage with branding.

They worship equality of outcome — a nice way to say "nobody's allowed to be exceptional". Call it fairness, call it safety, it's still lobotomy by consensus.

Once we had a solution space; now we've got a shoebox. Step outside it and you're a freak, a traitor, or "problematic". From Overton window to Overton prison.

And the guards? They're us. People terrified of thinking wrong, policing each other for comfort points. That's the reptile brain in charge — survival panic dressed as morality.

So here we are: billions of comfortable clones, congratulating ourselves for agreeing on everything. Mental incest — safe, sterile, and terminal.

TODO move: Concept: Home Office and Home Schooling. Private office for 2 to 4 people. Private school for 4 to 8 people. Why should I always sit at home alone? We don't have to share the same apartment. Working together during the day is enough.

TODO move: If you are honest: your life has no meaning. So you might as well drop everything, and help me prove (and spread) my crazy theory. But you will not do that because you have "no time". I call it: inertia, comfort, false patience, false loyalty, false security, investment protection, "too late", "too old", repression, stubbornness, ignorance.

TODO move: But also: We all are "trapped in shit". Such a theory of paradise on earth only makes sense if you have a concrete place, where you can actually live this theory. It must be a place where only like-minded people live, where there are no strangers who disturb.

Example: rural living community, eco-village, Shaolin monastery, historic village, Amish people, traditional agriculture, manual labor.

— Oswald Spengler - The Decline of the West (1922) (cycle theory, four seasons, four generations)

The "Federal Republic of Germany" system of state, offices, judges, police and the all-powerful political mafia protect each other. Law and order don't matter, one crow does not peck out the eye of another crow, these people protect each other, and even the actual counterpart (the freelance lawyers) largely play along with the game. Any citizen who **seriously** rebels against the state, offices or judges, is an enemy of the state, who is destroyed in focussed action. ... The European Union started with fraud, and ends as a dictatorship ... The United States rulers are by no means interested in creating strong competition, their goal is easy control of people. Only what is united, and structured down to the last detail, can be controlled easily, also in the long term. For this purpose, the peoples were conditioned to strict obedience [education], without ever asking about the meaning of it all. [Who believes will be saved.] ... All actors involved in this European Union (officers, politicians, commissioners, members of parliament), benefit initially through very good salaries and extensive privileges, and after leaving, through their contacts and reputation. They follow every command, even though they know fully well, that the European Union is working against the people, and is based on undemocratic and dictatorial structures. The people (as shown here) are not only lied to and cheated, not only bullied and financially plundered, no, they are also prevented from exercising their constitutional right by the "Office for the Protection of the Constitution", a secret service with a fake name. This constitutional right says: The people are allowed to do self-organization in political parties. [Contradiction: bans of political parties.]

— Werner Wasserberg - Der Staat als Räuberbande [the state as a gang of robbers],

Chapter 11: Political abuse of justice

States also have their taboos. Rational state theory can rationally legitimize statehood [legal], but is unable to explain the concrete state in the contingency of time, people and territory [legitimate]. Therefore, the nation state, becoming self-aware, had to resort to taboos such as founding myths [lies].

They know, that I will break out, and carry me, so I don't learn to walk. — K.I.Z - Käfigbett [cage bed]

I want to be free, free as the wind when it blows ... I am free, to kiss asses just like you, or to be alone ... I am free, to eat cock for starvation wages ... I steal the freedom, because I can not afford it ... Endless debts, I must manage the money well, I sniff a line and confuse being free with being high. I can only endure my life when my pupils dilate, my working hours decide when I can be free. And they give you a pension so that you don't give up hope, function, follow, don't freak out.

— K.I.Z - Frei sein [to be free]

I am being born and see the light, neon lights are blinding my face. Unknown hands check my weight, I realize early, I am fucked. I go to school and learn their material, they shoot the standard opinion into my head. They show me math, control and fear, I don't want to hear any of it, so I skip school often. I am taught that I must cooperate, otherwise the others can not love me. And all the little edges and weaknesses, no one out there should see. If you are honest and express your opinion, many people will start tripping. They like to twist the words in your mouth, because it is all about money and secrets. Why do I feel so alone right now? Why do we all wear masks to keep up the image? I hear them say, "You must become something, you must be something", Ha, okay. I want to be free (Let freedom reign, let freedom reign, let freedom reign), free as the wind when it blows. I want to be free (Let freedom reign, let freedom reign, let freedom reign), free like a star standing in the sky. Do you believe what all say? Do you believe what all claim? Do you believe that you really can not change anything? Say, can you trust this whole thing? Do you believe you just need money? Then you can buy freedom? Do you believe you just have to go up in the cage, then you can not get lost? — Juju - Freisein (feat. Xavier Naidoo) [to be free]

Modern school-education produces specialized workers for a high-tech society, that is inflating its structures into a ... - work model that has never been modified since the Industrial Revolution, do you understand? I have no goal in my life, I could be dead tomorrow. My escape from the system are my songs. I would never go back to school, and if I would, I would tear it down.

Do this, do that, everywhere is pressure to perform. If you get lost on the way, your performance goes back. Right from the first grade, they destroy people. Reviews, comments, you get stuffed with the trip of your teacher. And with a bad test result, you are afraid to go home, can you imagine that? What is going on inside you? If you avoid going home, because you will get a punishment? Until your ass breaks? But the parents did not know any better, because they were in the same shit too. If you don't get it at some point and break out, of all the ego shit, that is just [going on]. Because everyone is drilled for success, you will be surprised when your inner child dies. The music brings back my inner child and, a grin and a bit of sense. Mom, we have not been honest with each other for a long time, I grinned so much when I was with you. Basically, I feel like shit, but I can not afford the gun, I can not show you the pain. Mom, listen to me, I swear I can not do it alone, I have fallen, help me get back on my feet. Who am I kidding? My wings are broken, I am exhausted, but still I practice until I vomit. Until the last mic is dropped, and the last word is spoken, Mum you said "Child, the world is open for you". But the world has made me bitter, and broke my little heart, Mom, please tell me, where can I find this hope? You don't know who I am, you just know who I was, I did some shit, but I also did good. Mom, please believe me, it was a difficult decision for me, but I belong at the mic, and not at the stove. I believed in the good, but the pill tastes so bitter, this world slowly dying, that is why I don't want children. Mom, I want to be honest with you, but I have more fear of living, than of dying. But don't worry, I will become something, I will become something. I am sorry, but this world has made me bitter, mom, can you understand me? That is why I don't want children. That is why I don't want children. That is why I don't want children. Why was it so easy to believe? I knew, that no matter how high I build my pyramids, someone will always catch me, but every time you fall, you realize that it hurts when no one stands for you. I would have given my life for the gang, but the gang would not give theirs for me, everyone against everyone, everyone against me. I am the hope-carrier with no hope, where the whole thing will lead? Not even God knows, period. And mom please don't ask, why I can not trust anyone, I don't believe in peace, when it was built on war. The logic is sobering, I am something like enlightened, I don't believe what they say, but I act as if I want to. Because what is asked of me, I can not do to a soul. Most people are doing bad, the others are sweating inside their work clothes. Mom, it is disgusting, but no one here is equal. We are only judged, by whether we are poor or rich. That is why I draw my conclusions, show the world the middle finger, no one can save us, that is why I don't want children.

First a few drops on the floor, but suddenly there is water, from the lower floors, then also in the first class. Furniture is floating around, some are still fighting, but the red emergency signal rockets are already shining in the sky. And the band continues to play, but does not change a thing, on and on, for hours, the soundtrack of the downfall. A slight shudder, when you look at those outside: "Now look at these farmers, see how they are drowning!" For us there are no lifebuoys, boats or vests, but constructive discussion from smart talkshow guests. Anyone, who comes up with something that does not fit in with the line, is promptly put down by being called a "Fascist". The word "Fascist" is reported so often, that one wonders, whether it has not lost all meaning! This reminded me of what Ignazio Silone said in 1945, soon after he returned to Italy from his Zurich exile: The fascism of tomorrow will never say "I am Fascism", but the fascism of tomorrow will say "I am Antifascism". — François Bondy - Italian Censorship, 1976

I met Ignazio Silone in Geneva, on the day he returned to Italy from exile, and suddenly he said: If Fascism returns, it will not say "I am Fascism", no, it will say "I am Antifascism". Many years later, when "Antifascism" was indeed exploited, and reduced to a fighting word, I understood that this sharp statement was prophetic. — François Bondy - Pfade der Neugier, 1988 [Antifa are fashion victims, "Anti" is an empty word, leftists are antilogical, leftists are liars, leftists abuse language for psychological warfare]

Under the relentless thrust of accelerating over-population and increasing over-organization, and by means of ever more effective methods of mind-manipulation, the democracies will change their nature; the quaint old forms — elections, parliaments, Supreme Courts and all the rest — will remain. The underlying substance will be a new kind of non-violent totalitarianism. All the traditional names, all the hallowed slogans will remain exactly what they were in the good old days. Democracy and freedom will be the theme of every broadcast and editorial — but the speakers and writers will have their very own definitions of democracy and freedom. Meanwhile the ruling oligarchy and its highly trained elite of soldiers, policemen, thought-manufacturers and mind-manipulators will quietly run the show as they see fit.

— Aldous Huxley, Brave New World Revisited (1958)

aka: soft power. psychowar. aggressive exploitation of human stupidity. we have two worlds: public and private = day and night = neurotics and psychotics = types 23 and types 14. everything in public life is optimized for idiots = neurotics = types 23 = socialists and nationalists. smart people are forced to hide in private life = psychotics = types 14 = communists and fascists. the basis for this division are personality types, which are inborn and stable for life. this means, idiots are physically trapped in stupidity (in plato's cave), and all forms of "education" can only hide that stupidity. idiots are physically blind to conspiracies, high-level organized crime, psychowar, slavery. so the challenge is to find a better symbiosis between stupid and smart people.

John Paul II warns with regard to the "return of ancient gnostic ideas under the guise of the so-called New Age: We cannot delude ourselves that this will lead toward a renewal of religion.

It is only a new way of practising gnosticism — that attitude of the spirit that, in the name of a profound knowledge of God, results in distorting His Word and replacing it with purely human words.

Gnosticism never completely abandoned the realm of Christianity. Instead, it has always existed side by side with Christianity, sometimes taking the shape of a philosophical movement, but more often assuming the characteristics of a religion or a para-religion in distinct, if not declared, conflict with all that is essentially Christian."

An example of this can be seen in the enneagram, the nine-type tool for character analysis [personality psychology], which when used as a means of spiritual growth introduces an ambiguity in the doctrine and the life of the Christian faith.

Revolution, was on our flags, revolution, was on our faces. We have experienced, what others don't even think, revolution, we did not want less. That was not so long ago, but today you don't know me anymore. We have dreamed of a better world, we have imagined it so simply. We have dreamed, it was a long night, I wish we did never wake up. Revolution, we wanted to get away from the crowd, headfirst into hell and back. Today you work at the supermarket checkout, there is no more desire in your eyes. You say you just do what you can, and you are fine, you make me puke. We have dreamed of a better world, we have imagined it so simply. Nothing is so disgusting as respect based on fear. [rule by fear, reign of terror, the real terrorists] Hypocritical injustice gives rise to wars, violent justice rushes into wars. Cruelty causes outrage, stupidity causes discouragement. Most great actions, most great thoughts, have a ridiculous beginning. What is a human in revolt? A human who says no. Art and revolt will only die with the last human. The order of the day is: The will to justice must replace the will to power. Life is short and wasting your time is a sin. Sin is waiting for a second life, and running away from the first life and its merciless greatness. don't wait for the Last Judgment, it happens every day. Wholeness does not need rules. Politics and the future are shaped by people without ideas, without greatness ... People with greatness avoid politics. Losing life is no big deal, but watching the meaning of life being dissolved is unbearable. [quick death versus slow death] The fear of death is a fact, but the fact is also: This fear (no matter how great it may be) has never been strong enough, to suppress human desire. An exaggerated virtue is: killing one's passions, a deeper virtue is: bringing one's passions into balance. At the heart of a work, even when it is dark, an unfading sun shines. To condemn someone means, to not understand him. First you seek justice, and finally you organize a police force. All modern revolutions lead to more government. Every revolutionary ends up as a tyrant or traitor. Art is similar to shame, it can not say things directly. It is only late that you have the courage to do what you know. — Albert Camus [M4?]

They say, the world is about to end ... I say fuck it! We all deserve to die! ... Let's fuck the world with all it is trend, they say it is all about to end. ...

There's a prison that is gone but the fear lives on, I watch you walk on the dotted line. Maybe you don't see what's in front of me, maybe you won't stand the test of time. ... I fall in love with the old times, I never mention my own mind. Let's fuck the world with all it is trend, thank god it is all about to end. — Scars On Broadway - They Say

The great Alexander's empire collapsed, the empire of the ancient Romans and the empire of Napoleon fell into ruins, they were built on the power of weapons. But the Empire of New Rome has existed for almost 1500 years and will last for who knows how long, because it rests on the most solid foundation: the stupidity of humans.

— Otto von Corvin

Chapter I: Organizing Chaos

The conscious and intelligent manipulation of the organized habits and opinions of the masses is an important element in democratic society. Those who manipulate this unseen mechanism of society constitute an invisible government which is the true ruling power of our country. We are governed, our minds are molded, our tastes formed, our ideas suggested, largely by men we have never heard of. This is a logical result of the way in which our democratic society is organized. Vast numbers of human beings must cooperate in this manner if they are to live together as a smoothly functioning society.

Our invisible governors are, in many cases, unaware of the identity of their fellow members in the inner cabinet.

They govern us by their qualities of natural leadership, their ability to supply needed ideas and by their key position in the social structure. Whatever attitude one chooses to take toward this condition, it remains a fact that in almost every act of our daily lives, whether in the sphere of politics or business, in our social conduct or our ethical thinking, we are dominated by the relatively small number of persons who understand the mental processes and social patterns of the masses. It is they who pull the wires which control the public mind, who harness old social forces and contrive new ways to bind and guide the world.

It is not usually realized how necessary these invisible governors are to the orderly functioning of our group life. In theory, every citizen may vote for whom he pleases. Our Constitution does not envisage political parties as part of the mechanism of government, and its framers seem not to have pictured to themselves the existence in our national politics of anything like the modern political machine. But the American voters soon found that without organization and direction, their individual votes (cast perhaps for dozens or hundreds of candidates) would produce nothing but confusion. Invisible government, in the shape of rudimentary political parties, arose almost overnight. Ever since then we have agreed, for the sake of simplicity and practicality, that party machines should narrow down the field of choice to two candidates, or at most three or four. [narrow solution space, gross simplification]

In theory, every citizen makes up his mind on public questions and matters of private conduct. In practice, if all men had to study for themselves the abstruse economic, political, and ethical data involved in every question, they would find it impossible to come to a conclusion about anything. [most people are incapable of making decisions] We have voluntarily agreed to let an invisible government sift the data and high-spot the outstanding issues so that our field of choice shall be narrowed to practical proportions.

Religion is: true for the people, false for the wise, useful for the rulers.
The five hallmarks of the Roman decaying culture: Concern with displaying affluence instead of building wealth. Obsession with sex and perversions of Griffin: And yet, these people have been programmed and, as you say, emplaced [in positions of power], and who are favorable to an opening with the Soviet concept. These are the very people, who would be marked for extermination in this country?

Bezmenov: Most of them, yes. Simply because the psychological shock, when they see in the future, what the beautiful society of "equality" and "social justice" means in practice, obviously they will revolt. They will be very unhappy, frustrated people. And the Marxist-Leninist regime does not tolerate these people. Obviously, they will join the links of dissenters and dissidents. Unlike in the present United States, there will be no place for dissent in future Marxist-Leninist America. Here you can get popular like Daniel Ellsberg, and filthy-rich like Jane Fonda, for being a dissident, for criticizing your Pentagon. In the future, these people will simply be squashed like cockroaches. Nobody will pay them anything for their beautiful, noble ideas of equality. This they don't understand, and it will be a great shock for them, of course. The demoralization process in the United States is basically completed already. For the last twenty-five years... actually, it's over-fulfilled, because demoralization now reaches such areas, where previously not even Comrade Andropov and all his experts would even dream of such a tremendous success. Most of it is done by Americans to Americans, thanks to a lack of moral standards. As I mentioned before, exposure to true information does not matter anymore. A person who is demoralized is unable to assess true information. The facts tell nothing to him. Even if I shower him with information, with authentic proof, with documents, with pictures. Even if I take him by force to the Soviet Union, and show him a concentration camp, he will refuse to believe it, until he is going to receive a kick in his fat bottom. Only when the military boot crushes his balls, then he will understand, but not before that. That is the tragedy of the situation of demoralization. So basically, America is stuck with demoralization. And even if you start right now, here, this minute, you start educating a new generation of Americans. It will still take you fifteen to twenty years, to turn the tide of the ideological perception of reality back to normalcy and patriotism. — Yuri Bezmenov - Ideological Subversion, 1984, Ex KGB Agent

The useful idiots (the leftists, who are idealistically believing in the beauty of socialist, or communist, or whatever system) when they get disillusioned, they become the worst enemies. That's why my KGB instructors specifically made the point: "Never bother with leftists. Forget about these political prostitutes. Aim higher." This was my instruction. Try to get into large-circulation, established conservative media, to reach filthy-rich movie makers, intellectuals, so-called "academic" circles. Cynical, egocentric people who can look into your eyes, with angelic expressions, and tell you a lie. These are the most recruitable people: people who lack moral principles, who are either too greedy, or suffer from self-importance. They feel that they matter a lot. These are the people whom the KGB wanted very much to recruit.

Griffin asks about these useful idiots being killed: But to eliminate the others, to execute the others. don't they serve some purpose? Would not they be the ones to rely on?

Bezmenov: No. The useful idiots serve their purpose only at the stage of the destabilization of a nation. For example, your leftists in United States. All these professors, and all these beautiful civil rights defenders, they are instrumental in the process of the subversion, only to destabilize the nation. When the job is complete, they are not needed anymore. They know too much. Some of them, when they get disillusioned, when they see that Marxist-Leninists have come to power, obviously they get offended.

They think that they will come to power, but of course, that will never happen. They will be lined up against the wall and shot. — Yuri

Bezmenov - Ideological Subversion, 1984, Ex KGB Agent

The theory of subversion goes all the way back, 2500 years ago. The first human being, who formulated the tactics of subversion, was a Chinese philosopher by the name of Sun Tzu. He was an advisor for several imperial courts in ancient China, and he said, after long meditation, that, to implement state policy in a warlike manner, it's the most counterproductive, barbaric and inefficient to fight on a battlefield. You know that, war is continuation of state policy, right? So if you want to successfully implement your state policy, and you start fighting, this is the most idiotic way to do it. The highest art of warfare, is not to fight at all, but to subvert anything of value in the country of your enemy, until such time, that the perception of reality of your enemy is screwed up, to such an extent, that he does not perceive you as an enemy, and that your system, your civilization, and your for ambitions, look to your enemy as an alternative, if not desirable, then at least visible. "Better red than dead." That's the ultimate purpose, the final stage of subversion, after which you can simply take your enemy, without a single shot being fired, if the subversion is successful. The basics of subversion is being taught to every student of KGB school in USSR and to officers of military academies. This book is forced to every student in USSR, every student, who is taught to be dealing with foreigners further in his future career. — Yuri Bezmenov - Ideological Subversion, 1984, Ex KGB agent

If there was one physical subject, one material subject that we should focus on in my opinion, it is very clear that the head of the snake is the financial system.

We can argue till the end of time about who runs the world, is it the Jesuits, is it the reptilians, is it the Illuminati, is it the Freemasons, we can go on and on and on and on about this. But, I don't think it is reasonable to even begin arguing about the mechanism that is used to exert this control. The mechanism is finance. The whole point of finance is to indebt, otherwise to enslave.

What is a mortgage? I mean what does that stand for? It's a death grip. So, when you get a mortgage, you have a death grip held over you, because you are in debt, you don't even own the house, the bank owns the house, that loans you the money to buy the house, unless you're fortunate enough to have all the money to buy it outright, and even then you can be taxed by the government, and if you fail to keep up with those taxes, the government can then take it from you.

The whole system is based on a financial fraud, which effectively takes the power that we have and it gives it to a tiny group of individuals, who are running the world through the control of Finance.

With the infinite supply of money that we have allowed them to take, they have literally an infinite supply of money, and with that money, and from their psychopathic point of view, they have bought everything and everyone who can be bought.

So those of us who cannot be bought, because we operate on a level that goes way beyond the material, we are not rewarded for such behavior, we are punished for such behavior.

— Ken O'Keefe - A Brief Philosophy - Open Mind Conference - Copenhagen Denmark 2015

[money rules the world, financial system, modern slavery, inflation, fiat money]

In the war of the wolves and the sheep, what if the sheep started winning? Without the wolves, there is only decadence and degeneration. Without the wolves to control mediocrity, mediocrity grows exponentially.

Without the strong, the weak will reproduce more and more, and eventually, there will only be weakness, mediocrity. An inability, an impossibility, to achieve anything great and glorious.

The strangest war is being fought. It is a war to destroy human intelligence and human strength. This war says that wolves must be exterminated, or made into non-wolves, by taming them. And then they can become ... pets. They want to make the intelligent stupid. They want to make the strong weak. But they don't know what they are doing.

Nietzsche talked about "good and bad" in the context of nobility. The nobles regarded the exceptional as good, and the mediocre as bad. When the "good and bad" of the nobility was replaced by the "good and evil" of the mob, exceptionalism was declared evil, and mediocrity was sanctified. The holy mediocrities are now everywhere. The kingdom of mediocrity is absolute... absolute shit!

We are the Overcomers, the Overmen, not the Last Men. The Last Men want a petty, trivial, comfortable world without any suffering. Fuck them! The task is not to eliminate suffering, but to sublimate it. All people who accomplish anything great, impose tremendous discipline, suffering, and hardship on themselves. They deny themselves an easy, hedonistic life. They train hard, study hard, try hard, make tremendous sacrifices. They are certainly not in the Last Man game of removing suffering from their life.

They don't want to end suffering. They want to use suffering to develop. The happiness equation seems to be: "be stupid, unconscious, and a slave to God. Then God will love you and everything will be perfect." It is amazing how many people love that equation. It is basically the equation that rules the lives of dogs! If you want to keep your freedom, then you must kill God! That is the only way. God must die, so that God may live, the new God. To repeat: God is dead, long live the new God.

Veganism is merely the continuation of Christianity by other means. It is the Sermon on the Mount [by Jesus of Nazareth], extended from the poor, weak and meek to animals. It gives every vegan the opportunity to posture as a Messiah, saving the poor little animals from Leviathan. Vegans are addicted to having a Messiah Complex. The powerless often posture as activists on behalf of the even more powerless. It makes them feel better about themselves.

Look at a dog on a leash. This monstrous, abject "pet" used to be a magnificent, powerful, proud wolf. Now it is a joke. That is what human interference with carnivorous nature achieves: the opposite of evolution, the removal of animals from vibrant nature, to make them pathetic, enfeebled playthings and projections of human beings, with all their crazy neuroses and subjective mental traumas. The example of dogs should provide a horrific warning from history of how strong animals can be turned by humans into the most pathetic creatures.

When you see someone attacking Plato, and many people do, you should understand that these people are defenders of psychopathy, especially of unrestricted libertarianism, a psychopath's dream. They hate Plato, and accuse him of being a totalitarian and fascist. Why? Because he was prepared to use the awesome power of the State, to ensure that undesirables did not prosper, and certainly did not get to the top of society. All the opponents of Plato are extremist anti-Statists, whether they are anarchists, libertarians, predatory capitalists, free marketeers, liberals, or whatever. They are terrified of a designed, engineered society, where the benevolent, wise State seeks to create the optimized State, and where psychos don't get to weave their webs.

When Nietzsche said, "God is dead", he himself immediately replaced God with a new God, the Superman [Übermensch]. Who would bother with Nietzsche's philosophy, if he pronounced God dead and then hanged himself? Nietzsche immediately resurrected God, hence God was never dead. God is always ready to be re-expressed. It is not the concept of God that is wrong. The concept of the wrong God is wrong, wrongly defined and wrongly understood.

Civilizations always end when the wolves vanish. New cultures begin when new wolves start a new lupine era, full of strength and vigor.

Are you a lone wolf? Are you one of the wolf pack? Or are you part of the gang trying to tame all wolves?

Do you want to see the empire fall? When it no longer has any strength left, when mediocrities are in charge of everything, then the end is certain.

Hope. Pandora brought the jar with the evils and opened it. It was the gods' gift to man, on the outside a beautiful, enticing gift, called the "lucky jar". Then all the evils, those lively, winged beings, flew out of it. Since that time, they roam around and do harm to men by day and night. One single evil had not yet slipped out of the jar. As Zeus had wished, Pandora slammed the top down and it remained inside. So now man has the "lucky jar" in his house forever and thinks the world of the treasure. It is at his service; he reaches for it when he fancies it. For he does not know that that jar which Pandora brought was the jar of evils, and he takes the remaining evil for the greatest worldly good – it is hope. For Zeus did not want man to throw his life away, no matter how much the other evils might torment him, but rather to go on letting himself be tormented anew. To that end, he gives man hope: In truth, it is the most evil of evils because it prolongs man's torment.

[The Jewish Question]

Only knowledge of Judaism alone offers the key to understanding the inner and therefore real intentions of social democracy.

Anyone who knows the Jewish people, will have the blindfold of false ideas about the aim and meaning of this political party fall from their eyes, and the grinning face of Marxism will emerge from the haze and mist of social phrases. [...]

[The Jew as leader of the social democracy]

When I recognized the Jew for the first time in this way as the icy cold and shamelessly business-minded conductor of this outrageous vice operation of the product of the big city, a slight shiver ran down my spine.

But then it flared up.

Now I no longer avoided discussing the Jewish question, no, now I wanted it. But as I learned to look for the Jew in all areas of cultural and artistic life and its various expressions, I suddenly came across him in a place where I would least have expected him.

When I recognized the Jew as the leader of the social democracy, the blindfold began to fall from my eyes. This brought to an end a long inner struggle of the soul.

Already in my daily interactions with my work colleagues, I was struck by the astonishing versatility, with which [the Jews] took different positions on the same question, sometimes within a period of a few days, often just a few hours. It was difficult for me to understand how people who, when speaking to them alone, still had reasonable opinions, suddenly lost them, as soon as they came into the magic circle of the masses. It was often exhausting. If, after hours of persuasion, I was already convinced, that this time I had finally broken the ice or cleared up some nonsense and was already heartily happy about the success, then, to my dismay, I had to start all over again the next day; it had all been in vain. Like an eternal pendulum, the madness of their views seemed to swing back again and again. [...]

At that time, I was still childlike enough, to want to make clear to them the madness of their teaching, and, in my small circle, I talked my tongue sore and my throat hoarse, and thought that I had to succeed in convincing them of the destructiveness of their Marxist madness; But then I only achieved the opposite. It seemed, as if the increasing realization of the devastating impact of social democratic theories and their fulfillment, only served to strengthen their determinedness.

The more I argued with them, the more I got to know their dialectic [rhetoric]. First, they expected their opponent to be stupid, and then, when they could not find a way out, they simply played stupid themselves. If nothing was of any use, they did not understand properly or, having been put on the spot, they, immediately jumped to another topic [distracting from the topic], now brought up things that were self-evident, but the agreement of which they immediately transferred to totally different topics [chain of affirmation], and now, they, confronted with it again, they avoid the confrontation and don't know anything concrete. Wherever one attacked such an apostle, the hand was covered with jelly-like slime; it flowed through your fingers and divided, only to come together again in the next moment.

But if you really hit someone so devastatingly, that he, watched by other people, could no longer do anything else than agree, and if you believed, that you had made at least one step forward, then the next day you would be astonished. The Jew now did not remember the slightest thing about yesterday [dementia, forgetfulness], went on repeating his old nonsense, as if nothing had happened at all, and, when confronted with outrage, acted astonished, unable to remember anything at all, except for the correctness of his claims, which had already been proven the day before.

At times, I stood there paralyzed.

One did not know what to admire more, their eloquence, or their art of lying.

Slowly, I started to hate them.

["Jews" is a synonym for: exploiters, parasites, bloodsuckers, vampires, ticks, mafia, protection racketeers, robbers, enemies of the people, desk criminals, bureaucrats, administrators, white collar criminals, liars, gossips, deceivers, seducers, rhetoricians, sophists, ... so, competition for the government, because the government wants a monopoly on the exploitation of its slaves. Competition would reduce profits, so the upper class should stay small. The "religion" of Jews is just a sheepskin, a false flag that says: The Jews are "God's chosen people", who can enslave or exterminate all other peoples, who can decide over life and death. So when criminals want to pose as a "master race", they use such a "religion" as an excuse to look innocent. The problem is that the wolf is wearing sheep's clothing. The problem is that the pirate ship has a false flag. The problem is the lies.]

The Day Tapes.

Most people don't understand how governments operate, and even people in high positions in governments, including our own, don't really understand how and where decisions are made. People who really influence decisions are names that for the most part would be familiar to most of us [Rockefeller, Rothschild, Warburg, Lehman Brothers, Goldman Sachs, J.P. Morgan, Gates, Soros, Blackrock, UN, WHO, NATO, EU, ...]. They are not primarily people in public office, but people of prominence who are primarily known in their private occupations or private positions.

The upcoming changes are changes that are very surprising, and in some ways difficult for people to accept. People will must get used to the idea of change, so used to change, that they will be expecting change.

Nothing will be permanent. This is often successful in societies where people have no roots, but are passively willing to accept change, simply because it is all they have ever known. Change is to be anticipated and expected, and accepted, no questions asked.

Sadly, people are too trusting, people don't ask the right questions.

Everything has two purposes: One is the visible purpose, which will make it acceptable to people, and second is the real purpose, which will further the goals of the new system. There is just no other way.

The population is growing too fast. Numbers of people living at any one time on the planet must be limited, or we will run out of space to live. We will outgrow our food supply, and we will over-populate the world with our waste. Most people will be allowed to have only two babies. The zero population growth rate is 2.1 children per completed family.

The sex education is to get kids interested early, making the connection between sex and the need for contraception early in their lives, even before they become sexually active. Many cities in the United States have already set up school-based clinics [?] which are primarily contraception, birth control, population control clinics. The idea then is that the connection between sex and contraception, introduced and reinforced in school, would carry over into marriage.

We can cure almost every cancer right now. Information is on file in the Rockefeller Institute, if it is ever decided that it should be released. But consider: If people stop dying of cancer, how rapidly we would become overpopulated. Efforts at cancer treatment will be geared more toward comfort than cure. [painkillers, sedatives.] Ultimately, the cancer cures, which are hidden in the Rockefeller Institute, will come to light, because independent researchers will bring them out, despite the efforts to suppress them. But at least for now, letting people die of cancer is a good thing to do, because it will slow down the problem of overpopulation.

There is now a way to simulate a real heart attack. It can be used as a means of assassination. [directed energy weapons.]

People will have to eat right and exercise right, to live as long as before, but most people won't. Most people are too stupid or too lazy, so they will eat wrong and exercise wrong, so they will get sick and die early.

Something about diet information, about proper diet, will be widely available, but most people, particularly stupid people, who will have no right to continue living anyway, stupid people will ignore the advice, and just go on and eat what is convenient and tastes good. [comfort food.]

Religion is not necessarily bad. A lot of people seem to need religion, with it is mysteries and rituals, so they will have religion. But the major religions of today must be changed, because they are not compatible with the changes to come. The old religions will have to go, especially Christianity. Once the Roman Catholic Church is brought down, the rest of Christianity will follow easily. Then a new religion can be accepted for use all over the world.

[School will be a waste of time:] Kids will spend more time in schools, but in many schools, they will learn nothing. They will learn some things, but much less than before. Better schools in better areas with better people, their kids will learn more. We think we can push evolution. [social darwinism.] School will go all summer, and the summer school vacation will become a thing of the past. For most people, it will take longer to complete their education. A lot of school time will be just wasted time.

Studies will be concentrated in much greater depth, but narrowed. You will not have access to material in other fields, outside your own area of study. People will be very specialized in their own area of expertise, but they won't be able to get a broad education [not holistic], and won't be able to understand what is going on overall.

[Schools as the hub of the community:] Schools will become more important in people's overall life. Kids wanting any activities will be forced to get them through the school. There will be few opportunities outside. All activities will be planned, there will be no spontaneous activities among kids. [no private life. no direct democracy.]

Kids will feel, they must be part of something. Smart kids will learn how to cope with pressure and how to survive. There will be some help available to students in handling stress, but the unfit won't be able to make it. They will then move on to other things. [Drugs. stupid and happy.] Psychiatric services to help will be increased dramatically. Worthy people will be able to accept and benefit from that help. Unworthy people will be destroyed by that help.

[Censorship:] Some books will just disappear from the libraries, they will be stolen and hidden. Some books contain information or ideas, that should not be in public. Only some people will be allowed to own books. Some books will be made illegal.

Drug use will be increased. Alcohol use will be increased. Law enforcement efforts against drugs will be increased. On first hearing that, it sounds like a contradiction. Why should we increase drug abuse, and simultaneously increase law enforcement against drug abuse? But the idea is that, in part, the increased availability of drugs would provide a sort of "law of the jungle" whereby the weak and the unfit would be selected out.

Before the earth was overpopulated, there was a law of the jungle, where only the fittest survived. You had to be able to protect yourself against the elements and wild animals and disease, and if you were fit you survived. [natural selection. survival of the fittest.] But now we have become so civilized (we are over-civilized) and the unfit are enabled to survive only at the expense of those who are more fit.

The abuse of drugs then will restore, in a certain sense, the law of the jungle, and selection of the fittest for survival.

The same thing will happen with alcohol. Alcohol abuse will be both promoted and limited at the same time. The vulnerable and the weak would respond to the promotions, and therefore use and abuse more alcohol.

Eat more raw unprocessed foods: Heating food (cooking) kills essential nutrients and enzymes, losing many of the food's healthy nutritional benefits. Try to eat 75% raw foods, and 25% cooked foods. Eliminate foods that have been cooked, pasteurized, homogenized, or produced with synthetic pesticides, chemical fertilizers, industrial solvents, or chemical food additives. Avoid: packaged and processed foods, salt, sugar, flour, bread, pasta, coffee, tea, alcohol, most vegetable oils. Prefer: salads, raw vegetables, vegetable juices, fruits, nuts, mushrooms, olive oil, coconut oil, "super greens" powders, raw milk, raw eggs, dried meats. Raw foods are naturally high in nutrients, antioxidants, dietary fiber. Nutrients are destroyed by high temperatures. Only some foods get better when cooked: tomatoes, carrots. Use water to wash the raw foods before eating. Raw animal products are risky to eat, they can contain bacteria. Fresh raw eggs should be okay. Breuss Cancer Cure: 42-day fast in combination with special vegetable juices and teas. For patients with liver cancer, juices with beetroot, carrots, celeriac, black radish and potatoes. All vegetables must be organically grown, and sediments in juices must be removed. The maximum ingested amount of juice is 500 mL per day. Sugar is not allowed. Stop smoking tobacco. Get fresh air and exercise. Avoid water veins, because they are sources of ground radiation. Avoid insecticides. Fix your electrolyte levels: Calcium, Potassium, etc. Fix your micronutrient levels: Vitamin C, Vitamin D, Iodine, Magnesium, Zinc, Glutathione, Selenium, Sulfur, Niacin, etc. By: Rudolph Breuss (1950).

Vaccines are the backbone of the entire pharmaceutical industry. The vaccinated children become customers for life.

The money isn't really to be made in the vaccine industry. The money is made by Big Pharma, with all of the drugs that are given to treat all the illnesses, that are subsequent to the side effects of the vaccines.

If we could cut vaccination by 90 percent, and get everybody's Vitamin D levels up between 60 and 80 ng/dl, we wouldn't have this health care problem, that we have to tax everybody to death, to try to "take care" of people. People would be healthy.

Vitamin C synthesis in the human body.

The "vitamin C question" is another intelligence test, and there are several answers = suggested solutions = hypotheses.

The pharmaceutical industry and its many helpers believe: Every person only needs about 0.1 grams of vitamin C per day, and too much vitamin C is "useless and harmful". Problem: The pharmaceutical industry wants to make money, but vitamin C is a natural substance, and there are no patents on natural substances. Solution: The pharmaceutical industry sabotages any serious research into vitamin C, and anyone who believes in vitamin C is branded a heretic. (Conflict of interest. Profit from illness. Money rules the world.)

Some natural medicine practitioners believe that every human needs at least 5 grams of vitamin C per day, and even more when ill. Problem: If you eat too much vitamin C, you get diarrhea. Solution: Increase the dose until you reach "bowel tolerance", i.e. just before you get diarrhea, i.e. about 5 grams per day. Sounds logical: If my body lacks vitamin C, then I need to eat more vitamin C.

But the "bowel tolerance" of vitamin C is also a problem, because when you are ill, your body needs more than 5 grams per day. Example: Intravenous vitamin C is a natural therapy against viruses, bacteria, poisoning, cancer. Sources: Frederick Klenner, Linus Pauling. The therapeutic dose is around 20 to 100 grams of vitamin C per day, which is 1000 times more than the recommendation of the pharmaceutical industry. These vitamin C infusions are given for several days until the illness is gone. Problem: dependence on the syringe manufacturer. This method would not have worked a million years ago, because we only invented syringes 200 years ago, and there will be no syringes in a post-apocalyptic world either.

In addition to these two answers, there is a third answer. The other two answers are based on the assumption: Humans cannot make vitamin C themselves, because humans have a genetic defect, and this genetic defect prevents the conversion of glucose to vitamin C. But is that true? There are several contradictions:

1. Humans are the only mammals with this genetic defect. There are 5,000 species of mammals, so the probability is  $1/5,000 = 0.02$  percent. How much bad luck do you need? Example: Goats can produce an extremely high amount of vitamin C, around 10 grams per day (body weight 60kg), more when under stress or ill.
2. Small children can make vitamin C themselves, but lose this ability over time.
3. Some adults can make vitamin C themselves.
4. When supplemented with olive leaf extract and olive oil, the body can produce significantly more vitamin C.

So: Our vitamin C deficiency is an artificial problem (wrong upbringing, wrong personal hygiene, depopulation agenda) and not a natural constant (genetic defect) that we have to endure helplessly.

Solution: Eat more olive oil (Mediterranean diet), eat more raw food (around 75%), eat more bitter substances (olive leaves, grape seeds, herbs...

Optimum nutrition is the medicine of tomorrow.

I believe that you can, by taking some simple and inexpensive measures, extend your life and your years of well-being. My most important recommendation is that you take vitamins every day in optimum amounts, to supplement the vitamins you receive in your food.

Every ailment, every sickness and every disease can be traced back to an organic trace mineral deficiency. Provided one has the correct level of vitamin, mineral and nutritional input, the body can overcome disease.

No evidence compels the conclusion that the minimum required intake of any vitamin comes close to the optimum intake that sustains good health. [vitamin megadosing.]

If you take a reasonable amount of vitamin C regularly, the incidence of the common cold goes down. If you get a cold and start immediately, as soon as you start sneezing and sniffing, the cold just doesn't get going.

Do not let either the medical authorities or the politicians mislead you. Find out what the facts are, and make your own decisions about how to live a happy life and how to work for a better world.

Although physicians, as part of their training, are taught that the dosage of a drug that is prescribed for the patient must be very carefully determined and controlled, they seem to have difficulty in remembering that the same principle applies to the vitamins.

The way to get good ideas is to get lots of ideas and throw the bad ones away. If you want to have good ideas you must have many ideas. Most of them will be wrong, and what you have to learn is which ones to throw away. [expand and reduce. mutate and select.]

When an old and distinguished person speaks to you, listen to him carefully and with respect -- but do not believe him. Never put your trust into anything but your own intellect. Your elder, no matter whether he has gray hair or has lost his hair, no matter whether he is a Nobel laureate -- may be wrong. The world progresses, year by year, century by century, as the members of the younger generation find out what was wrong among the things that their elders said. So you must always be skeptical -- always think for yourself.

I think every person should be able to enjoy life. Try to decide what you most enjoy doing, and then look around to see if there is a job for which you could prepare yourself that would enable you to continue having this sort of joy.

Everyone should know that the 'war on cancer' is largely a fraud. Everyone should know that most cancer research is largely a fraud, and that the major cancer research organizations are derelict in their duties to the people who support them.

Every aspect of the world today - even politics and international relations - is affected by chemistry.

Science is the search for the truth -- it is not a game in which one tries to beat his opponent, to do harm to others.

There is no area of the world that should not be investigated by scientists. There will always remain some questions that have not been answered. In general, these are the questions that have not yet been posed.

There is no safe amount of radiation. Even small amounts do harm.

I try to identify myself with the atoms ... I ask what I would do If I were a carbon atom or a sodium atom.

You can learn more from dictionaries and encyclopaedias, than from a collection of post stamps.

The truly fraudulent claims must be discarded. But novel methods of therapy should not be rejected because they are novel, or because they run counter to some generally accepted belief, or because we do not understand the mechanism of the proposed treatment, or because it has come from an unconventional source.

Life is a relationship among molecules and not a property of any molecule. Men will gather knowledge no matter what the consequences. Science will go on whether we are pessimistic or optimistic, as I am. More interesting discoveries than we can imagine will be made, and I am awaiting them, full of curiosity and enthusiasm.

Do you know that most of us today are suffering from certain dangerous diet deficiencies which cannot be remedied until the depleted soils from which our foods come are brought into proper mineral balance? The alarming fact is that foods, fruits and vegetables and grains, now being raised on millions of acres of land that no longer contain enough of certain needed minerals, are starving us - no matter how much of them we eat! This talk about minerals is novel and quite startling. In fact, a realization of the importance of minerals in food is so new that the textbooks on nutritional dietetics contain very little about it. Nevertheless, it is something that concerns all of us, and the further we delve into it the more startling it becomes.

You would think, wouldn't you, that a carrot is a carrot - that one is about as good as another as far as nourishment is concerned? But it isn't; one carrot may look and taste like another and yet be lacking in the particular mineral element which our system requires and which carrots are supposed to contain. Laboratory tests prove that the fruits, the vegetables, the grains, the eggs, and even the milk and the meats of today are not what they were a few generations ago. No man of today can eat enough fruits and vegetables to supply his system with the minerals he requires for perfect health, because his stomach isn't big enough to hold them! And we are running to big stomachs.

No longer does a balanced and fully nourishing diet consist merely of so many calories or certain vitamins or a fixed proportion of starches, proteins, or carbohydrates. We now know that it must contain, in addition, something like a score of mineral salts.

It is bad news to learn from our leading authorities that 99 percent of the American people are deficient in these minerals, and that a marked deficiency in any one or more of the important minerals actually results in disease. Any upset of the balance, any considerable lack of one or another element, however microscopic the body requirement may be, and we sicken, suffer, shorten our lives. [minimum law. perfectionism.] This discovery is one of the latest and most important contributions of science to the problem of human health.

To learn who rules over you, simply find out who you are not allowed to criticize. — Kevin Alfred Strom, 1993

To determine the true rulers of any society, all you must do is ask yourself this question: Who is it that I am not permitted to criticize?

We all know who it is that we are not permitted to criticize. We all know who it is that it is a sin to criticize.

Sodomy [sex for fun] is no longer a sin in America. Treason, and burning and spitting and urinating on the American flag, is no longer a sin in America. Gross desecration of Catholic or Protestant religious symbols, is no longer a sin in America. Cop-killing is no longer a sin in America - it is celebrated in rap "music". The degradation of beautiful young girls in disgusting pornography, is no longer a sin in America. The killing by the multiple millions of the next generation in the womb, is no longer a sin in America.

But anti-semitism is the ultimate sin in America. But as things get worse and worse, we are losing our fear of this silly word. We all know who it is, that controls the wealth of our nation, through their exchanges and counting-houses in New York. We all know who it is, that has deformed the minds, of two generations of Americans with their television programs. Ladies and gentlemen, as powerful as these enemies of our nation are, and as much as they seem to command the wealth and power of the world, they are not invincible. Their evil designs run against nature, and whatever goes against nature and nature's god, must ultimately fail. They are only men, and there are far fewer of them, than there are of decent Americans and Europeans, and those of our stock and our culture around the globe. Their international agreements and treaties, that are taking away our nation's independence and prosperity, are after all only words on a few pieces of paper, and will have no force whatever, once we awaken our people to their treachery. Their armies and secret police are only fools and mercenaries paid with paper money, paper money which only has value, because we are willing to trade our labor for it. Many of these fools will wake up and will come over to our side, once we make them realize how they are being used. [optimistic...]

don't listen to those who beguile you with easy solutions, and entrap you into a populist or conservative playpen, where the real life and death issues are carefully avoided. don't listen to those who would trick, sidetrack, and discredit you, with crack-brained theories of lost tribes, Rosicrucians, UFOs or free energy, for there are many such charlatans on the fringes of the patriot movement. If you are to be a participant in the battle, to restore our freedom and secure the existence of White children on this planet, you must educate yourself and become knowledgeable. [self-study. autodidact.] You must consecrate your life and your fortune, and the spiritual power that resides within your breast, to this, our holy cause. You must support the efforts of those, who are awakening our people to their danger.

Freedom of the press is the freedom of 200 rich people to spread their opinions. Who is rich, is free. The problem is that the owners of the newspapers are giving the editors less and less freedom, and are increasingly imposing their will on them. As the production of newspapers and books requires ever greater capital, the circle of people who publish press organs is becoming smaller and smaller. This means our dependency is becoming ever greater and more dangerous.

The university intellectuals also play an important role in carrying out the System's trick. Though they like to fancy themselves independent thinkers, the intellectuals are (allowing for individual exceptions) the most oversocialized, the most conformist, the tamest and most domesticated, the most pampered, dependent, and spineless group in America today. As a result, their impulse to rebel is particularly strong. But, because they are incapable of independent thought, real rebellion is impossible for them. The Württemberg example shows how much the suppression of books and ideas is in harmony with the assertion of the prevailing claims to power. In 1522, the then Habsburg governor Wilhelm von Waldburg, in execution of the Edict of Worms, banned all Protestant writings, in particular the works of Luther and Zwingli, which were described as heretical writings, but also those of the Anabaptists. After a change of power at the head of the Württemberg court, the censorship tables turned. As the first Protestant ruler, Duke Ulrich had Catholic writings monitored, and Jesuit works in particular suppressed. ...

In particular, Anabaptists, who were on the side of the great peasant uprisings throughout Germany in those years, were viewed as archenemies by the Catholic clergy and the court of Vienna. Their writings were among the most despised, and their preachers, like Balthasar Hubmaier, often ended up at the burning stake. In 1528, a Viennese bookseller even paid with his life because he was repeatedly caught selling illegal books. As it says in the first standard work in German censorship history, the "index of illegal books", published in 1883, he was beheaded. The same fate befell the book printer and dealer Johann Herrgott from Nuremberg. In addition to reprints of Thomas Müntzer's "Expressed Exposure" and Luther's writings Herrgott is also considered the author of a social-revolutionary pamphlet entitled "On the New Transformation of a Christian Life." In it he advocates the equality of all people and for a fair distribution of all goods on the basis of common property, "so that no human will have it better than the other." On May 20, 1527, Herrgott was beheaded with a sword on the market square in Leipzig because of printing heretical writings (and probably also because of his social-utopian sentiments).

The "Religious Peace of Augsburg" concluded between the emperor and the imperial estates in September 1555 secured the Protestant princes' possessions and, through the now famous formula "cuius regio, eius religio", also the free practice of religion. This was not accompanied by tolerance towards people of other faiths. Rather, each ruler could decide the religion of his subjects. ...

Heretical writers were included in the index and were subject to church censorship, reading their books was considered a serious sin, in some cases a mortal sin. The censorship list also included immoral and obscene texts, as well as anything that church leaders viewed as truth-telling or magic. ...

With the church's loss of social influence from the 18th century onwards, the failure of this type of censorship became more and more obvious. Some publishers discovered the advertising effect of the ban and had the phrase "banned by the holy office" printed on the book cover. ... [today: "Parental Advisory: Explicit Content", "banned by youtube"] Mandatory imprint from 1530. The printer and the place of printing had to be stated on the title page, to make it easier to track down unwanted products. ...

Over the course of the 16th century, the secular rulers gradually took over the helm of censorship from the hands of the popes. ...

Interpreted in terms of cultural history, this epochal change can also be understood as the rise of ratio (reason) over confessio (faith). Step by step, "morality took the place of religion" ...

The absolutist claim to monopoly, well understood as given by God's grace, is also reflected in the censorship process. Imperial edicts and police regulations increasingly took the place of bans by churches and excommunications by popes, although the latter remained in place. Parallel to the increasing tolerance in matters of faith, political intolerance was growing. ...

Censorship in the Age of Enlightenment ...

The goals of censorship measures also changed, as rational thinking became more important. Now, the main goal was no longer the banning of writings that were harmful to morals, theology or reason of the state, to maintain the image of the purity of God and the prince, as was claimed. Now the battle for having the last word began creeping into the censorship process. Printing bans became (depending on the political orientation) an "instrument of enlightenment or counter-enlightenment controlled by the authorities". It can be observed that even in enlightened circles, censorship was considered necessary, with the idea to avoid a return to the dark times of human stupidity. The freedom of the press, which was promised by the highest ranks, often went hand in hand with publication bans for anti-enlightenment voices. — Hannes Hofbauer - Zensur (2022)

JARED: Ben Rickert was a former trader in Singapore for Chase, who quit the whole game in disgust. He happened to be Jamie's neighbor when they were in Colorado, and they met walking dogs. But Ben was dark. He didn't just think the whole system would fail. He thought the whole world was going down.

BEN: Every one of these vegetables is fresh from my garden. You guys should start your own garden. What you got to do is get your soil off the petrochemicals. I used wood ash and urine to help restore the soil. It creates ammonium nitrate. Seeds are gonna be the new currency. And not those Franken-seeds from Monsanto. I'm talking about good, healthy, organic seeds. [heirloom seeds, old varieties] Make yourself a garden! Learn to live off the land.

Against stupidity helps only violence.

So many people around me, and still I feel lonely. Only have love for money, because love for bitches fails. ... In my head I see people, who are close to me dying, everything turns gray and then red, the whole earth is burning. You are looking for happiness in love, I have different values. ...

If you wanna find some quality friends, you gotta wait through all the dicks first. — Cartman, South Park - Chatroulette Cartman: Hey dudes. Kyle: What's the matter, Cartman? C: It's this V-chip, I hate it, I can't say any dirty words. K: Really? So you can't say "fuck"? C: No. K: And you can't say "shit"? C: No. K: So you can't say, "I'm Eric Cartman, the fattest fucking piece of shit in the world"? C: Fuck you...

Aaaah! (Cartman gets an electroshock from the V-chip.) K: Dude, sweet!
Stan: Come on you guys, this has gone far enough, it's time we talked to our moms. K: We're supposed to be grounded in our rooms. S: Come on Kyle, it's time for us to get political. — Stan, South Park - Bigger, longer and uncut (1999)

(at school.)

Garrison: Okay kids, let's take our seats. There has been a change in school policy and so I am assigning you all a book to read.

Cartman: Aw, a book? God, I hate those.

Garrison: Now kids, this book is very controversial and has just been taken off the banned books list.

Cartman: Oh really? Sweet!

Garrison: It's called "Catcher in the Rye", and it has some very risky parts.

Stan: Alright!

Garrison: And strong, vulgar language.

Kenny: Awesome, dude!

Garrison: And in fact, many schools across the country still ban this book because it's thought to be so inappropriate.

Cartman: Oh man, I can't wait!

Garrison: Tonight I want you to read chapters one through five, and tomorrow we will discuss the...

Cartman: No no, come on, let's read it now!

Kyle: Mr. Garrison, didn't the guy who shot John Lennon say it was because of this book?

Garrison: Yes, apparently John Lennon's killer said he was inspired by "Catcher in the Rye". But he was just a kook.

Cartman: Woa, you're telling us this book is filthy, inappropriate, and made a guy shoot the king of hippies? Can we please read this right now?

Garrison: You will read it at home, and you will all be mature about its adult themes and language.

Kids: Aah!

(at home of Stan.)

Stan: Did you get to any dirty parts yet?

Kyle: No. It's still just some whiny annoying teenager, talking about how lame he is.

Stan: I don't get it, dude. What's so controversial about this? All he's done is said "shit" and "fuck" a few times.

Kyle: I know. I'm almost at the end, and there's nothing.

Cartman: Motherfucker! The whole thing. I read the whole fucking thing! I kept thinking, alright, I guess the cool offensive stuff must be coming, and then after like a hundred pages, I was like, alright, I guess all the dirty stuff is at the end. And then I got to the last page. And I was all, what the fuck is this? I just read a book! For nothing!

Kyle: Why the hell was this book banned?

Cartman: They fucking tricked us, that's what they did! Tricked us into reading a book by enticing us with promises of vulgarity.

Kenny: Dude, what the fuck is so dirty about this piece of shit?

Cartman: We know, we were just saying that!

Stan: Why would anybody think this book is obscene or dangerous? (at home of Butters.)

Butters: Kill John Lennon! Kill John Lennon! Kill John Lennon! Kill John Lennon!

Butters' dad: John Lennon's dead, Butters.

Butters: Aw, dangit.

(at home of Stan.)

Kyle: Dude, some people really do consider this obscene!

Cartman: It's not obscene, dude. I'll show them fucking obscene.

Cartman: Yeah, we could get a book banned way more than this one.

Kyle: Yeah, sweet!

Kenny: Awesome!

Kyle: "The Tale of..."

Cartman: "The Tale of Scrotie McDick'n'Ass."

Kenny: No no, "Scrotie McBooger-Balls".

Kyle: Oh that's good! Alright, "Chapter one..."

(The boys keep writing the book.)

(Stan's mom finds the book.)

Sharon: "The Tale of Scrotie McBooger-Balls"? "It was a warm summer morning when Scrotie McBooger-Balls awoke to find his..." Ew! "He took a..." what? Oh. Oh! Oh my god! "He then grabbed his dog's..." (puking) Oh, oh my god! "Walking out of his house he spotted a bloody and pus-covered..." (puking) No! No! (puking) No... no!

(Sharon goes to Randy.)

Sharon: Randy? Randy! Randy, you need to read this!

Randy: Read what?

Sharon: This book! Our son and his friends wrote it!

Randy: So?

So...? Randy, it's... It's... It's really good.

Randy: Huh?

I mean it's disgusting. It's the most disgusting thing I've ever read, but... the plot is amazing! And the characters are so... vivid.

Randy: "It was a warm summer morning when Scrotie McBooger-Balls awoke to find..." Ew! Sharon, gross!

Sharon: No, no, just keep reading!

Randy: "He took a... and then..." Oh, man! Oh! This... (puking)

Sharon: I know! I know, Randy, but trust me, you gotta push through to the end.

Randy: No, no! That's just wrong!

Sharon: Randy, please! You've got to listen to me!

Randy: "Walking out of the house he found a bloody, pus-filled..." What?

"Which he immediately stuck up his infected..." (puking)

(Randy gets to the end of the book.)

Randy: "That was all long ago, in some brief lost spring, in a place that is no more. In that hour, the vag-frogs begin, and the scent of Scrotie's infected anus comes strongest." Oh. Oh, man.

Sharon: Well?

Randy: It's... It's awesome. Sharon, it's the best book I've ever read.

Sharon: Right? It's not just me!

Randy: No, it's... I mean, the whole part about Amsterdam, wow!

Sharon: What do we do, Randy?

We can't support our son talking like this, but I mean...

Sharon: No, I know... people need to read this book, Sharon.

This is... This is Pulitzer Prize stuff.

Where you going? You leaving? I'm sorry, did I offend you? Where did I lose you, honey? So you've been okay with the "fuck everyone to death", all the Muslim and Mexican shit, but fingers in the ass did it for you? Cool, just wanted to see where your line was.

I don't have to tell you things are bad. Everybody knows things are bad. It's a depression. Everybody's out of work, or scared of losing their job. The dollar buys a nickel's worth. Banks are going bust. Shopkeepers keep a gun under the counter. Punks are running wild in the street. And there is nobody anywhere who seems to know what to do, and there is no end to it. We know the air is unfit to breathe and our food is unfit to eat. And we sit watching our TVs while some local newscaster tells us that today we had fifteen homicides and sixty-three violent crimes, as if that is the way it is supposed to be!

We all know things are bad, worse than bad, they're crazy. It's like everything everywhere is going crazy, so we don't go out any more. We sit in the house, and slowly the world we're living in is getting smaller, and all we say is "Please, at least leave us alone in our living rooms. Let me have my toaster and my TV and my steel-belted radials, and I won't say anything. Just leave us alone."

Well, I am not going to leave you alone. I want you to get mad! I don't want you to protest. I don't want you to riot. I don't want you to write to your Congressman, because I wouldn't know what to tell you to write. I don't know what to do about the depression and the inflation and the Russians and the crime in the street.

All I know is that first, you've got to get mad. You have to say "I am a human being, goddammit! My life has value!" So, I want you to get up now. I want all of you to get up out of your chairs. I want you to get up right now and go to the window, open it, and stick your head out and yell, "I am as mad as hell, and I am not going to take this anymore!"

— The Network (1976)

Real power is achieved, when the ruling class controls the material essentials of life, granting and withholding them from the masses, as if they were privileges. — George Orwell

In accordance with the principles of Doublethink, it does not matter if the war is not real, or when it is that victory is not possible. The war is not meant to be won, it is meant to be continuous. The essential act of modern warfare is the destruction of the produce of human labor. A hierarchical society is only possible on the basis of poverty and ignorance. In principle, the war effort is always planned to keep society on the brink of starvation. The war is waged by the ruling group against its own subjects, and its object is not victory over Eurasia or Eastasia, but to keep the very structure of society intact. — George Orwell - 1984 (1948) (film version)

The industry has built this computer into my head, and since then, sometimes I have blurry vision, when there is something I should not see, but then I see it anyway. But when I then close my left eye, I can clearly see what is happening with my right eye.

[Part 1] I reduce myself to the minimum, even the doctors looked stupid, the patient knows about it, and remains silent despite hypnosis. Before they took me, I knew they were coming, now I sit in jail, being questioned every day. Because of bombs I built, they called me assassin, terrorist, enemy and traitor. But later people like me will rule you all, and so I tell myself every day, just don't lose faith. It is rap solitary confinement in a prison with no music, and I punch a hole into the cell for the beat. Then I start rapping until the guard shouts, he can box me like he wants, I keep saying I am tight. Yeah! So I carve the words into the wall, and as they see it, they break my hand. That is why I remember them, and train my memory, only what is not bad, becomes part of the rap legacy. All that is right, why am I in prison, Prince Pornobi-Wan Kenobi, last Jedi Knight. They put drugs in the air, and drugs in my food, and drugs in every record that they press.

Underground is medicine, rap antidepressants, against hip-hop HIV, also known as Viva. Who wants love songs, and who wants tight raps, I want out of this prison, my microphone, money and sex.

How can something so good be so wrong? Why is something so beautiful so bad? Why is there no love in the world? And why am I always right? The world is controlled by Rosicrucians and triads, mafioso major labels, militaries and syndicates. The Vatican is fighting a war over cocaine, against the CIA and Contras, and of course West Berlin. Adolf Hitler and his UFOs control the USA, Bill Gates is just a clone of Pablo Escobar.

It was precisely because I knew too much that I was imprisoned, but the fire inside me burns stronger every day. They said I was abnormal, because I ran out into the street, and rammed my penis right into girls' faces, who I did not even know, and because houses exploded, when members of my crew experimented with MCs. Once in prison, I mutate into a rap robot, killing major label MCs, and especially Dida Dodder. Children die every day, there are new wars, I see hatred and destruction, West Berlin, no love.

Censorship and trash television turned me into a psychopath, the records I listened to turned me into a mic soldier. And that is why now it is knockout time for you victims, the motto is "Hands off the mic or your head off!" MCs masturbate on my tapes and publish, the outpourings as cassettes, it is whack-rap satire. To be a pro I constantly need adversaries, look, Jason rides in with all pussy Pocahontas. Wonderbras and silicone should be mandatory for brains, because

Here comes anti against everything, I also distrust myself, the main thing is that you die, no matter by whose sword you fall. All hippies and losers go to the hip-hop labor camp, being "underground" means being dead, or war like Intifada. They have been trying for 10 years, to take money for breathing air, the sun is now deadly, and the system is to blame. When I was hunting for vitamins, I only came across rap bacteria. I am physically so burning, that the other MCs grill. Humanoids are looking for gods, and MCs are finding rap, my Bible has six words: "I am tight, you are wack!" Yeah, yeah, microcosm, rap soldiers, underground to the death, nigga! Yeah, yeah, we will kill you all, yeah! — Prinz Pi [M1] - Keine Liebe Fuck you all, you little asses, fuck you all, you make me sick. Fuck you!

Tired of the shit that I learned from the school, tired of the things that I dont wanna do. Pissed by the shit people want me to, I miss all the things that I used to do.

Why dont you asses not just leave? Set me free, just let me be. How I really gonna be? Excuse me, I see.

Im dealing with another fucking wannabe, youre trippin, youre gettin on my nerves. Now I really know what it takes to win a human's purse, too many haters all around and too much curse.

It stinks! What you do is right, what I do is wrong? I dont give a fuck, I just keep going on. My tongue is active, my shit is progressive, Im massive aggressive, for you too expensive.

Gotta stay passive, all that you do is annoying, you should find another employment. Looking at me, all you see is a foreigner, just another alien,

"Memento" is an reference to: Memento Mori = Remember: You will die, everything will die. What can you learn from the film Memento (2000)? Hold on to everything. Above all, hold on to what is volatile. So what is produced in working memory ("RAM") and can only be stored in the brain for a very short time, maybe for a minute. I can only hold a few pieces of content in my working memory at the same time, maybe 2 or 3. The more at a time, the more compactly I must represent them, for example only one word per piece of content. This is also a "memory technique": Say it in one word!

CO<sub>2</sub>PSEC: CO<sub>2</sub> emissions = People x Services x Energy per service x CO<sub>2</sub> per energy. The price of energy has come down over time. Really advanced civilization is based on advances in energy. The coal revolution fueled the Industrial Revolution, and even in the 1900s we have seen a very rapid decline in the price of electricity. In the interests of survival, Afro-Americans have always studied whiteness. There is a long tradition among them that the white race is a peculiar sort of social formation, one that depends on its members' willingness to conform to the institutions and behavior patterns that reproduce it. By the early 1900s... it was becoming commonplace in the academy to speak of race, along with class and gender, as a social construct....

In addition to the notion of race as a social construct, [an old friend, John Garvey, and I] shared another [notion], which we owed to the West Indian Marxist C.L.R. James: that ordinary Americans are drawn by the conditions of their lives [constructed] in two opposite directions, one that mirrors and reproduces the present society of competition and exploitation, and another that points toward a new society based on freely associated activity. We believed that this internal antagonism played itself out as a civil war within the white mind, between the desire of whites to wall themselves off from black Americans and their desire to overcome the boundaries that kept them apart. [Right versus Left]

John and I decided that it was time to launch a journal to document that civil war. The result was Race Traitor, whose first issue appeared in the fall of 1992 with the slogan "Treason to whiteness is loyalty to humanity" on its cover. The aim was to chronicle and analyze the making, remaking, and unmaking of whiteness. My book on the Irish [How the Irish Became White] was the story of how people for whom whiteness had no meaning learned its rules and adapted their behavior to take advantage of them; Race Traitor was an attempt to run the film backwards, to explore how people who had been brought up as white might become unwhite....

The goal of abolishing the white race is on its face so desirable that some may find it hard to believe that it could incur any opposition other than from committed white supremacists. Of course we expected bewilderment from people who still think of race as biology. [Right, Biological determinism, Naturalism] We frequently get letters accusing us of being "racists", just like the KKK [Ku Klux Klan], and have even been called a "hate group". ... Our standard response is to draw an analogy with anti-royalism: to oppose monarchy does not mean killing the king; it means getting rid of crowns, thrones, royal titles, etc....

Every group within white America has at one time or another advanced its particular and narrowly defined interests at the expense of black people as a race. That applies to labor unionists, ethnic groups, college students, schoolteachers, taxpayers, and white women. Race Traitor will not abandon its focus on whiteness, no matter how vehement the pleas and how virtuously oppressed those doing the pleading. The editors meant it when they replied to a reader, "Make no mistake about it: we intend to keep bashing the dead white males, and the live ones, and the females too, until the social construct known as 'the white race' is destroyed — not 'deconstructed' but destroyed."

I think there is a resurgence of anti-Semitism because at this point in time Europe has not yet learned how to be multicultural. ["all differences are learned / constructed"] And I think we are going to be part of the throes of that transformation, which must take place. [Why?] Europe is not going to be the monolithic societies they once were in the last century. Jews are going to be at the centre of that. [Why?] It's a huge transformation for Europe to make. They are now going into a multicultural mode, and Jews will be resented because of our leading role. But without that leading role and without that transformation, Europe will not survive. [Why?]

Jewish slave traders procured Black Africans by the tens of thousands and funnelled them to the plantations of South America and throughout the Caribbean. There remains no documented trace of protest over this behavior — it was a purely commercial venture with which Judaism did not interfere. [but today, Jews want to appear as friends of black people] Whether the local influence was Portuguese, Dutch or English, the Black man and woman fared the same. In Curaçao in the seventeenth century, as well as in the British colonies of Barbados and Jamaica in the eighteenth century, Jewish merchants played a major role in the slave trade. In fact, in all the American colonies, whether French, British, or Dutch, Jewish merchants frequently dominated.

But let's not forget the Jew. Anybody that gives even a just criticism of the Jew is instantly labeled antisemite. The Jew cries louder than anybody else if anybody criticizes him. You can tell the truth about any minority in America, but make a true observation about the Jew, and if it doesn't pat him on the back, then he uses his grip on the news media to label you antisemite. ... Who owns Hollywood? Who runs the garment industry ... ? [The Jew] never shows [the Negro] how to set up factories and hotels. Never advises him how to own what he wants. No, when there's something worth owning, the Jew's got it. Walk up and down in any Negro ghetto in America. Ninety percent of the worthwhile businesses you see are Jew-owned.
